Teachers Pass Pay Pact

Teachers in District 59 voted to accept a comprehensive services payment program yesterday, thus ending two months of negotiations between teachers and the administration.

The final vote on acceptance of the pay package was 303 yes, 51 no. The vote was considered a high percentage of the teachers according to Harlan Michaels of the negotiation team.

Of the district schools, only the teachers of Bryd School voted to reject the contract.

The contract means that the teachers and Dist. 59 officials have agreed that the Teachers' Counsel will be the sole bargaining agent for the teachers' salaries. This year's contract is the first such agreement between the teachers and the administration in Dist. 59 and will undoubtably set a precedent for future negotiations. The contract is in effect for one year.

QUESTIONS FROM the teachers about the contract centered around the "extended services" contract offered by the Dist. The contract provides for extra money for teachers who supervise extra curricular activities.

Michaels said 50 per cent of the staff will go on extended services with more contracts offered should further state aid to educations be realized.

The teachers seem to be fully behind the negotiated settlement saying it was "best for the whole District."

Salary schedules, under the contract, provide for 14 steps for a teacher in Dist. 59. A teacher with a Bachelor's degree has a starting salary of $7,000, increasing by steps to a ceiling of $14,145 for teachers with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours. Extended services offered to the teachers in each step is $300 per year.

UNDER THE provisions of the contract, some 20 per cent of the teachers receiving extended services contracts will be cut from the program. Although some fought the idea of such a cut in extended services, many others felt that the total pay package compensates for the reduction.

Other provisions in the contract call for the establishment of a "sick bank" in which the teachers will contribute one sick day for later use by any teacher with an emergency need.

Also in the accepted contract is a provision which allows the Teacher's Counsel an alleged grievance for any teacher claiming to be given an intolerable teaching load. An intolerable teaching load is defined by the Counsel as one that is severely in opposition to current educational research.

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer.

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter.

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war.

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern.

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it.

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh.

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing. A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Drug Ruling Upheld

ST. LOUIS — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld the awarding of $500,000 to a father whose son suffered permanent brain damage because of a drug innoculation.

The money had been awarded to Robert Stronsodt of Grand Forks, N.D., by U.S. District Court Judge Ronald Davies at Fargo, N.D. The decision went against Parke-Davis & Co., maker of the drug, quadrigen

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County.

ENTHUSIASTIC PARENTS, who sometimes became more excited than their children, lined the sidelines Saturday to root at a track meet at Elk Grove High School. The meet, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus and the park district, drew about 300 spectators who watched as fourth and fifth graders competed in the 30 and 60-yard dash, softball throw, standing long jump and sit-ups. Ridge Elementary School won the most points and the right to retain the traveling trophy.

Demos in Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to

Dist. 59 Is 'United'

Officials of School Dist. 59 have clarified their positions on controversial issues through two statements aimed at bringing harmony to the schools.

A release from members of the Dist. 59 Board of Education emphasizes that the board and the administration are in agreement over the basic objectives of the district.

"The board and the administration are united in their support for the current educational philosophy and programs. The board anticipates no changes in philosophy or direction and hopes to continue the present educational programs."

The statement apparently stems from the recent resignation of Supt. Donald Thomas.

"SCHOOL DIST. 59 is an excellent district," the statement says. "The board and the administration are united in supporting this excellence.

welfare of the district's children supersede

"Both believe that the education and all other considerations. They are united in doing all that is necessary to continue a program of quality service to every boy and girl.

"We believe that each person in the district is similarly committed to this philosophy. We seek your help and cooperation in uniting to support this position."

In another attempt to clarify the administration's position, a staff bulletin from Thomas is aimed at explaining the matter of alleged improper involvement in the state program for gifted children.

Thomas received criticism when he declared that false affidavits were signed by the administration to obtain state aid.

"MY STATEMENT made at the budget meeting of May 26 was not accurate," Thomas says in the bulletin. "No person this year, or in the past, has signed any affidavit falsely."

"The signed affidavits indicate a percentage of annual time administrators spent providing services to gifted children. It is difficult to accurately apportion administrative work time because of the many overlapping duties performed."

Thomas contends that the definition of a gifted child is such that students with interests from academics to basketball can qualify for that description. The superintendent said under the general description of gifted children districts may receive aid under a formula.

"By this method," Thomas said, "the state funds that are apportioned come to about $2 per child and may be used to defray all expenses of the gifted program. This method allows for more accuracy in administration. It is for this reason that this year we chose to switch our method of receiving reimbursement funds from the state.

"THE QUALITY of the extra services to gifted children during the past few years has been exceptionally high and the work of administrators involved in these programs has been excellent. My comments were not meant to reflect negatively upon our programs nor upon the personnel who supervise them. They were also not meant to cast doubt upon the honesty or sincerity of those individuals who signed time allocation affidavits.

"In the past the state has commended our district for its services to gifted children," Thomas concluded. "I hope our work will be such that we will continue to receive such recommendations."

Thomas' disclosures before the board's Budget Committee relative to the so-called false claims for state aid told of practices of claimed such aid which were common to other local school districts in addition to Dist. 59.

Local Father Is Candidate

The father of Scott Golbeck, 8, of 529 Germaine Lane, Elk Grove Village, has been named as one of 15 finalists in the 11th annual Chicago Area Father's Day Council search for Chicagoland's "Father of the Year."

Scott's father, Gilbert, is a shop foreman with Northlake Engineering, Addison. He is 42.

Gilbert became a finalist as a result of Scott's letter on why his dad should be "Father of the Year."

SCOTT, A third grader at Mark Hopkins School, was among the hundreds-of-thousands of students who wrote letters on their fathers. More than 2,000 schools participated.

Finalists will be awarded special honor plaques for their dads and tickets to a baseball double header in Chicago.

Before Father's Day, three of the 15 fathers will be selected to compete for the top prize, $300 in merchandise and a week's vacation in Washington, D.C.

Publisher Roe Becomes 13th Dist. Candidate

by MARTHA MOSER

Emphasizing greater people involvement in government and outlining concerns he would take to Congress, Hollister Newspapers' publisher David Roe announced his candidacy Monday for 13th District congressman

Roe joins six other Republican candidates in the Oct 7 GOP primary. A Nov. 25 special election will select a congressman to succeed Donald Rumsfeld, director of the U S Office of Economic Opportunity

Roe, 33, of Glenview, said he was entering the race because of a "deep desire to contribute to this country through government service." He spoke at a press conference in the Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect

HE CITED 10 YEARS of newspaper work in the 13th District as a background of awareness of problems He announced he is leaving Hollister, effective that day, to campaign. Roe mentioned 13th District problems cannot be packaged out of national issues.

"The important thing is what the district can contribute," he said on questioning. "I'd hope to bring an understanding of what the district wants to contribute."

He said his news record stands for support of what might be considered unpopular issues.

In a prepared speech, Roe said "Private citizens must contribute to government if our country is to respond effectively to the electorate."

"I INTEND TO CARRY into government my newspaper campaigns for greater government responsiveness to the people."

He listed measures he has supported to bring government to the electorate as: Open meetings of all governing bodies, greater public access to government information, strong conflict of interest laws, election reform, increased home rule, open primaries and fairer representation of suburbs through reapportionment.

He cited open space, public transportation, and environmental improvement as areas he will fight for.

Roe promised "no panaceas" to problems. While presenting well-prepared views on issues of Vietnam, ABM and welfare, he cautioned he would want to measure points of view and costs before deciding on particular courses of action.

THE CANDIDATE SAID he has been a resident of Lincolnshire in Lake County the last two years but is moving to his home in Glenview this week. He has been a New Trier Township resident most of his life, he said.

Roe joined Hollister Newspapers in 1959 and has seen the north shore chain of papers grow from six to 10. He became managing editor in 1960 at age 24, subsequently becoming associate editor, vice president and a member of the Hollister board of directors.

He joins in the Republican primary, the announced candidates of Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth, Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Alban Weber of Evanston and Bruce Ladd of Silver Springs, Md.

Others named by the Republican state Central Committee as possible candidates are Yale Roe (no relation to Monday's candidate), Mrs Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and John Nimrod of Skokie.

Thefts Plague Centex Park

by TOM JACKIMIEC

Construction is an ongoing thing in Elk Grove Village.

New buildings, homes and factories, are being built every day as the village heads toward becoming one of the largest in the Northwest suburbs.

Accompanying the industrial construction boon, however, is the increasing number of thefts in Centex Industrial Park.

All construction sites are subject to theft. And, there is a lot of it going around.

The police don't hear about all thefts — much of it is of the internal kind that is not made public.

Det. Ray Marinec of the police department said recently that anywhere equipment is left out of doors there is a chance of theft.

EQUIPMENT too heavy to be locked up at the end of the work day is an easy mark for thieves who know precisely what they want. It may be a cement mixer or tools left in the open.

Several months ago, Marinec said, a back-hoe tractor was stolen from a construction site. It was valued at about $10,000.

Though not all thefts are quite that big, they add up.

Marinec has a wide file filled with thefts which occurred in the first five months of 1969.

High on the list is player tapes, taken from cars parked in the many parking lots that fill the industrial park. Cars are an easy mark for even inexperienced thieves, especially when their contents make them enticing to strangers.

Clothing, citizens band radios and cameras have all been reported stolen from vehicles this year.

FROM CONSTRUCTION sites, thieves have taken everything from heavy machinery to scrap metal

Roofing materials frequently are in demand by thieves. They're taken easily enough, said Marinec. When they're delivered they're thrown off the truck and left for the next day, an easy target for thieves.

Other items that have disappeared from construction sites include a mortar mixer, heaters, chain hoists, building materials and machinery.

Many thefts go unreported because contractors simply do not bother, feeling that the effort will not result in the capture of the thief.

Marinec doesn't go along with this line of thought.

"Too many thefts are not reported immediately," he said. "If they were reported immediately we would be able to act faster.

"SAY A MACHINE was stolen the night before. We have men in squads partoling and taking down license plate numbers of suspicious cars If that plate registers to some one working in the industrial park we may have something," he said.

There's also the problem of identifying stolen goods that are recovered, explained Marinec "Sometimes you can't tell one set of tools from another."

He encouraged industries to take down the serial numbers on equipment. Workers should do likewise or at least make some type of permanent identifying mark on their tools.

"Without identification I can't prosecute," Marinec said.

What's the solution to curbing thefts in the industrial park?

Marinec places a lot of faith in having a uniformed police officer in a squad patrolling the area. It is a deterrent that is hard to beat, he said.

More police officers will do the job, he said, adding that the park has been lucky so far in that the police department has done a good job because of the aggressive work of patrolling officers.

Will Demos Stay in Shadow?

grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas"

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past"

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie -- a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep. Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

Much primary attention will paid to the Republicans' race with a field of at least eight candidates from the predominantly Republican district.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

Open Bridge Bids

Under criticism of trustee Gordon Jensen, Hanover Park Village Pres. Richard Baker opened three bids for the new bridge to be built across Longmeadow Lane, at Thursday's village board meeting.

Jensen felt that contractors did not have enough time to prepare proper bids for the structure. He reported that he saw only one notice of bid-letting, just two days before bid opening.

However, several village officials, including engineer Larry Grindel and clerk Elaine Mars said notice had been posted in another newspaper one or two weeks previously. But they had not received a copy of the ad from the publication.

Bidders for the bridge: Milan Construction of Algonquin, $32,950; Sodequist and Sons of Geneva, $35,200; Lakeland Construction of McHenry, $36,700.

GRINDEL SAID THE structural engineer's original estimate for the job was about $23,000, and later revised to approximately $32,000.

Jensen was appointed to a committee to study the bridge bids and either to recommend approval of one, or to resubmit the bids for new offers.

Baker reported that Astronaut Eugene Cernan of Bellwood had been invited to dedicate the bridge, but that no reply had yet been received from the moon voyager

Baker also promised that a policy would be established regarding length of time for publication of bid work for village projects.

Tool Theft Reported

Engagement Ring Off

The bride removes her engagement ring from the fourth finger of her left hand and places it on the right hand just before the wedding ceremony. This way, the wedding band, placed on the legendary vein of love finger, later is "kept" by the engagement band. In Colonial days, the engagement ring was called the "keeper ring."

CC Airs Pollution Complaint

Smoke pollution from the plant of the Television Manufacturers of America at 1020 Noel Ave., Wheeling, has resulted in a complaint from the village's Chamber of Commerce

Eugene Sackett, chamber president, has filed two complaints in the past week concerning the smoke with the Wheeling Police Dept.

Action on the complaints has been forwarded to Mrs. Jane Terbell, Village health officer.

Mrs. Terbell told the Herald Thursday that representatives of TMA were concerned about the smoke and planned to correct the situation.

She explained that the black smoke comes from an old incinerator used by the company. The company moved into town before the village regulated pollution, she explains, and it is currently investigating estimates on a carton crusher or an "after burn" device for the incinerator to eliminate the problem.

She explained that despite the complaints from the Chamber of Commerce no citations would be issued as long as the company was being cooperative in correcting the problem. The health officer said she planned to keep track of the company's progress toward solving the problem.

Survey Local Migrants

A survey of local migrants and their opinions of services offered them will be conducted by some 16 Presbyterian churches.

The survey will be taken by two bilingual researchers under the sponsorship of the Presbyterian Mission Council. The council represents Presbyterian churches in an area from Barrington and Wheeling to the northwest sections of Chicago.

Rev. Thomas Phillips of the Community Presbyterian Church of Mount Prospect, said the purpose of the survey is to give local churches information about the opinions and needs of migrants and Spanish speaking residents in general.

REV. PHILLIPS said no other church group is involved in the project to date, but information from Catholic organizations may be sought.

The survey will seek to ask what benefits Spanish speaking people are deriving from such projects as Headstart and from the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Betterman To Head Teachers

Merle Betterman, head of Arlington High School's practical arts division, will serve as president of the Dist. 214 Teachers Association during the coming school year.

Betterman a Mount Prospect resident, replaces Robert Staley of Arlington Heights, a Forest View English teacher.

Two of the other four Teachers Association officers — president-elect John Harth and Miss Lillian Callihan, recording secretary, are also instructors at Arlington High School.

Mrs. Margaret Cadle of Forest View will serve as corresponding secretary and Don Barrett of Forest View will serve as treasurer.

Betterman is in his seventh year as a Dist. 214 instructor and has a total of 18 years experience in the teaching field. He served as president-elect of the association this year and served as an elected member of the Teachers Association salary committee in 1967-68.

HARTH, IN LINE for the presidency of the Dist. 214 local in 1970-71, served for a time as an Illinois Education Association field representative.

Biafra Journal Given To Schools, College

Copies of Biafra Journal, Michael Mok's "somewhat fragmented and often angry" booklet on the Biafran-Nigerian civil war, have been donated to Harper Junior College and six area high schools by a college student group.

Tony Hinrichs, president of Harper College Students for Human Rights, said his group donated the books in an attempt to focus attention on "man's inhumanity to man."

The books went to Arlington Hersey and Forest View high schools, Arlington Heights; Elk Grove High School, Elk Grove Village; Wheeling High School, Wheeling, and Prospect High School, Mount Prospect.

Hinrichs said other churches or schools interested in receiving copies of Biafra Journal may call him at 253-2542.

The club sold copies of Biafra Journal this spring through the Harper College bookstore and donated proceeds to the Hike for the Hungry.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, June 10, the 161st day of 1969 with 204 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1898 United States Marines began the invasion of Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1940 Italian dictator Benito Mussolini declared war on France and Britain.

In 1942 the German Gestapo burned the tiny Czechoslovakian village of Lidice after shooting 173 men and deporting women and children to concentration camps.

In 1967 the Soviet Union broke diplomatic relations with Israel after Israel announced a major victory over Syria as both Mideast nations accepted a United Nations ceasefire.

A thought for the day: Aesop said, "Self conceit may lead to self-destruction."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Wins Art Award

A Rolling Meadows student who attends Forest View High School has copped one of the top prizes in the National Scholastic Arts awards contest.

She is Arlene Dul, 17 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Dul, 2207 Park St., Rolling Meadows.

Arlene's pencil drawing, given a Hallmark honor prize of $100 as well as a medal won in regional competition earlier this year at Randhurst, will be on display June 24 to July 15 in New York City as part of the national high school art exhibit.

Six other Forest View students who walked away with other scholastic art contest medals will also have their works on display at the same time, as will three students from Arlington High School, four from Prospect, and a student at Jack London Junior High School, Wheeling.

THE OTHER Forest View medal winners are Robert Berglund, Richard Church, Jeri Hansen, Harry Tulshin and Joe Messina — who won two prizes, one for sculpture and the other for a print entry.

Arlington's Scholastic Art medalists are Orchard Battistoni, Patrick DeJuiho and Gary Drake.

Prospect students winning medals in the arts contest were Pamela Edward and Patricia Holz.

Honorable mentions for their work went toTom Ryan, Prospect; Jeanne Bonneson a student at Jack London High School in Wheeling; Vince Sebastian, Messina and Miss Hansen, all of Forest View, and Gary Drake, Arlington.

Weiboldt's Randhurst store sponsored the local competition.

The competition operates under the auspices of Scholastic Magazines.

School Menus

The following lunches will be served Wednesday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

Dist. 15: Hamburger on a bun, julienne carrots, chilled fruit, milk.

Dist. 23: Spaghetti with meat sauce, vegetable salad, pan roll, butter, pudding, milk.

Dist. 25: Choice of meat balls over noodles or Italian sausage sandwich, French fries, cole slaw, half chilled pear, flying saucer cookie, milk.

Dist. 26: Hamburger on a bun, creamed corn, ketsup, mustard, chilled fruit, butterscotch pudding, milk.

The Way We See It

Need A Real Reform

An alternative to President Nixon's postal reform measure has been suggested by Cook County Comr Harry H Semrow, former postmaster of Chicago

Nixon proposed turning the postal system over to a publicly owned corporation This would remove its operation from the hands of politicians The postal authority would have power to determine rates needed to move various classes of mail, subject to Congressional veto but not the constant interference of Congress, as well as the right to select postmasters without regard to party

Semrow has suggested a plan to separate the letter delivery from bulk mail, with the latter delivered by a new U S. Shipping Corp. This new corporation would have the job of delivering flyers, magazines, packages, advertising material and similar matter

While the bulk mail would be delivered by a publicly owned corporation, letter delivery would continue in the hands of a cabinet-level federal agency Rep Roman Pucinski (D-Chicago) will introduce the Semrow proposal in Congress.

It may be desirable to separate delivery of letter delivery from bulk matter. But that hardly argues for delivery by two separate agencies organized according to different philosophies. Reorganization of rates does not require two agencies.

We think the Nixon plan makes better sense. What is needed is modern, efficient mail delivery with rates reflecting cost, not clout. The suggestion advanced by the President would accomplish those goals.

What's Your Obscenity Quotient?

One of the charges hurled by adults against college students is their frequent use of obscenities The elders may have to eat their words, oaths and all

The general impression that young people use more profanity than their parents is not substantiated by the latest intelligence on the subject

A psychologist at Wayne State University reports the results of a study on profanity. Adults salt their conversations with one shady word in 10, he said, compared with one out of 14 for college students. That should teach all of us a ?!%$"! lesson.

All We Heard Was The Fury

by ED MURNANE

It's unfortunate that the television, radio and metropolitan press coverage of last Saturday's McGovern Commission hearings in Chicago dealt exclusively with the verbal exchange between Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., the commission chairman, and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The clash — and it's really stretching it to call it that — lasted about nine or ten minutes. That was about one per cent of the entire day's hearings.

By treating the hearings the way they did, the metropolitan news media completely missed the real value of the day-long session.

Ed Murnane

ABOUT 20 witnesses were scheduled to testify before the commission to discuss ways in which the Democratic Party could open itself up to the people. In particular, party leaders formed the commission to evaluate ways in which delegates to the national convention are selected.

The witnesses included representatives of numerous well-known and not so well-known groups. The League of Women Voters was there, as was Operation Breadbasket and the Committeee for Illinois Government.

Augustus Savage, president of the Organization for Southeast Communities spoke, and so did the Young Democrats of Illinois and the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Mayor Daley, as one of the top ranking members of the Democratic Party, was extended an invitation to speak to the commission by Sen. McGovern shortly after the mayor entered the room.

DALEY MADE several proposals dealing with the party's selection of presidential candidates which should have been covered much better than they were.

They includeed a recommendation to urge all states to hold presidential primaries, that only candidates who have entered at least one-third of the primaries be considered for nomination, that all state caucuses at the convention be opened to presidential candidates, that all presidential candidates address the entire convention, and that the party's platform be prepared before the convention and submitted to delegates and the public for study.

Each of Daley's recommendations would have made a more "open" convention last year when Daley, and other top party leaders, were accused of choosing Hubert Humphrey long before the convention opened.

Yet the brief disagreement between Daley and McGovern was used by much of the press to indicate that the Democratic Party still is split right down the middle.

THAT KIND OF coverage was fair to no one — neither the mayor, whose proposals were ignored, nor the commission, which listened to dozens of worthwhile proposals.

It was also unfortunate that so few heard what so many had to say, specifically, that so few suburban Democratic leaders, who need more help than anyone, listened to the many suggestions.

Not one of the four Democratic committeemen from this area was seen at the hearings. (If they were there, unnoticed, they must have been hiding.)

By not attending, the local Democrats missed a chance to hear a lot of good suggestions which they better start to realize they need

by JAMES VESELY

When they sold me the house they never told us it was going to be like this

The real estate salesman had a smile as wide as the horizon when we signed the papers. "Congratulations," he said, "you've got a mighty fine house all your own." Then he snickered

We thought all along that a brand new house was like a brand new toaster. It's so new that all you have to do is plug it in and sit back and enjoy it

Well the only thing a new house has in common with a new toaster is that they are both shiny

AFTER TWO months it is clear that a new house requires a team of carpenters, electricians and plumbers to keep the place liveable

I don't mean to fault the builder We got a good house for the money It's just that nobody ever told us you have to work like a dog every minute

Nobody told us for example that when you buy carpeting none of the doors will close any more surfboards because they wouldn't fit under the door jams.

We had doors piled up in the kitchen like

The choice was either to have them cut by a carpenter or do it ourselves. Ever frugal, we invested in an $18 saw, just the thing to trim off a few doors.

NOBODY TOLD us cutting the bottoms from eight doors will mean working until midnight for a week

Then we got the doors confused and cut one of them twice. Now we have the handiest closet in town. The space above the rug is big enough to roll a bowling ball into the closet. And it's crooked, too.

Nobody ever told us about putting up a television antenna. We wanted to put one up in the loft, but it was so big we found out once we got it up there we couldn't move it around. So now we hope there are no good programs on Channel 5, because our antenna is just not pointing that way.

NOBODY EVER told us about connecting a washing machine. The first couple of times it ran, the water came gushing out like a fountain. Luckily, it was soapy water and we just did the floors while we were mopping up.

Nobody ever told us about storm windows. They get dirty all the time and you have to wash them. And when you try to get a big one down on a windy day it is like taking sail aboard some unmanageable beast.

And above all, nobody ever told us what a pleasure a house can be as you sit in the living room and drink a cup of coffee and think about what is real and yours.

Critic's Corner

Some News Is Really For The Birds

by BARRY SIGALE

I have received a few complaints from readers lately about the use of trivial bits of information that appear in Paddock Publications and other suburban newspapers.

Some police "news" also has come under attack as being too miniscule to be put in print. Such stories include a bat landing on a lawn in Rolling Meadows, or hub caps being swiped from an automobile, or a bicycle being stolen from a little boy.

But, as the man says, "You ain't read nothin' yet."

What we didn't tell you about is the "real" trivia that is happening in the Northwest suburbs. The stuff that life is made of. The kinds of things that would make a man say, "It's good to see the area isn't losing its wide open spaces look and falling prey to big buildings and air pollution."

LET'S TAKE THEM one by one.

A yellow-bellied warbler flew directly into a picture window of a woman's home in Arlington Heights. The bird couldn't walk after falling to the ground and police had to remove it.

A live bird was found in an exhaust fan in the basement of a home in Hoffman Estates.

A stray peacock, feathers and all, strolled by the interchange at Routes 53 and 58, directing traffic with its huge wing spread.

Do you want me to stop, yet? Here's more.

Three ducks took control of a busy intersection in Arlington Heights last month until their owner claimed them.

SOME KIDS destroyed a bird's nest and eggs in a tree in Hoffman Estates.

A drunken man in Palatine fell and cracked his skull.

A Schaumburg boy lost his balance while waiting his turn on the bench during a baseball game and fell on his face. He was rushed to the hospital with a cut lip and injured arm.

Then there was the classic one about an Arlington Heights woman who complained to police that her neighbors brought their dogs into her front yard to relieve themselves. She said she believes the reason they all came to her yard was because it was a corner lot and was an inviting lawn

These are just samplings of the nitty-gritty in the Northwest suburbs, things that affect your lives only if you are run over by some animal or don't erect signs saying, "No dogs allowed."

The Fence Post

Defense of Camp Fire Girls

This is in answer to the May 14 letter written by Mrs James E. Cox of Palatine, concerning the Camp Fire Girls Candy sale March 28.

Yes, Camp Fire Girls is a "character building" organization. The Camp Fire Law states "Worship God - Seek Beauty - Give Service - Pursue Knowledge - Be Trustworthy - Hold on to Health - Glorify Work - Be Happy." Camp Fire Girls from the second grade through adulthood know this law and try to live it.

Letters explaining the rules of selling candy were given to every mother, it was announced at the Leader's Association meeting; emphasized at candy chairmens' meetings; the group candy chairman repeatedly stated the rules; individual group leaders stressed this to their girls.

The honor system is a responsible position, and it is a shame that no credit has been given to the majority of girls, of which there are over 2,500 in the northwestern part of Cook County. Instead, there is critteism of a handful of girls who took the easy route by selling before 4 p.m

It is a privilege to belong to Camp Fire, and maybe those who disobeyed should be expelled from one meeting, or have their camp credit taken away, since all girls who sold candy were given group and camp credits according to the amount they sold.

We see dishonesty all around, but does that mean we should become dishonest also? This is what Camp Fire is all about - to build good character It is disturbing that a mere five or six girls did not follow the rules, but very refreshing that the huge majority were obedient, and did an excellent job.

Great Publicity

I and the members of Trinity Lutheran Church wish to take this opportunity to thank the Herald and staff writer Bob Zanic for the great publicity given our church and the "Operation Understanding" effort.

The two weeks of publicity did bring results. I am happy to report that over 225 people from this area came to our open house This is a great opportunity for the churches in the area to become better informed of each other's teachings and practices.

Thanks again, so much, for your kind cooperation and coverage in the Herald.

Talk, And Floods, Continue

by ALAN AKERSON

Once more the pre-trial negotiations on the Cambridge subdivision in Buffalo Grove have been continued

The dilemma is in its fourth year Engineers have come up with a solution and now its up to the various factions and their attorneys to agree on who is going to apy for what

And while the developers and the villages, through their attorneys, have been firing off salvos of lawsuits with a rapidity that would have put Lord Nelson's crack gunecrews to shame a little group of long-time residents in an unincorporated area of Wheeling Township has waited quietly, but nevertheless anxiously, for the problem to be solved

THAT GROUP IS made up of the 20 to 25 people who live on Jackson Drive Jackson is the street that catches the brunt of the runoff from the Cambridge subdivision storm sewer. The street is just east of the Wheeling Township garage on Hintz Road.

Alan Akerson

From Hintz Road, Jackson Drive goes north The area sits between Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

When the rains come, the floods come it's that simple The drainage ditches, then the street, and then some of the houses become flooded. In some places the water is waist-deep. That's an unnerving thought for Jackson Drive parents who have small children. And once the water is there, it's reluctant to leave.

Finally the residents banded together to form the Jackson Drive Homeowners Association. Unfortunately the association apparently is of the "too little, too late" variety.

The residents have been to a pair of Wheeling Township meetings only to be told the township cannot legally help them.

THEY HAVE BEEN advised to hire a lawyer and have him sit in on the negotiations. But they are reluctant to do so for fear the case will drag on and eventually bankrupt them. So, for the present, they continue to wait and hope for a solution.

And though we acknowledge the fact that it is the job of the attorneys for all concerned to defend their clients' interests with whatever legal guns they have at hand, some of the shots they have been getting off are falling short. On Jackson Drive.

Harper Pair Reaching For The Top

Von Boeckmann, Mueller at Tennis Nationals

by PAUL LOGAN

It's D-Day, High Noon and Zero Hour all rolled into one for Harper Community College's entrants in the National Tennis Finals — Bill Von Boeckmann and Doug Mueller.

This pair of Hawks, accompanied by Coach Roy Kearns, will soar off toward warmer climes at 8:55 this morning aboard a Northwest Airlines plane and will arrive in Tampa, Fla. around noon. From there an air taxi will take them to Ocala and the NJCAA finals to be hosted by Central Florida Junior College starting on Wednesday.

Von Boeckmann and Mueller qualified for the championships by capturing the team title at the Region IV meet at Lincoln, Ill. last May.

A FORMER Arlington High School star, Von Boeckmann will be setting his sights on the No. 1 singles crown. Over the just concluded season this Hawk ace was never defeated in dual matches.

Mueller, who prepped at Fremd High School, will be taking aim at the No. 2 singles title. And he and Von Boeckmann will also join forces to shoot for the doubles honors as well.

For the last couple of weeks these two Hawks have been sharpening their games for the big test that — if they're successful — will carry them into the finals sometime on Saturday.

"There have been a lot of players that have come home from college that the boys have been playing with," Kearns explained. "They've been getting some good competition."

Fine players from such colleges as the University of Wisconsin, the University of Iowa and Northern University plus the Paddock area's top prep players have been giving Von Boeckmann and Mueller some good tests, according to Kearns.

THE TWO FRESHMAN stars from Harper have been working out daily at Arlington High School both at singles and doubles and "they're playing noticably well as a doubles team," Kearns said in a very pleased voice.

Should these two Hawks advance pretty far in the individual tests and manage to get a few breaks in the pairs competition, the national title might be flying back with them.

In all there are 16 region championship teams that will be converging on the Florida site along with last year's champ which was from the host state. The Central Florida Colleege has 10 newly surfaced courts which should offer topflight conditions for the best of thee two-year stars.

REPRESENTING Region IV in doubles will be Carter Ebann and Bryan Edwards, both of Prairie State College.

Remaining at home to keep their fingers crossed are Bill and Doug's teammates. They are sophomores Steve and Vince Engler and Russel Berry. Together the five netmen rolled up a very impressive 9-0 record this past season to capture the Eastern Division title of the Northern Illinois Junior College League.

PERFECT TEAM. In only their first year of competition, Harper Community College's tennis squad played nine dual meets and won every one. The man who helped guide the Hawks to perfection is Coach Roy Kearns (top left). He, Bill Von Boeckmann and Doug Mueller (both standing) are flying to Florida this morning to take part in the NJCAA tennis finals. Kneeling are the other members of the team who will be rooting fr their comrades: (l. to r.) Steve Engler, Vince Engler and Russel Berry.

Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

IT HAS BEEN said and written that it is time that Don Kessinger, shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, should now be mentioned in the superstar classification.

Kessinger, they say, is hitting over .290 and his fielding abilities are spoken of in the same breath as Luis Aparicio's. And, as nearly every baseball fan knows, no shortstop in the history of the game could carry Aparicio's glove. But they are comparing Kessinger to Aparicio favorably.

The 6-t. 175 pound Kessinger was asked after the District 211 Lettermen Club banquet at Conant Tuesday, "How do you feel about being spoken of in the superstar category?"

Kessinger looked down at his shoes, shook his head and replied, "Superstar? That's Aaron and Mays and guys like that. Superstar? Not me. I'm not in the same class as those guys."

This response may tell you a great deal about Don Kessinger.

Kessinger was the Lettermen Club's guest speaker Tuesday and a good speaker he was. He was humorous and entertaining and he covered many aspects and stories on baseball.

One of the first things everyone noticed about Kessinger was his friendliness. Kessinger is not public relations friendly — his attitude is genuine: his smile is not faked.

Before the banquet began he shook hands with everyone who approached the speaker's table. After the banquet he made a special point of congratulating the athlete of the year at Palatine, Conant and Fremd — Phil Donahue, Bruce Rucks and Gerry Grybash, respectively.

He revealed some funny lines during the banquet like this one:

"I would have brought Leo Durocher with me," he said, "but Leo went to the confessional right after the game. He's still in there."

Kessinger went on to talk about the rest of the Cubs — Ernie Banks ("he's one of a kind"), Glenn Beckert ("It's great to look over there and see a guy like Glenn on second"), Billy Williams ("he deserves a lot more credit than he gets") and he had complimentary words for each of the other Cubs.

He also talked about the Cubs in general. "Last year," said the Arkansas native, "when we went to the park we thought we could win. This year we KNOW we can win. We KNOW we WILL win."

Kessinger was born 26 years ago in Forrest City, Ark., where he was an outstanding athlete and grew up listening to the St. Louis Cardinal games on the radio. Stan Musial was his favorite.

At Forrest City High School he lettered in football, basketball and track. He was All-State in football one year and All-State in basketball for three years.

Kessinger attended the University of Mississippi and was voted to the All-Southeastern Conference team in basketball and baseball three years. He was an All-America in baseball in his senior year.

During the off-season Kessinger coaches the University of Mississippi's freshman basketball team. "We play around .500 ball," he says.

With the arrival of March, Kessinger is in Arizona with the Cubs for spring training. In April he stands out at his familiar shortstop position, hands resting on his slightly bent knees.

From April until the first of October Kessinger is facing the likes of Juan Marichal and Bob Gibson ("the two best pitchers in the game") and fielding the line shots of a Richie Allen ("when Allen's at the plate I'd like to back up and stand next to Billy in left field").

Kessinger enjoys playing baseball — especially in Chicago which he says has "the greatest fans in the world." What Kessinger dislikes about the game is the travel.

"Baseball gives you the chance to see all the different cities," he said, "but I'm basically a family man. I sure hate to stay away from my family so long."

Kessinger said that he had professional basketball teams contact him but he chose baseball because, "I wanted to play professional ball and I thought that I'd have a better chance in baseball than basketball. I'm not that big a guy, you know."

The six-year major league veteran dismissed the idea that professionals do not get the thrill from winning. "If you don't think that we don't get a charge from winning, you ought to come into the Cub dressing room after a game. You'll know."

Kessinger had a few remarks when answering questions from the Lettermen Club banquet audience.

BALLPARKS — "Wrigley Field is the best. I like to play in the daytime because I think you can see the ball better. I don't like to play in the Astrodome, not because the Astroturf isn't any good, but because the dirt around second base is made up of an odd combination and the ball takes bad hops. Candlestick Park is always too cold."

PITCHERS — "If Juan Marichal had Bob Gibson's fastball, Marichal would be illegal. He (Marichal) comes at you from 75 different ways at 75 different speeds. Marichal pitches to exact spots where Gibson will challenge you and overpower you."

HITTERS — "Willie McCovey and Richie Allen have the most power. I've played against Frank Howard in the All-Star game and that man is strong. When Hank Aaron is at the plate I don't see how a pitcher can pick a spot to throw the ball. It seems that no matter where the pitcher throws it, Aaron can hit it."

DUROCHER — "Leo is a hard guy to play for. When you play for him you'd better be ready to go all out. He expects 110 per cent out of you all the time. But he makes you a better ball player. He likes to have good-natured visits with the umps at times (tongue in cheek)."

CUB FANS — "When we are at home we get a tremendous lift from the fans. The Cub fans are the greatest in the world. They even try to join us out on the field at times (tongue in cheek)."

BASEBALL DRAFT — "I think that it is doing a good job of balancing the teams. I think that baseball has to have the draft. There are 24 teams and the bonuses would get out of hand if there wasn't a draft."

LEAGUES — "I can't see where there is any difference between the American and the National league players. All the players are chosen from the same draft so how can you say one league has better ballplayers than the others. The American League had lower averages last year but maybe the pitchers are better. I don't know; I never played in the American League."

HOMERS — "There's no way I'm going to hit homers like Santo or Banks. So I'm not going to try for them. I hit my annual home run a little while ago and when I came back to the dugout there was Ernie layed out on the floor and Leo was waving a towel over him. That says so much about me hitting homers."

SPITTERS — "Everyone says that Phil Regan throws a spitball. Well, the only thing I can say is that when Phil was with the Dodgers he threw spitters. But since he came over with us he's stayed by the rules (tongue in cheek)."

FALL OF CARDS — "What has happened to the Cards? — The Cubs. All kidding aside, they're still going to be the team to beat."

ERNIE BANKS — "The best ambassador we have for the game of baseball."

ATHLETICS — "It makes a person stronger. It makes the individual stronger not only physically but in character. Athletics helps build men."

All the while that Kessinger was speaking he answered questions in a friendly tone. Following the banquet he shook hands all around and signed every autograph requested.

One thing happened before the banquet that few were aware of. An hour before the banquet Kessinger called the chairman of the banquet committee and said that he may not make it because his wife was terribly sick. Later he called again and said that he would be delayed and that he would attend.

Even though his wife was ill, and Kessinger was indeeed worried, Don Kessinger said that he would attend the banquet and he did. He stayed right to the end. He signed each and every autograph. He answered each and every question.

Perhaps Don Kessinger isn't a superstar baseball player. But as a person, you can bet he is.

Dooley to Speak At Wives' Night

Arlington Heights Rotarians will hear Coach Jim Dooley outline some of his advance planning for the Chicago Bears Thursday night, June 19, at a special Wives' Nite Out meeting in the Horseshoe Club of the Penthouse in Arlington Park Tower Hotel.

Coach Dooley will have films of 1968 Highlights with him, and will answer questions from the floor. Social hour is scheduled for 6:30 with the dinner meeting starting one hour later.

Visiting Rotarians are invited to attend with their wives at a cost of $6 per person. Reservations should be phoned in to program chairman Steve Smith at 255-1204, hopefully by Monday morning, June 16.

Limited number of additional guest reservations are available through members of the Arlington Heights Rotary club.

Huskie Debut Termed 'Respectable'

by KIETH REINHARD

Chalk up one final respectable campaign at Hersey High School.

The Huskies, after fielding decent contenders in a number of sports through the fall and winter, made another junket into the realm of respectability this spring.

As with their athletic predecessors, champions the Hersey diamondeers were not. At the same time, in tune with just about everything this brand new institution has turned on to an athletic field in their very first season, the Huskie baseball team was earmarked as one to be reckoned with.

"We really weren't shooting for the top," Huskie pilot Steve Chernicky admitted when it was all over. "We were a lot like an expansion team with plenty of questions to answer and a bunch of positions to fill."

IN THIS RESPECT Chernicky did admirably as a shuffler and dealer. The Huskies came nowhere close to capturing any championship but they had plenty of company. What they did accomplish was a finish pretty near the middle of the Mid-Suburban league pack, recognition of some athletes with high potential and the answers to a heck of a lot of questions.

Hersey wound up with a 5-9 loop slate, a mere three games behind the league's second place finishers. They also carved out a batting average ranking them among the top half of the ten-team league. They were 7-11 in over all combat.

More important though, Chernicky was able to obtain a firm knowledge of the team's strengths and weaknesses. It is a grasp that should place the Huskies in a volatile position next spring.

"Everybody from the coaching staff on down learned a lot this year and I think it will make us that much more ready when next spring rolls around," Chernicky noted, going on to say: "We made a lot of mistakes, both of the mental and physical variety, and a number of them hurt us quite a bit. Still, I'm satisfied with the progress we made and I fully believe we'll profit from learning by and overcoming these mistakes in 1970."

THE MENTOR called attention to the fact that the Huskies finished their inaugural season with a lineup containing as many as five sophomores. One — the lone soph member of Hersey's original varsity cast — is Bruce Frase, a hard-hitting shortstop Chernicky feels has a bright athletic future.

Frase was the only sophomore making the league's 20-man all conference lineup. Finishing with a hefty .326 loop batting average and placing among the top ten in RBIs, the stocky Arlington product did admirably on the mound too, until being shifted permanently to an infield slot.

Chernicky also cited Bob Leja, a spunky relief twirler who shrugged off more than his share of tricky situations with cool moundsmanship. Leja, a junior, finished with the highest ERA on the squad, but he also worked more innings than anyone else on the team, pitched in more games than any one else in the league, and had one of the highest strikeout per frame ratios of anyone in the conference.

The Huskies had other .300 hitters in Rich Grutzmacher, George Solomon and Jack Jenkins; an overall pitching picture which looked very promising including three sub-2.00 earned run averages; and some stellar defensive play from the likes of catcher Steve Toneff, outfielder-infielder Steve Fisher and a trio of soph callups. With everybody returning in 1970 lugging a year of experience under their belts, the Huskies can't help but be an MSL contender.

"We're not going to be perfect by any means," the mentor predicted. "But after looking respectable in 1969 despite a complete lack of seniors and probably less experience than anyone else in the league, there's no doubt in my mind that we'll be giving a lot of teams some trouble come next spring.

A Good Jury: More Than Just Any 12 Names

by DONALD E. MULLEN

NEW YORK (UPI)- Every year thousands of juries are empaneled around the country to sit in judgment of cases that range from dog bites-man lawsuits to murder charges.

Ideally the average American jury should be picked from the top 12 names on a list, be sworn in and then get on with deciding who's at fault or who's guilty

It doesn't work that way, of course. As every newspaper reader knows, jury selection often takes days, sometimes weeks In the recent Sirhan Sirhan trial, 23 days of questioning and excusing a long list of possible jurors were required before a panel was agreed upon Some civil court trials, with millions in lawsuits at stake, also frequently involve extensive investigation and questioning of prospective jurors.

Such delayed jury-picking has come under heavy criticism at times, but prominent New Rork trial lawyer Jacob D. Fuchsberg, a former president of the American Trial Lawyers Association, thinks it's all in the interest of justice.

"I like to think I un-select a jury—get rid of the worst ones," Fuchsberg explained in an interview with UPI. "There are two things to try for in seating a jury—first you must try to get a panel as free from prejudice in your case as possible, and then attempt to get them to look at a situation in another way—undo their preconceptions.

"Just remember there's always two sides on every case— two people trying to remove the ones whose life has conditioned one way or another," he said.

As far as Fuchsberg is concerned, everything about a prospective juror—appearance, religious beliefs, ethnic background, race, age, income, family status, sex, occupation, and political leanings—has significance to an accomplished trial lawyer.

"You must find out about a juror's background," he said. "A questionnaire shows conventional things. But a man may have a mistress, or doesn't get along with his wife, or has a lot of money.

"Never ask a juror a political question, but it's good to know if he's a liberal or conservative and whether he's paying $18 a month for a place or $1,900. Does he have a large family or a small one? Is he litigation prone—been sued himself?"

Fuchsberg said that in picking a jury "a lawyer has to have a knowledge of practical psychology. Sometimes it's just the way a man talks and looks at you. If he's trying to please you he may have reasons for wanting to stay on the jury. He may have the kind of background where he's been kicked off other panels. Nobody wants to be rejected.

"Another kind of juror a lawyer has to be careful with is the leader type — the strongwilled, dominant personality. He may be able to sway the jury for or against your cleint during a case."

Fuchsberg is also president of the Roscoe Pound-American Trial Lawyers Foundation, an organization dedicated to better trial court training for young attorneys. As an outspoken advocate of the jury system, he insists that the present selection system "all balances out. Juries are not stupid," he said. "I think the average juror does not try to act out of prejudice. He wraps himself in civic virtue. He's a judge now. He tries to act the part and do the right thing.

"Clarence Darrow made his reputation in civil cases in Chicago.

"I once heard him give a speech in which he said that the same kind of juror your defendant would want in a criminal case is the same as your plaintiff would want in a negligence case.

"In my own experience the less skilled a man is the more liberal and more emphathetic he is, with less stake in aspiring to be part of the establishment."

Fuchsberg thinks that persons with a southern European or Latin background "traditionally express sympathy more outwardly Negroes also tend to be more sympathetic to the underdog.

"On the other hand, AngloSaxons traditionally don't wear their heart on their sleeve," he said.

"If you're representing a defendant or plaintiff and you have a working man who's an Italian, you have a parlav going But get a Swedish banker and boy, you're in trouble."

"Age makes a difference, too. In my view young jurors are harder, despite the fact they think they're so sympathetic They tend to be more idealistic, and demand more from others. Older people have been through the mill, and they know they've made mistakes themselves

"Women jurors? By and large women are not much different from men They're a little more sympathetic and a little less generous. They are less sympathetic in law and order situations, though.

"Women are each other's harshest critics—especially if they see competition in a defendant or plaintiff, or if they dream these things up But if the other female is elderly, or a little girl, or looks like Whistler's mother, women are good on a jury."

Look! Up in the Sky! A New House!

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Flying saucers in the sky? Quite likely. But not invaders from a far-off planet; the latest in vacation housing being delivered by helicopter

The FUTURO, looking for all the world like a flying saucer, actually is a mass-produced, molded fiber-glass house, designed in Finland by architect Matti Suuronen and manufactured in this country by Futuro Corp. of Philadelphia.

H L Fruchter, president of Futuro Corp., said the houses will be produced initially in Philadelphia with plants planned for other sections of the country later. Demonstration "landings" of fully-assembled, helicopter transported houses will be made in Philadelphia May 14, and in cities such as New York and Denver at later dates, he said.

Constructed as a polyurethane foam insulated fiber-glass sandwich shell the unique, 5500-pound unit forms an ellipse with interior dimensions 26 feet in diameter, 11 feet high in the center. It accommodates up to eight persons when used as a beach house, ski or hunting lodge. It is available in several through-dyed colors.

For such vacation use, complete kitchen and bath facilities, all furnishings and storage are built in, and carpet is provided.

Interior outfitting of the units is completely flexible, Fruchter said, making them suitable also for motel units, ski and resort area lodges, beach or swimming pool cabanas, guest houses, studios, temporary classrooms or housing, portable housing for military or forestry personnel, children's camp bunks.

In a typical vacation house, one-half the unit is living space featuring six built-in arm chairs, convertible for sleeping, with individual arm-rest lighting. A large center table includes a built-in fireplace-barbecue unit with ventilating hood above it. There is an individual bedroom with built-in double bed and separate kitchen and bath space. The kitchen includes electric or gas stove and refrigerator, optional microwave oven, dishwasher and garbage disposer. The bath includes shower and either conventional or chemical toilet. Built-in storage utilizes available space in all rooms.

Sixteen elliptical windows of double-paned formed acrylic ring the mid-section of the house, with four additional "viewing" windows placed either above or below this line to take advantage of the individual terrain. Windows may be stationary or operable, as desired.

The houses, Fruchter said, can be heated from minus 22 degrees to 72 degrees in 30 minutes. Either electric or gas heating is available and air conditioning is optional. Entry is through a retractable stairway which makes for maximum security.

Site preparation, Fruchter explained, involves only pouring of four, in-ground concrete piers to which the house's tubular steel legs are bolted. The legs are proportioned to allow for use on either level or sloping locations. Usual plumbing and utilities may be connected where they are available, but a variety of special, independently operated utilities are provided for use in remote areas.

Because the houses are movable—by helicopter when fully assembled, by truck or rail when disassembled and nested in 16 sections—land tax may not be affected by their use, Fruchter said.

He said the units are virtually maintenance free, with an estimated life span in excess of 30 years. The snow load is rated in excess of 20 feet; wind load 150 miles per hour. The house is mechanically and chemically sealed against water and air infiltration. Ventilation is by means of positive pressure system.

Fruchter said the houses will carry Class I or II fire ratings and will be suitable for sparsely developed areas, or those conforming to National Building codes. Five or 10-year financing and all-risk insurance is available, he said.

The houses (selling around $12,000 plus delivery) are delivered by helicopter fully assembled within a 75-mile radius of the factory. Elsewhere shipment is by train or truck with final assembly at the site.

Yes, But PARIS?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A question has arisen as to why it was necessary for a sizable contingent of U.S. congressmen to attend the air show in Paris last week.

1. Congressmen need to be well informed in order to legislate intelligently.

2. Some legislation transcends national boundaries, thrusting Congress into the area of global responsibility.

3. Information involving other areas of the world can best be obtained by visiting those areas.

The Paris Air Show, for example, provides a congressman with an excellent opportunity to familiarize himself with the Paris Air Show.

He could stay in Washington and let witnesses testifying at congressional hearings describe the air show to him. He could also read newspaper accounts and look at films.

But none of these methods of gathering information serves as a satisfactory substitute for seeing the air show in person.

A congressman who has seen the Paris Air Show with his own eyes obviously is better informed about the Paris Air Show than a congressman who has never been to the Paris Air Show.

Consequently, he is better prepared to act intelligently should Congress happen to consider any legislation involving the Paris Air Show.

At the present time, to my knowledge, there is no Paris Air Show legislation pending. But that doesn't mean the trip to Paris was unfruitful.

Next year the congressional committees that would handle Paris Air Show legislation, should any such legislation arise, must decide whether to send delegations to the 1970 Paris Air Show.

Information obtained at this year's Paris Air Show undoubtedly will prove valuable in helping committee members arrive at that decision.

A congressman who has already been to the air show knows better than anyone else whether he wants to return, and also is in a position to advise congressmen who have not been to the air show.

Eventually, as you can see, the U S Congress will become the best informed legislative body in the world on matters pertaining to the Paris Air Show.

We expect more from Congress, and we get it.

Quilting Nurses at It Again

BY AN OLD SHIP'S wheel, the new president of Arlington Heights Nurses' Club, Mrs. Charles Hermann, greets her vice president, Mrs. James Butkus. The occasion was the club's spring luncheon at the Chateau Louise.

"We started as a social quilting group," recalled Mrs. Charles Bloecker, "but you know nurses. They can't just sit around without helping someone. So we began a program of community service." Mrs. Bloecker was reminiscing about the early days of the Arlington Heights Nurses Club, now in its 31st year, at the club's spring luncheon last week at the Chateau Louise

Although quilting was long ago given up by the group for more profitable fund raisers, ironically, a number of the nurses have again taken up quilting with proceeds once again going into the club treasury

A founding member of the club, Mrs. Bloecker was one of the honored guests at the luncheon as was Mrs. C E. Frederickson, also a founding member.

MRS. BLOECKER recollected that loneliness prompted Miss Martha Jackson, the visiting nurse of Arlington Heights, to seek the company of other registered nurses in the area. The first gathering of the nurses was held in 1938 in Miss Jackson's home.

Arlington Heights Nurses Club, charted in 1954 with 16 members, now boasts more than 100 members. It was the first club chartered in the State of Illinois, and in 1950 was the first to set up a lending closet of crutches, wheel chairs and other sick room equipment for use by the public

"The first wheel chair was one of those old wicker ones," commented Mrs. Bloecker.

Today the club closet includes 39 wheel chairs, 27 walkers, 21 hospital beds, 14 bedside commodes and countless canes and crutches of all sizes. Items with less call include diabetic scales, orthopedic braces, a bicycle exerciser and a hydraulic patient lift

MOST OF THE ITEMS are stored in basement of the Wheeling Township Hall, according to Mrs. Howard Johnson, 392-5373, who is in charge of the closet until fall when Mrs Arthur Boice, a new Arlington Heights resident and a new club member, will take over However, because of storage limitations, Mrs. Richard Fremgen, 392-7996, dispenses vaporizers from her home and Mrs. Robert Karlicek, 392-7214, the crutches.

Four nursing scholarships were awarded to Arlington Heights girls at last week's luncheon. The largest, the $600 Martha Jackson scholarship, was awarded to Miss Mary Droegemueller. Partial scholarships of $300 went to Miss Gail Haemker and Miss Pat Heisler. A special scholarship of $150 was awarded to Miss Jody Kessner.

FUNDS FOR THE scholarships are raised by an annual rummage sale. Other fund raisers have included an art festival and a luncheon-fashion show.

The club is proud of its citation for being the first organization to contribute to Northwest Community Hospital The donation totaled more than $1500, an amount raised on a doll and complete wardrobe sewn by Mrs. Bloecker

A New Palatine WSCS Holds Its Installation

New officeers of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Palatine's First United Methodist Church were installed recently in a "one-of-a-kind" service, the first since the merger between the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Program for the service was an explanation of the symbolism of the former emblem of the WSCS and the symbol of the newly-created women's organization.

Mrs. Paul Jung was installed as the group's new president and Mrs. Dwayne Winters was installed as vice president. Honorary vice president is Mrs. C. A. Chamberlin.

CIRCLE CO-ORDINATOR is Mrs. John Weir; recording secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Munro; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Savage; Christian social relations, Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, chairman of commission on church responsibilities, Mrs. Charles Simons; co-chairmen, commission on membership, Mrs. Ted Anderson and Mrs. Charles Knodle.

Chairman of Missionary Education, Mrs. Nick Munagian; chairman for spiritual growth, Mrs. Martin Pratt; Wesleyan Service Guild co-ordinator, Mrs. Royal Browne, member, ex oficio, Mrs. David Kuh; committee on nominations, Mrs. William Stenstrom, Mrs Harold Verburg, Mrs Paul Manning, Mrs. James Stadtlander and Mrs. Berndt Westerberg.

Co-chairmen of flowers, Mrs. H. O Carlson and Mrs. Charles Pease; co-chairmen of nursery, Mrs. Michael Lindblad and Mrs Lance Engle, co-chairmen kitchen, Mrs. William Baetzel and Mrs. Charles Simons; co-chairmen publicity, Mrs. J. L. Daugherty and Mrs. Robert Fink.

YEARBOOK CHAIRMAN, Mrs Don Jacobs, Marcy Center representative, Mrs. Joe Jenkins; Newberry Center representatives, Mrs. E. Longhenry and Mrs. James Roberts; Lake Bluff Children's Home Representative, Mrs. Lewis Garn.

Serving as circle chairmen will be Mrs. Henry Haines, Abigail; Mrs. Frank Savage, Anna, Mrs. Gordon Humphrey, Lydia, Mrs. Frank Bonheim, Martha; Mrs. Merlin Outcalt, Mary; Mrs. Gilbert Fosket, Rachael; Mrs. Berndt Westerberg, Ruth and Mrs. James Stadtlander, Sarah.

For the final meeting of the season tomorrow (Wednesday) there will be a combination executive board and general meeting beginning at 9:30 a.m. The meeting will close at noon and no luncheon will be served.

Okay To Try Rings

Superstitions that have gone out the window—that it is bad luck to try on or wear briefly the wedding ring before the actual ceremony More sensible is for each party to try on the rings, slipping them on and off to make sure this can be done quickly and easily at the wedding

Architects Wives Go to Convention

Letitia Baldridge, former social secretary to U. S. Ambassadors and the White House, and author of "Of Diamonds and Diplomats" will speak to nation-wide members of the Women's Architectural League at Kungsholm Restaurant following a continental breakfast

Members from across the nation are attending the annual American Institute of Architects-Royal Architectural Institute of Canada National Convention with their husbands Sunday June 22 through Thursday June 26.

Active members from this locale are Mrs. Frederick A. Trulin, of the Convention Ladies Events Committee and committee members Mrs Edwin J. Flonder and Mrs. Charles Catlin.

"The Care and Feeding of Architects" will be the subject discussed by a panel of distinguished architects Wednesday, June 25 at 11:30 in the Grand Ballroom of the Palmer House Moderator will be Aline Saarinen, wife of the late architect and designer, Eero Saarinen and author of "The Proud Possessors"

Teens Still Marry

The teen-age marriages go on and on Modern Bride magazine, which sponsored an independent sampling of the bridal market, found that five per cent of women married for the first time in the last year were 15 years old on their wedding day Four per cent of the men wed for the first time were 17 years old.

Wheeling Gardeners Hear Mrs. Fick Speak

At the May 27 meeting of the Wheeling Garden Club Mrs. Emil H. Fick of Mount Prospect and District II Chairman of the Garden Club of Illinois was the guest speaker. Mrs. Fick spoke on preparing and judging flower shows.

Mrs. Hans Schmidt was hostess for the coffee hour which followed the meeting.

Kappa Delta Alumnae Install New Officers

Officers newly installed at the May meeting of the Northwest Suburban alumnae association of Kappa Delta were Mrs. James Murphy, Arlington Heights, president; Mrs. Leighton Jorgensen, Arlington Heights, first vice president; Mrs Ronald Browne, Rolling Meadows, second vice-president; Mrs. L. W. Arentsen, Rolling Meadows, corresponding secretary; Mrs Russell Oller, Jr., Des Plaines, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Drugan, Arlington Heights, editor.

Try for Barbecue

Apple jump marinade makes an unusual and flavorful barbecue sauce, especially for pork, ham, duck or beef. Saute ½ cup of finely chopped onion in ½ cup of oil. Add 1 clove of garlic, 1 cup of canned apple sauce, ½ cup each of apple juice, tomato sauce and vinegar, ¼ cup of brown sugar, 2 tablespoons of tomato paste, 1 teaspoon of worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon each of salt and dry mustard and ½ teaspoon each of black pepper and bottled red pepper sauce. Simmer 20 minutes over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Use as marinade and to baste and glaze meats while cooking. Makes 1 2/3 cups.

Perfume on Hands

Put a bit of solid perfume on the palm of the hand before putting on wedding gloves. The warmth of the hand will diffuse the scent. If gloves are not used, a couple of drops of regular liquid perfume can be used on the palm of the left hand on which the bride groom will place the ring.

Tasty with Ham

Glaze cored, tart apple slices to serve with breakfast ham by cooking the rings in 1 tablespoon of fat with ½ teaspoon of lemon juice per apple. When tender, sprinkle with 2 teaspoons of powdered sugar, and continue cooking until glazed a light brown.

FATHER'S DAY IS JUNE 15

Why Give Dad A Gant Shirt?

Because a Gant shirt is more than something to hang a tie on. It's a stimulant to make you feel good, look good throughout the day

Becasue a Gant shirt — from its softly flared button-down collar to its trim Hugger body — is tailored with singular precision.

This is why we carry a complete selection of Gant shirts.

May Lower Tax Bills

Residents of Highpoint in Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park's Hanover Highlands section may have lower tax bills following a reassessment of homes by the county assessor's office.

Staff members of the county assessor's office plan to reassess homes in these sections following several complaints from homeowners after getting their tax bills. Homes in Hanover Highlands will be reassessed at the end of this week, and the Highpoint area will be reviewed within 10 days after completing the Hanover Highlands project.

Three members of the county assessor's staff will make the reassessment in Schaumburg Township.

APPROXIMATELY 100 Hanover Park residents from Longmeadows South and Longmeadows North met last Wednesday to protest what they considered excessively high property taxes. Village Atty. Bill Davies advised residents to pay taxes under protest at that meeting.

Many homeowners in Hanover Highlands claim their tax bills are higher than others for property with the same assessed valuation.

According to Ralph Serpico, supervisor in charge of complaints for the Cook County Assessor's Office, "if the land and building sizes of two sites are alike, they should have the same identical assessed valuation.

"As far as property improvements are concerned," Serpico said, "those improvements on home models that are alike should be assessed the same. If an area contains three building models, called A, B, and C, then similar homes of each type should generally be assessed the same, unless there is an extra bath or something."

If the assessment review determines that previous assessing errors have been made, Serpico stated, then homeowners in those areas affected will be notified of changes either by personal contact or by mail. "If there is no change in assessments for homeowners, there will be no notification," he said.

THE DATE FOR paying the first installment of property taxes is July 1.

"We have advised homeowners to go ahead and pay the first installment of taxes," Serpico said. "If assessing adjustments are required for individual homeowners, then these changes will be made to apply to the second installment."

Serpico underscored the fact that the reassessment in Hanover Highlands and Highpoint will only determine if the assessment figures on property cards are correct. "This reassessment will not change the tax rates at all," he said.

"If homes aree assessed correctly," Serpico said, "there is nothing that can be done about tax bills.

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer.

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter.

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war.

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing. A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23. She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white. The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County.

She Likes Challenging Job

by PAT GERLACH

Assessing her first six weeks as Hoffman Estates Village Clerk, Mrs. Virginia M. Netter considers the elected office "very enjoyable and so much more challenging than I had anticipated, which makes things really interesting."

In a telephone interview Monday, Mrs. Netter, who was elected in a clean GOP sweep of the village last April, said she has so far received "tremendous cooperation" from Village Pres. Frederick E. Downey, the six trustees, and all other municipal employes and department heads.

Virginia Netter

She has personally assumed most of the clerk's duties, which she says were done in the past by members of the village office staff or Mrs. Laura Reedy, who serves as an administrative assistant and village finance officer.

"This includes taking and reproduction of all board meeting minutes and much other detail," she said, commenting that she believes this "exercises the proper control that the clerk should exert."

REGULARLY MRS. Netter spends several hours or more in the village hall each Saturday morning and she is constantly on call in case of either need or emergency.

As far as changes in either the office or procedures handled by the clerk, Mrs. Netter feels that it is proper to hold off until a village manager has been hired.

In line with one of its campaign pledges, the new Republican administration has retained professional consultants who have begun the search for qualified applicants for the village post vacant since Harold Appleby was dismissed several years ago.

In her brief term of office Mrs. Netter has suffered only one setback — that of failure of the village board to ratify her recommendation reappointing Mrs. Reedy deputy clerk.

Although, according to Village Atty. Edward C. Hofert, Mrs. Reedy legally remains to hold office until a successor is named, the administrative assistant has refused to serve under present conditions.

AT THE time of the reappointment recommendation, Hofert told the board that according to statute, the post is filled by the clerk with concurrance of the trustees.

Mrs. Netter, her husband, Henry, and their six children have been residents of the village for the last 10 years and are members of St. Hubert's Church, where the village clerk also serves as organist.

She has long been acquainted with civic affairs, having worked as a part-time reporter for several area newspapers and for a short time was employed as a public relations writer for the Village of Bensenville.

Sing-Outs Slated

Sing-Out Palatine will perform at the ninth annual Fourth of July celebration in Hoffman Estates. The stay-at-home event is sponsored by the Independence Day Committee.

Sing-Out Palatine is a musical group associated with the national "Up With People" organization. They will perform from 8 p.m. until the fireworks display at dark.

"Up With People" was started in 1965 at the suggestion of a young lady attending a youth conference in Michigan to do something to counteract the "undesirable image" given to today's youth by a minority of young poeple.

The enthusiastic response resulted in a cast of 150 singers and instrumentalists representing 41 states.

THE PALATINE group was formed in 1967 as the first in Illinois, and has more than 100 members. It is a non-profit organization and sells three albums entitled, "Up With People, Number One," "Up With People in Hollywood," and "Up With People Number Three" to meet expenses.

However, because of an Independence Day Committee ruling that nothing but food be sold on July 4, no albums will be for sale after the group's performance. Records may be purchased now and through the summer at Ralston Electronics, 11 Hoffman Plaza.

OTHER EVENTS of the celebration include a parade down Illinois Boulevard at 10 a.m., a car smash, races, teen dance, the drum and bugle corps exposition, greased pig chase, watermelon eating contest, egg tossing and greased pole event.

The fireworks display contains ground and aerial exhibitions costing $1,250. It includes such displays as the devil wheel, bombing tree, Niagara wheel, Egyptian pyramid, golden sunflower and more than 300 aerial displays.

Parade entries from Schamburg Township organizations and commercial floats are still welcome if registered by June 23, with Thomas Fulton. Categories are theme, patriotic, specialty and visitors. He may be reached at 894-6715.

Rule Death Of Boy, 11, Accidental

Funeral services will be held today for an 11-year-old Hoffman Estates boy who died early Saturday following an accident in his home.

A Requiem Mass will be offered at St. Hubert's Church in Hoffman Estates at 10 a.m. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery in Des Plaines.

The youth, Michael K. Collopy, 220 Alcoa Lane, was found hanging from the top bunk of a double-bunk bed Friday evening about 7:30 p.m. with a belt around his neck. He was taken unconscious to St. Alexius Hospital and died there.

Hoffman Estates police massaged the boy's heart and got it beating again after arriving at the Collopy home Friday night before the fire department ambulance arrived.

POLICE SAID the youth's parents believed that he had been playing upstairs with his younger brother, Thomas, 3.

A coroner's inquest in Arlington Heights yesterday morning ruled the boy's death accidental.

A sixth grade pupil at Lakeview School, Michael Collopy is survived by his parents and two sisters in addition to his younger brother. He was born June 30, 1957, in Chicago.

Meet to Aid Biafra

The Biafran Relief Committee of the Hoffman Estates Teen Club will meet 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Beth Tikvah Temple in Hoffman Estates to discuss possible fundraising activities to help war victims in Biafra. Anyone interested in additional information should contact Andi Berman at 894-4791.

WITH DETERMINATION unequalled by any older track star, these two youngsters vied Saturday in the Junior Sports Jamboree for the right to represent Schaumburg Township in the Jaycee's North Region track competition. The jamboree, sponsored by Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Jaycees featured competition in dashes, the long jump, baseball throw and relay races.

Open Bridge Bids

Under criticism of trustee Gordon Jensen Hanover Park Village Pres. Richard Baker opened three bids for the new bridge to be built across Longmeadow Lane at Thursday's village board meeting.

Jensen felt that contractors did not have enough time to prepare proper bids for the structure. He reported that he saw only one notice of bid letting, just two days before bid opening.

However, several village officials, including engineer Larry Grindel and clerk Elaine Mars said notice had been posted in another newspaper one or two weeks previously. But they had not received a copy of the ad from the publication.

Bidders for the bridge: Milan Construction of Algonquin, $32,950, Soderquist and Sons of Geneva, $35,200, Lakeland Construction of McHenry, $36,700.

GRINDEL SAID THE structural engineer's original estimate for the job was about $23,000, and later revised to approximately $32,000.

Jensen was appointed to a committee to study the bridge bids and either to recommend approval of one, or to resubmit the bids for new offers.

Baker reported that Astronaut Eugene Cernan of Bellwood had been invited to dedicate the bridge, but that no reply had yet been received from the moon voyager.

Baker also promised that a policy would be established regarding length of time for publication of bid work for village projects.

Seek Medical Complex Funds

The citizens committee, planning to raise $1 million locally for a medical complex in Schaumburg, intends to hire a professional fund-raising organization to assist in reaching that goal.

A 51-acre site for the medical complex has been donated by Paul W. Brandel, Schaumburg State Bank board chairman. The medical center will be located north along Schaumburg Road, just west of Roselle Road, near the Blackhawk School. It will serve residents of Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Roselle and Streamwood.

Three million dollars will be needed to build the medical center as it is now planned. One million of this amount will be raised locally. $1 million will be obtained through financing, and $1 million will be raised through federal and foundation grants.

MRS. RAYMOND KESSELL is chairman of the local citizens group that plans to raise $1 million through five-year pledges given by residents. The first pledge has already been made by Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Schaumburg State Bank Pres. Ward Weaver has been working on plans for the medical center with Hyram Sibly, executive director of the Chicago Metropolitan Hospital Planning Association, for the past two years. There has been little publicity on the medical center during this planning period.

Planned to be built in stages, the hospital unit is expected to consist of 125 beds at the start, with an eventual capacity of 500 beds.

"Donation of the building site probably saved from 5 to 10 years of fund-raising for us," said Mrs. Kessell.

INCLUDED IN THE proposed medical center will be a 500-bed hospital, a 240 bed convalescent home, a 50-suite medical building, high-rise and walk-up apartments, and a small commercial section.

The hospital will be 169,000 square feet in size and will be constructed in four stages. Parking will be provided for 600 cars.

Housing facilities for the medical staff have been planned for the medical complex. Present proposals call for 160 high rise apartments and 600 walk-up or garden-type units in the 10-acre site.

THE PLANNED convalescent unit will be 40,000 square feet in size and will share parking facilities with the one-acre site planned for commercial development.

Mrs. Kessell said she would be announcing volunteer members on her committee in the near future.

Attorney Explains Salary Arrangement

Village Atty. William Davies, at the request of Trustee Rev. David Bugh, explained his salary arrangement with the village of Hanover Park.

Davies' statement was part of the "town hall meeting" held at the end of each regular village board meeting, an innovation by the new administration.

Davies said he receives a retainer of $500 per month from the village to cover his duties as attorney and prosecutor. He said the fee includes all board meetings at which he is requested to appear, and all ordinary court appearance.

"I WILL SUBMIT a bill for extraordinary items, which take me several days to handle. Routine matters are included in the retainer."

Trustee Gordon Jensen said he wished he had been informed of the arrangement sooner. Former trustee Richard Peszynski commented from the floor that he would like ot see the agreement spelled out in writing. Village Pres. Richard Baker said he would have this done.

Village Board Opens Bids for Resurfacing

Two bids for resurfacing Jensen Boulevard were opened at Thursday's Hanover Park Village Board meeting.

The portion to be blacktopped is from Meyer Material Co. to Irving Park Road, according to Larry Grindel, village engineer.

The bids: Stephan Bros., $13,875; Western Asphalt and Paving, $15,863.75. The bids were referred to committee for study.

Meyer Material Co. had reportedly agreed to resurface the portion of the street to be used by its heavy vehicles. That section will be made sturdy enough to handle 30-ton truck traffic.

Rezoning for Eagle Food Store Is Asked

Plans and a rezoning request for an Eagle Food store were submitted to the Hanover Park Village Board Thursday. The supermarket site is on the southwest corner of Irving Park and Barrington roads.

Trustee Gordon Jensen disclosed at the meeting that the eight acre site has not yet been formally annexed into the village. "It would be a good idea to get the property into the village. . . since the land is surrounded on all sides by village property, it can be done by ordinance," Jensen said.

Some surprise was registered by village officials at this fact, and it was agreed that steps will be taken to get the store site into the village.

Will Demos Stay in Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas."

The central committee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Oppose Annexation

About 45 persons, most of them from Prospect Heights and other unincorporated areas, will take a bus to Springfield today to oppose Rep. Eugene Schlickman's annexation bill. The bill would allow municipal annexation of contiguous areas through ordinance. Tomorrow it goes before the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee.

WITH THE GROUP WILL go petitions with signatures of more than 5,000 people who oppose the bill.

More than 8,500 letters and telegrams of opposition have already gone to the state capitol, according to Mrs. Marie L. Caylor, a director of the Euclid Lake Association in Prospect Heights.

The bill, introduced to the House by Schlickman, a Republican from Arlington Heights, is sponsored in the House by Sen. Jack Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst.

Opponents charge the bill was rushed through the House before voters could study it.

The petition to be presented tomorrow reads:

"We, the undersigned, oppose House Bill 1241, which provides for the annexation of unincorporated areas without the consent of the resident of said unincorporated areas.

"This bill further provides that no notice of appeal or supersedeas shall operate to stay the effect of an order annexing territory during the pendency of an appeal.

"Furthermore, if a territory wants to disconnect from the annexing territory, it must wait three years before filing such action and it will not be allowed until five years after annexation.

"WE FEEL THIS BILL is unfair to the residents of unincorporated areas because it does not give them a voice in deciding the future of their communities."

The bus to Springfield will leave the Randhurst Shopping Center tomorrow morning.

School Tax Hike Urged

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush" complained Sen J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23 She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County

Passage of the 21 cent school tax hike in Dist. 23 on June 28 is deemed an absolute "must" by district Supt. Edward Grodsky.

"We're at the brink of no return. The longer the people delay passing this referendum, the more money the district will have to borrow and the more precarious our financial position will become," he declared

Passage of the referendum, would increase the school tax on homes from $1.60 to $1.81, boosting the total revenue of the district an estimated $50,000 yearly. The new taxes won't reach homeowners until 1971 however, and funds won't be available to the schools until the spring of 1970 at the earliest. In an election April 15, voters turned down the proposal by a vote of 523 to 474.

Evidence of the financial bind the district finds itself in, shows in the proposed budget for 1969-70 If this budget is adopted, the district will operate with a $290,000 deficit in the educational fund.

THOUGH THE DISTRICT expects to receive an additional $97,000 in state aid this year, total expenditures in the educational fund have been set at $1,563,420, and total revenue at only $1,233,428. The difference will be made up by issuing $290,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants (TAW's).

TAW's are loans which allow a school district to receive additional operating money immediately, instead of waiting until more tax revenues are collected. The loans must be paid back, with interest, when the anticipated tax funds are made available

If the proposed budget is adopted after a public hearing scheduled for July 7, and the district does issue $290,000 worth of TAW's it will be borrowing about 66 per cent of the total amount of taxes it expects to collect in the coming year.

Even if the June 28 referendum passes, Dist. 23 still won't be out of the red. The extra money, which won't be available until the spring of 1970 at the earliest, will be used only to reduce the TAW load from 66 to 50 per cent.

"IF THIS REFERENDUM doesn't pass, some $85,000 will probably have to be cut from the educational fund in the 1970-71 budget," Grodsky said.

"I don't know where cuts would be made," he continued. "Larger classes or even split shifts might be the result, though these decisions would be up to the school board, not to me. I don't want to sound like I'm making any threats.

"The referendum simply must be approved. I don't know what else I can do to explain our situation to the voters. I've presented the facts over and over again," he sighed.

John Stull, Dist. 23 board member, said there is no guarantee that the schools will go on split shifts if the referendum loses. "I wouldn't want to see this happen, but some board members are convinced that this would be the case if the referendum doesn't pass," Stull said.

The financial problem now plaguing Dist. 23 has resulted from ever-increasing operational costs and rising salaries, a phenomenom common to all area school district. The squeeze is especially tight in Dist. 23, however, because therea re almost no industries to help support the tax load. Individual homeowners must bear the burden themselves.

AND THE PROBLEM is likely to continue, for Grodsky estimated that enrollment is growing at the rate of 8 to 10 per cent a year. Some 1,690 students will be attending the three elementary schools and two junior highs next fall.

One of the junior high school, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is scheduled to open its doors for the first time in September, and the superintendent estimated that another elementary school will be needed in the northwest corner of the district in two or three years.

"It might be needed even sooner if builders decide to put up a lot of new houses and apartments," he said.

Grodsky believes part of the reason the referendum was defeated in April was because there were too many issues on the ballot.

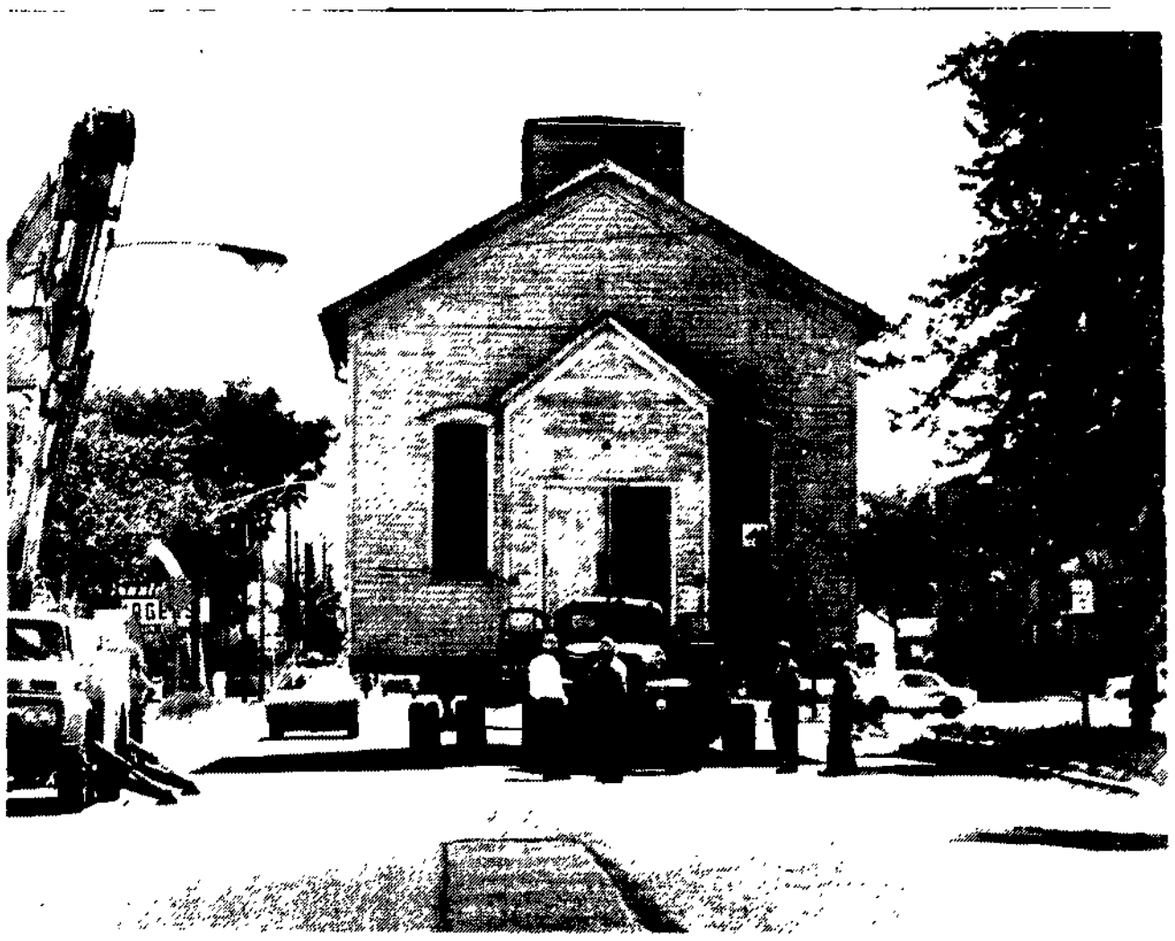
"Voter turn-out was high, probably because high school and junior college boards were also being elected. But since there was only one polling place, long lines formed and probably a lot of people who would have voted decided not to wait when they saw the mob," he explained.

"I WOULD HOPE we could do better this time since the referendum will be the only issue on the ballot," he said.

Polling hours have been extended and the station will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in an effort to prevent congestion.

Larry Purcell, chairman of the citizen's committee formed to encourage a "yes" vote on the referendum, said his group plans to initiate a telephone campaign to get out the vote.

"I don't know what else we'll do. So much was done in April to publicize the referendum that the people surely must have the facts by now," Purcell said.



RELIGION ON THE MOVE — Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church moved to Chamber of Commerce Park yesterday. A new donut store is going in next to the village hall on the church's original site on Dundee Road.

Rainfall Leads To Flooding

Heavy rains which fell during the weekend resulted in flooding in several areas in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights

Residents in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling reported several instances of flooding in their areas to police.

In Wheeling the most serious flooding occurred at Highland And Wolf roads. storm water began flooding Highland Road at noon Sunday.

Mrs. Leonard McEstes of 100 Highland Road notified police of the flooding at p.m In some places, Mrs. McEstes said, the water was more than 2½ feet deep.

Later Sunday afternoon Mrs. McEstes and her husband blocked off Highland Road at Wolf Road to stop cars from driving through the water. The cars were causing waves, thus sending more water into homes.

Wheeling police made them move their vehicles. The Department of Public Works in Wheeling later blocked off the street with wooden barricades

SEVERAL RESIDENTS living on Highland Road were forced to move belongings they had stored in basements to the first or second floors of their homes. Flooding water in one basement caused the heat and electricity to go off in one house.

Edward Burger of 1044 Anthony in Wheeling reported to police that sanitary sewers in six houses in his area were backing up Burger's wife said this usually occurs during heavy rains in their area

Nearby Husky Park was also flooded during the weekend.

Richard Mielke of 149 South Wolf Road also reported flooding in his area.

In Buffalo Grove, police records showed only one case of serious flooding. That was on University Drive in the Cambridge subdivision Residents reported water came to within three feet of their homes.

The water on the street was deep enough for one man to operate a power boat on it.

By Monday afternoon the water had receded from yards. However, about four inches of water remained in the street.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN from the Forest River Fire Protection District worked all day Sunday combating floods in the Euclid-Lake area of Prospect Heights

Firemen started early Sunday morning pumping out basements flooded with backed up sewage. At times the numbers of residents calling for help was so great that firemen were not able to keep up with them.

On Jackson Drive, north of Hintz Road behind the Cambridge subdivision water flooded the street and several yards. The street lies in an unincorporated part of Wheeling Township.

Church Makes Move

Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church found a new home Monday in Chamber of Commerce Park on Wolf Road.

The church, being saved as a historical monument, made a slow trip down Dundee Road under several sets of electrical and telephone wires.

Traffic on the village's major street was diverted around the building at first, and then came to a standstill as the old church made its way around the corner at Dundee and Wolf roads.

Directing much of the action was Ron Ignatius, a historical society member who has assumed responsibilities for coordinating citizens' activities to preserve the old church.

The building moved slowly down Dundee, stopping for electrical utility workers to disconnect and lift electrical lines on the way. The village hall, adjacent to the church's original location, was put on an emergency power system while wires were disconnected.

POLICEMEN DIRECTED traffic on Dundee and Wolf and on Dundee and Milwaukee Avenue, holding back and diverting cars. When the church turned onto Wolf Road, a burst of traffic flooded across Dundee for seeveral minutes until the backlog cleared.

Children from parochial schools who were out of school for the summer followed the large white building as it moved down the street. Interested bystanders lined the street as if a parade had come to town, and harried policemen coped with a steady strem of diverted traffic.

Finally the old church turned onto the dirt road which leads to Chamber of Commerce Park. Workmen plan to place the church on the northeast corner of the Chamber property later this week. Work on a foundation and restoration of the church will then begin.

ONCE THE ONLY CHURCH in the area, the building served all congregations in the Wheeling area. Plans for use of the church have not been determined as yet, although historical society members hoped it will be restored.

Ignatius said fees for the electrical work and moving the church along with necessary permits will cost more than $4,700. Contributions for the moving and restorative work on the church are still being sought by the village's historical society.

Pool Set to Open

Wheeling's Community Pool is filled and ready for opening Saturday.

But the pool isn't going to have any underwater lights this year.

Fred Arndt, park district superintendent said the lights need fixing. "We wouldn't want to take the chance of someone getting a bad shock."

A dangerous electrical problem and touchup painting are only two of the problems which plague the Wheeling Community Pool.

The pool purchase is part of a park district referendum this Saturday which would allow the park district to buy and fix up the pool.

AT FIRST GLANCE the pool appears clean and ready. But under the outside appearance there is a problem with leaks which could cost up to $4,000 to fix permanently.

Arndt talks optimistically about the district's plans for the pool if the referendum passes.

"We'd like to move the playground equipment out into Chamber of Commerce Park and turn the existing play area into a sundeck for adults," he said. Other plans for money from the referendum would include painting the outside building, putting in a new concession area, and making the existing concession area into a controlled entrance for the pool facility.

HOPES THAT THE building can be completely roofed soon lurk in the back of Arndt and park board members' minds.

The superintendent says that adults have a problem at the pool because of overcrowding and the fact that the play area is too close to the pool.

Other needed work are additional lockers, masonry work, painting for the bathhouse, heightening of the filter and storage building, new filter leaves, and addition of a water softener unit.

New steel poles for the overhead floodlights were also proposed to the park district in a recent study by district consultants, McFadzean and Everly.

ANOTHER PROBLEM WITH the pool is overcrowding in the summer. A lifeguard explained that several times last summer the pool had to be closed to additional

McHenry Has Most Accidents

On a November afternoon, a 16-year-old boy driving down McHenry Road in Wheeling failed to yield to a car with the right-of-way.

The other car hit his car in the rear, banging up both cars, but not hurting either of the drivers. The boy was a resident of another suburb.

The above is not a real accident.

It is however, the average accident that occurs in Wheeling acording to statistics revealed in a recent survey of Wheeling streets in a Chicago area transportation study.

The study, "A Summary of Traffic Accidents, 1968, for the Village of Wheeling," points out the most dangerous streets and conditions in the village. Its goal is to help police improve enforcement so accidents and be avoided, and to point out poorly engineered streets and intersections which need improvement.

One statistic from the study termed significant by Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher, is that 30 per cent of all accidents in the village result in injuries.

MOST ACCIDENTS, 80.8 per cent to be exact, involve motor vehicles in traffic.

Typical kinds of collision are rear-end, turn maneuver, broadside collisions, and sideswipes.

Most accidents in Wheeling occur between 3 and 5 p.m. Other heavy accident hours at 7, 8, and 9 a.m., the CATS survey shows.

Chief Horcher noted that the report shows that there is very little difference between accident rates on different days of the week. Monday has the fewest accidents, but the range shows a fairly even spread of accidents throughout weekdays and weekends.

The CATS study shows that the highest percentages of accidents occur in November, December and January. The chief said that while the number is higher in the winter months, accidents with injuries are much more prevalent by number in May through December than in the early months of the year.

The majority of accidents occur during daylight hours, illustrating Horcher's contention that most accidents occur under clear skies in the daytime under the best of conditions.

THE CHIEF EXPLAINED the outline of dangerous streets in town, saying that 52 out of 331 accidents occurred on village streets, while 280 occurred on major highways.

For comparison, Horcher estimated that there are 10 miles of highway in the village limits and 40 miles of local streets.

The street with the highest accident rate in the village is McHenry Road. The CATS study reaches that rate by comparing the accident number on a road to the millions of vehicle miles traveled on the road.

That comparison gives McHenry Road a rating of 15 accidents, Elmhurst Road a 14.2 rating, and Hintz Road a 14.6 rate. These are the three most dangerous streets in Wheeling.

The highest number of accidents occur on Dundee Road, which had an accident rate of 9.8. It has the highest average daily traffic figure in the village and the highest millions of vehicle miles traveled. A total of 128 of the accidents out of 331 in Wheeling occurred on Dundee.

Milwaukee Avenue also ranked high in average daily traffic and millions of vehicle miles traveled. There were 35 accidents on that street last year.

OTHER INFORMATION from the survey indicates that drivers from 16 to 19 have a higher percentage of the accidents for a small age bracket. Most accidents involve men, and 59.3 per cent of all accidents in the village involve residents of the Chicago metropolitan area. Wheeling residents are involved in 31 per cent. Men have approximately twice as many accidents as women, the study shows.

TISH CARBERRY, center, played by Cora Lee Nagel, chats with Charlie Sands, played by Gary Ewen, and Aggie Leighton, played by Debbie Siers, graders, members of the fine arts production, "Tish." Auto Slams House, Garage

A Wheeling family almost had their house knocked off the block Sunday evening

Mr. and Mrs George Chobanian, 587 Merle Lane, returned home with their three children from a drive-in movie late Sunday night to find what looked like the scene of a tornado

Actually, the driver of a car had apparently lost control and careened into the Chobanian's garage, hitting the side of the house first

"We had just been to a war movie," Mrs. Chobanian said, "and upon seeing my house, I didn't know what to think. I thought, then, it might have been a tornado. Then I thought somebody had thrown a bomb That's what it looked like"

No estimate of the damages to the garage and house, located on the uncurved part of Merle Lane, has been made

"WE'RE LUCKY NO one was home The kids always play in the driveway, and they probably would have been hit," Mrs. Chobanian said

The Chobanians' neighbors, Mr. and Mrs Donald Lark, 593 Merle, first thought the car was going to join them in their living room

"Our neighbors tried to duck out of the way, because they saw headlights coming toward their front room window," Mrs Chobanian said. "Then it veered toward our house, nicked the side, and crashed into the front door of the garage, pushing my husband's car through the back of the garage"

The Chobanian car was damaged slightly The car responsible for the damage was towed away Monday morning, according to Mrs Chobanian. Wheeling police did not release the name of the driver because they had not completed the accident report

STRAYING CARS are not an unfamiliar sight on Merle Lane "Several times along the street cars have gone up on the grass, and quite a few trees have been clipped by cars," Mrs Chobanian said. "They speed through like it's a freeway"

"The 30 mile an hour speed limit is too fast for these side streets," she said "Kids play baseball in the street, and they're really in danger"

Debate Aid Issue

State aid to nonpublic schools, one of the hottest issues facing the legislature this session, will be debated at the Wheeling Township Republican Organization meeting Thursday night

The meeting will begin at 8:15 p m in the VFW Hall, Yale and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights

Debating the issue will be State Rep Edward Copeland, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of a house bill granting aid to nonpublic schools, and Mrs. Peggy Norton, state PTA legislative chairman and the PTA's lobbyist in Springfield.

COPELAND IS A two-term Republican legislator from Chicago's 10th District and a lawyer who was graduated from Carleton College and the Northwestern University law school. His bill HB 1116, is one of two now in the Senate Education committee after having passed the House.

HB 1116 provides for grants of $60 per elementary student and $90 per high school student, payable to private schools meeting certain standards

Mrs Norton, a Chicagoan, has been in Springfield all session testifying at committee hearings maintaining the PTA's strong stand against non-public school aid. Her organization's arguments center around the state's financial bind and its responsibility to meet the public school needs first

MRS. NORTON HAS appeared in this area as a speaker at League of Women Voters' legislative workshops and at PTA programs focusing on legislative issues

The fate of Copeland's bill and the other non-public school aid bill, HB 2350, is rated by Senate observers as "uncertain." If either bill clears the Senate Education Committee, it will be voted on by the entire Senate within the next two weeks. Voters on both sides of the issue are working hard to reach as many legislators as possible in that short time.

Groundbreaking Held For Two Businesses

Groundbreaking was held recently for two new businesses in the north Wheeling Township area.

An enclosed mall shopping center will be built this year on the northwest corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads in Buffalo Grove. The center is expected to open in November.

Kenroy, Inc., is developing the mall with Robert Weber, director of commercial leasing, and Stewart L. Grill, president of the Contracting and Consulting Corp.

Simonize Wax, National Tea Co. and Scott stores are already scheduled to move into the complex.

The newest addition to the Arlington Heights Industrial and Research Center in northern Arlington Heights will be the Cincinnati-Forte Co. Rudolph Toczyle is vice president and manager of the Chicago manufacturing firm.

Kenroy is the park's developer.

Pass Double-Tax Bill

A bill to end the double taxation currently in effect in some northern subdivisions in Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights has passed the Senate and now awaits the governor's signature.

The bill, HB 845, will allow areas such as Arlington Vista, Dunroven, Tallyrand, in Arlington Heights, and Wedgewood Terrace in Mount Prospect to disannex from the Prospect Heights library district.

Homeowners in these areas are now paying taxes to support both the Prospect Heights Library and the library in their village.

It is costing them an extra $7 51 cents each year for the services of the small library in Prospect Heights.

IF GOV. RICHARD Ogilvie signs the bill, it will go into effect Jan. 1, 1970. However, the $7.51 will not be removed from the tax bills until 1971.

Another bill, HB 844 has also been passed by the Senate. It requires municipal trustees to give notice of any annexation that will effect a library district.

However, even if the bills become law the taxpayers may not obtain relief if the library district decides to fight the disannexation in court.

After Jan. 1, 1970, the library district can, if it so desires, file suit to stop disannexation.

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined

This is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of [illegible] County townships which went Democratic last November Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56 1 per cent of the vote Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee completely reassesses its attitudes toward those areas

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago"

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it"

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said

Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep. Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

Much primary attention will paid to the Republicans' race with a field of at least eight candidates from the predominantly Republican district.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

swimmers.

The referendum on Saturday also includes an allowance for construction of a new indoor pool at Wheeling High School. Backers of the referendum are optimistic that an indoor pool will not only allow district residents to swim throughout the year, but will cut down overcrowding during summer months.

But whether the referendum passes or not, the pool will open Saturday for the summer.

A YOUNG BOY who spends much of his time at the community pool in the summer was asked about conditions there. "It's really crowded, mostly with kids," he said. "I think a new pool, if the public could use it, would help," he said, pointing out that kids from the Dunhurst area would swim there.

School Tax Hike Urged

by SUE CARSON

Passage of the 21 cent school tax hike in Dist. 23 on June 28 is deemed an absolute "must" by district Supt. Edward Grodsky.

"We're at the brink of no return. The longer the people delay passing this referendum, the more money the district will have to borrow and the more precarious our financial position will become," he declared.

Passage of the referendum, would increase the school tax on homes from $1.60 to $1.81, boosting the total revenue of the district an estimated $50,000 yearly. The new taxes won't reach homeowners until 1971 however, and funds won't be available to the schools until the spring of 1970 at the earliest. In an election April 15, voters turned down the proposal by a vote of 523 to 474.

Evidence of the financial bind the district finds itself in, shows in the proposed budget for 1969-70. If this budget is adopted, the district will operate with a $290,000 deficit in the educational fund.

THOUGH THE DISTRICT expects to receive an additional $97,000 in state aid this year, total expenditures in the educational fund have been set at $1,563,420, and total revenue at only $1,233,428. The difference will be made up by issuing $290,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants (TAW's).

TAW's are loans which allow a school district to receive additional operating money immediately, instead of waiting until more tax revenues are collected. The loans must be paid back, with interest, when the anticipated tax funds are made available.

If the proposed budget is adopted after a public hearing scheduled for July 7, and the district does issue $290,000 worth of TAW's it will be borrowing about 66 per cent of the total amount of taxes it expects to collect in the coming year.

Even if the June 28 referendum passes, Dist. 23 still won't be out of the red. The extra money, which won't be available until the spring of 1970 at the earliest, will be used only to reduce the TAW load from 66 to 50 per cent.

"IF THIS REFERENDUM doesn't pass, some $85,000 will probably have to be cut from the educational fund in the 1970-71 budget," Grodsky said.

"I don't know where cuts would be made," he continued. "Larger classes or even split shifts might be the result, though these decisions would be up to the school board, not to me. I don't want to sound like I'm making any threats.

"The referendum simply must be approved. I don't know what else I can do to explain our situation to the voters. I've presented the facts over and over again," he sighed.

John Stull, Dist. 23 board member, said there is no guarantee that the schools will go on split shifts if the referendum loses. "I wouldn't want to see this happen, but some board members are convinced that this would be the case if the referendum doesn't pass," Stull said.

The financial problem now plaguing Dist. 23 has resulted from ever-increasing operational costs and rising salaries, a phenomenom common to all area school district. The squeeze is especially tight in Dist. 23, however, because therea re almost no industries to help support the tax load. Individual homeowners must bear the burden themselves.

AND THE PROBLEM is likely to continue, for Grodsky estimated that enrollment is growing at the rate of 8 to 10 per cent a year. Some 1,800 students will be attending the three elementary schools and two junior highs next fall.

One of the junior high school, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is scheduled to open its doors for the first time in September, and the superintendent estimated that another elementary school will be needed in the northwest corner of the district in two or three years.

"It might be needed even sooner if builders decide to put up a lot of new houses and apartments," he said.

Grodsky believes part of the reason the referendum was defeated in April was because there were too many issues on the ballot.

"Voter turn-out was high, probably because high school and junior college boards were also being elected. But since there was only one polling place, long lines formed and probably a lot of people who would have voted decided not to wait when they saw the mob," he explained.

"I WOULD HOPE we could do better this time since the referendum will be the only issue on the ballot," he said.

Polling hours have been extended and the station will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in an effort to prevent congestion.

Larry Purcell, chairman of the citizen's committee formed to encourage a "yes" vote on the referendum, said his group plans to initiate a telephone campaign to get out the vote.

"I don't know what else we'll do. So much was done in April to publicize the referendum that the people surely must have the facts by now," Purcell said.

RELIGION ON THE MOVE — Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church moved to Chamber of Commerce Park yesterday. A new donut store is going in next to the village hall on the church's original site on Dundee Road.

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer.

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter.

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war.

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON - Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern.

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it.

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh.

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing. A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23. She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white. The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County.

Rainfall Leads To Flooding

Heavy rains which fell during the weekend resulted in flooding in several areas in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights.

Residents in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling reported several instances of flooding in their areas to police.

In Wheeling the most serious flooding occurred at Highland And Wolf roads. storm water began flooding Highland Road at noon Sunday.

Mrs. Leonard McEstes of 100 Highland Road notified police of the flooding at p.m. In some places, Mrs. McEstes said, the water was more than 2½ feet deep.

Later Sunday afternoon Mrs. McEstes and her husband blocked off Highland Road at Wolf Road to stop cars from driving through the water. The cars were causing waves, thus sending more water into homes.

Wheeling police made them move their vehicles. The Department of Public Works in Wheeling later blocked off the street with wooden barricades.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS living on Highland Road were forced to move belongings they had stored in basements to the first or second floors of their homes. Flooding water in one basement caused the heat and electricity to go off in one house.

Edward Burger of 1044 Anthony in Wheeling reported to police that sanitary sewers in six houses in his area were backing up. Burger's wife said this usually occurs during heavy rains in their area.

Nearby Husky Park was also flooded during the weekend.

Richard Mielke of 149 South Wolf Road also reported flooding in his area.

In Buffalo Grove, police records showed only one case of serious flooding. That was on University Drive in the Cambridge subdivision. Residents reported water came to within three feet of their homes.

The water on the street was deep enough for one man to operate a power boat on it.

By Monday afternoon the water had receded from yards. However, about four inches of water remained in the street.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN from the Forest River Fire Protection District worked all day Sunday combating floods in the Euclid-Lake area of Prospect Heights.

Firemen started early Sunday morning pumping out basements flooded with backed up sewage. At times the numbers of residents calling for help was so great that firemen were not able to keep up with them.

On Jackson Drive, north of Hintz Road behind the Cambridge subdivision, water flooded the street and several yards. The street lies in an unincorporated part of Wheeling Township.

Church Makes Move

Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church found a new home Monday in Chamber of Commerce Park on Wolf Road.

The church, being saved as a historical monument, made a slow trip down Dundee Road under several sets of electrical and telephone wires.

Traffic on the village's major street was diverted around the building at first, and then came to a standstill as the old church made its way around the corner at Dundee and Wolf roads.

Directing much of the action was Ron Ignatius, a historical society member who has assumed responsibilities for coordinating citizens' activities to preserve the old church.

The building moved slowly down Dundee, stopping for electrical utility workers to disconnect and lift electrical lines on the way. The village hall, adjacent to the church's original location, was put on an emergency power system while wires were disconnected.

POLICEMEN DIRECTED traffic on Dundee and Wolf and on Dundee and Milwaukee Avenue, holding back and diverting cars. When the church turned onto Wolf Road, a burst of traffic flooded across Dundee for seeveral minutes until the backlog cleared.

Children from parochial schools who were out of school for the summer followed the large white building as it moved down the street. Interested bystanders lined the street as if a parade had come to town, and harried policemen coped with a steady strem of diverted traffic.

Finally the old church turned onto the dirt road which leads to Chamber of Commerce Park. Workmen plan to place the church on the northeast corner of the Chamber property later this week. Work on a foundation and restoration of the church will then begin.

ONCE THE ONLY CHURCH in the area, the building served all congregations in the Wheeling area. Plans for use of the church have not been determined as yet, although historical society members hoped it will be restored.

Ignatius said fees for the electrical work and moving the church along with necessary permits will cost more than $4,700. Contributions for the moving and restorative work on the church are still being sought by the village's historical society.

Pool Set to Open

Wheeling's Community Pool is filled and ready for opening Saturday.

But the pool isn't going to have any underwater lights this year.

Fred Arndt, park district superintendent said the lights need fixing. "We wouldn't want to take the chance of someone getting a bad shock."

A dangerous electrical problem and touchup painting are only two of the problems which plague the Wheeling Community Pool.

The pool purchase is part of a park district referendum this Saturday which would allow the park district to buy and fix up the pool.

AT FIRST GLANCE the pool appears clean and ready. But under the outside appearance there is a problem with leaks which could cost up to $4,000 to fix permanently.

Arndt talks optimistically about the district's plans for the pool if the referendum passes.

"We'd like to move the playground equipment out into Chamber of Commerce Park and turn the existing play area into a sundeck for adults," he said. Other plans for money from the referendum would include painting the outside building, putting in a new concession area, and making the existing concession area into a controlled entrance for the pool facility.

HOPES THAT THE building can be completely roofed soon lurk in the back of Arndt and park board members' minds.

The superintendent says that adults have a problem at the pool because of overcrowding and the fact that the play area is too close to the pool.

Other needed work are additional lockers, masonry work, painting for the bathhouse, heightening of the filter and storage building, new filter leaves, and addition of a water softener unit.

New steel poles for the overhead floodlights were also proposed to the park district in a recent study by district consultants, McFadzean and Everly.

ANOTHER PROBLEM WITH the pool is overcrowding in the summer. A lifeguard explained that several times last summer the pool had to be closed to additional

McHenry Has Most Accidents

On a November afternoon, a 16-year-old boy driving down McHenry Road in Wheeling failed to yield to a car with the right-of-way.

The other car hit his car in the rear, banging up both cars, but not hurting either of the drivers. The boy was a resident of another suburb.

The above is not a real accident.

It is however, the average accident that occurs in Wheeling acording to statistics revealed in a recent survey of Wheeling streets in a Chicago area transportation study.

The study, "A Summary of Traffic Accidents, 1968, for the Village of Wheeling," points out the most dangerous streets and conditions in the village. Its goal is to help police improve enforcement so accidents and be avoided, and to point out poorly engineered streets and intersections which need improvement.

One statistic from the study termed significant by Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher, is that 30 per cent of all accidents in the village result in injuries.

MOST ACCIDENTS, 80.8 per cent to be exact, involve motor vehicles in traffic.

Typical kinds of collision are rear-end, turn maneuver, broadside collisions, and sideswipes.

Most accidents in Wheeling occur between 3 and 5 p.m. Other heavy accident hours at 7, 8, and 9 a.m., the CATS survey shows.

Chief Horcher noted that the report shows that there is very little difference between accident rates on different days of the week. Monday has the fewest accidents, but the range shows a fairly even spread of accidents throughout weekdays and weekends.

The CATS study shows that the highest percentages of accidents occur in November, December and January. The chief said that while the number is higher in the winter months, accidents with injuries are much more prevalent by number in May through December than in the early months of the year.

The majority of accidents occur during daylight hours, illustrating Horcher's contention that most accidents occur under clear skies in the daytime under the best of conditions.

THE CHIEF EXPLAINED the outline of dangerous streets in town, saying that 52 out of 331 accidents occurred on village streets, while 280 occurred on major highways.

For comparison, Horcher estimated that there are 10 miles of highway in the village limits and 40 miles of local streets.

The street with the highest accident rate in the village is McHenry Road. The CATS study reaches that rate by comparing the accident number on a road to the millions of vehicle miles traveled on the road.

That comparison gives McHenry Road a rating of 15 accidents, Elmhurst Road a 14.2 rating, and Hintz Road a 14.6 rate. These are the three most dangerous streets in Wheeling.

The highest number of accidents occur on Dundee Road, which had an accident rate of 9.8. It has the highest average daily traffic figure in the village and the highest millions of vehicle miles traveled. A total of 128 of the accidents out of 331 in Wheeling occurred on Dundee.

Milwaukee Avenue also ranked high in average daily traffic and millions of vehicle miles traveled. There were 35 accidents on that street last year.

OTHER INFORMATION from the survey indicates that drivers from 16 to 19 have a higher percentage of the accidents for a small age bracket. Most accidents involve men, and 59.3 per cent of all accidents in the village involve residents of the Chicago metropolitan area. Wheeling residents are involved in 31 per cent. Men have approximately twice as many accidents as women, the study shows.

Auto Slams House, Garage

A Wheeling family almost had their house knocked off the block Sunday evening.

Mr and Mrs George Chobanian, 587 Merle Lane, returned home with their three children from a drive-in movie late Sunday night to find what looked like the scene of a tornado

Actually, the driver of a car had apparently lost control and careened into the Chobanian's garage, hitting the side of the house first

"We had just been to a war movie," Mrs. Chobanian said, "and upon seeing my house, I didn't know what to think I thought, then, it might have been a tornado. Then I thought somebody had thrown a bomb That's what it looked like."

No estimate of the damages to the garage and house, located on the uncurved part of Merle Lane, has been made

"WE'RE LUCKY NO one was home. The kids always play in the driveway, and they probably would have been hit," Mrs Chobanian said.

The Chobanians' neighbors, Mr. and Mrs Donald Lark, 593 Merle, first thought the car was going to join them in their living room

"Our neighbors tried to duck out of the way, because they saw headlights coming toward their front room window," Mrs Chobanian said "Then it veered toward our house, nicked the side, and crashed into the front door of the garage pushing my husband's car through the back of the garage."

The Chobanian car was damaged slightly. The car responsible for the damage was towed away Monday morning according to Mrs Chobanian Wheeling police did not release the name of the driver because they had not completed the accident report

STRAYING CARS are not an unfamiliar sight on Merle Lane "Several times along the street cars have gone up on the grass and quite a few trees have been clipped by cars Mrs Chobanian said "They speed through like it's a freeway."

"The 30 mile an hour speed limit is too fast for these side streets," she said. "Kids play baseball in the street and they're really in danger."

Groundbreaking Held For Two Businesses

Groundbreaking was held recently for two new businesses in the north Wheeling Township area.

An enclosed mall shopping center will be built this year on the northwest corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads in Buffalo Grove. The center is expected to open in November.

Kenroy, Inc., is developing the mall with Robert Weber, director of commercial leasing, and Stewart L. Grill, president of the Contracting and Consulting Corp.

Simonize Wax, National Tea Co and Scott stores are already scheduled to move into the complex.

The newest addition to the Arlington Heights Industrial and Research Center in northern Arlington Heights will be the Cincinnati-Forte Co. Rudolph Toczyle is vice president and manager of the Chicago manufacturing firm.

Kenroy is the park's developer.

Debate Aid Issue

State aid to nonpublic schools, one of the hottest issues facing the legislature this session, will be debated at the Wheeling Township Republican Organization meeting Thursday night

The meeting will begin at 8 15 p m in the VFW Hall, Yale and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights

Debating the issue will be State Rep Edward Copeland, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of a house bill granting aid to nonpublic schools, and Mrs Peggy Norton, state PTA legislative chairman and the PTA's lobbyist in Springfield.

COPELAND IS A two-term Republican legislator from Chicago's 10th District and a lawyer who was graduated from Carleton College and the Northwestern University law school. His bill HB 1116, is one of two now in the Senate Education committee after having passed the House.

HB 1116 provides for grants of $60 per elementary student and $90 per high school student, payable to private schools meeting certain standards

Mrs Norton, a Chicagoan, has been in Springfield all session testifying at committee hearings maintaining the PTA's strong stand against non public school aid. Her organization's arguments center around the state's financial bind and its responsibility to meet the public school needs first

MRS. NORTON HAS appeared in this area as a speaker at League of Women Voters' legislative workshops and at PTA programs focusing on legislative issues

The fate of Copeland's bill and the other non-public school aid bill, HB 2350, is rated by Senate observers as "uncertain." If either bill clears the Senate Education Committee, it will be voted on by the entire Senate within the next two weeks Voters on both sides of the issue are working hard to reach as many legislators as possible in that short time

Pass Double-Tax Bill

A bill to end the double taxation currently in effect in some northern subdivisions in Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights has passed the Senate and now awaits the governor's signature.

The bill, HB 845, will allow areas such as Arlington Vista, Dunroven, Tallyrand, in Arlington Heights, and Wedgewood Terrace in Mount Prospect to disannex from the Prospect Heights library district.

Homeowners in these areas are now paying taxes to support both the Prospect Heights Library and the library in their village.

It is costing them an extra $7.51 cents each year for the services of the small library in Prospect Heights.

IF GOV. RICHARD Ogilvie signs the bill, it will go into effect Jan. 1, 1970 However, the $7 51 will not be removed from the tax bills until 1971.

Another bill, HB 844 has also been passed by the Senate. It requires municipal trustees to give notice of any annexation that will effect a library district

However, even if the bills become law the taxpayers may not obtain relief if the library district decides to fight the disannexation in court.

After Jan 1, 1970, the library district can, if it so desires, file suit to stop disannexation.

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56 1 per cent of the vote Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44 4 per cent

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II"

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee completely reassesses its attitudes toward those areas

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization'."

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

Much primary attention will paid to the Republicans' race with a field of at least eight candidates from the predominantly Republican district.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

swimmers.

The referendum on Saturday also includes an allowance for construction of a new indoor pool at Wheeling High School. Backers of the referendum are optimistic that an indoor pool will not only allow district residents to swim throughout the year, but will cut down overcrowding during summer months.

But whether the referendum passes or not, the pool will open Saturday for the summer.

A YOUNG BOY who spends much of his time at the community pool in the summer was asked about conditions there. "It's really crowded, mostly with kids," he said. "I think a new pool, if the public could use it, would help," he said, pointing out that kids from the Dunhurst area would swim there

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war.

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it

See No Combat Change

SAIGON - The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23 She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County.

Passage of the 21 cent school tax hike in Dist. 23 on June 28 is deemed an absolute "must" by district Supt. Edward Grodsky.

"We're at the brink of no return. The longer the people delay passing this referendum, the more money the district will have to borrow and the more precarious our financial position will become," he declared.

Passage of the referendum, would increase the school tax on homes from $1.60 to $1.81, boosting the total revenue of the district an estimated $50,000 yearly. The new taxes won't reach homeowners until 1971 however, and funds won't be available to the schools until the spring of 1970 at the earliest. In an election April 15, voters turned down the proposal by a vote of 523 to 474

Evidence of the financial bind the district finds itself in, shows in the proposed budget for 1969-70. If this budget is adopted, the district will operate with a $290,000 deficit in the educational fund.

THOUGH THE DISTRICT expects to receive an additional $97,000 in state aid this year, total expenditures in the educational fund have been set at $1,563,420, and total revenue at only $1,233,428. The difference will be made up by issuing $290,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants (TAW's).

TAW's are loans which allow a school district to receive additional operating money immediately, instead of waiting until more tax revenues are collected. The loans must be paid back, with interest, when the anticipated tax funds are made available

If the proposed budget is adopted after a public hearing scheduled for July 7, and the district does issue $290,000 worth of TAW's it will be borrowing about 66 per cent of the total amount of taxes it expects to collect in the coming year.

Even if the June 28 referendum passes, Dist. 23 still won't be out of the red. The extra money, which won't be available until the spring of 1970 at the earliest, will be used only to reduce the TAW load from 66 to 50 per cent.

"IF THIS REFERENDUM doesn't pass, some $85,000 will probably have to be cut from the educational fund in the 1970-71 budget," Grodsky said.

"I don't know where cuts would be made," he continued. "Larger classes or even split shifts might be the result, though these decisions would be up to the school board, not to me. I don't want to sound like I'm making any threats.

"The referendum simply must be approved. I don't know what else I can do to explain our situation to the voters. I've presented the facts over and over again," he sighed.

John Stull, Dist. 23 board member, said there is no guarantee that the schools will go on split shifts if the referendum loses. "I wouldn't want to see this happen, but some board members are convinced that this would be the case if the referendum doesn't pass," Stull said.

The financial problem now plaguing Dist. 23 has resulted from ever-increasing operational costs and rising salaries, a phenomenom common to all area school district. The squeeze is especially tight in Dist. 23, however, because therea re almost no industries to help support the tax load. Individual homeowners must bear the burden themselves.

AND THE PROBLEM is likely to continue, for Grodsky estimated that enrollment is growing at the rate of 8 to 10 per cent a year. Some 1,800 students will be attending the three elementary schools and two junior highs next fall.

One of the junior high school, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is scheduled to open its doors for the first time in September, and the superintendent estimated that another elementary school will be needed in the northwest corner of the district in two or three years.

"It might be needed even sooner if builders decide to put up a lot of new houses and apartments," he said.

Grodsky believes part of the reason the referendum was defeated in April was because there were too many issues on the ballot.

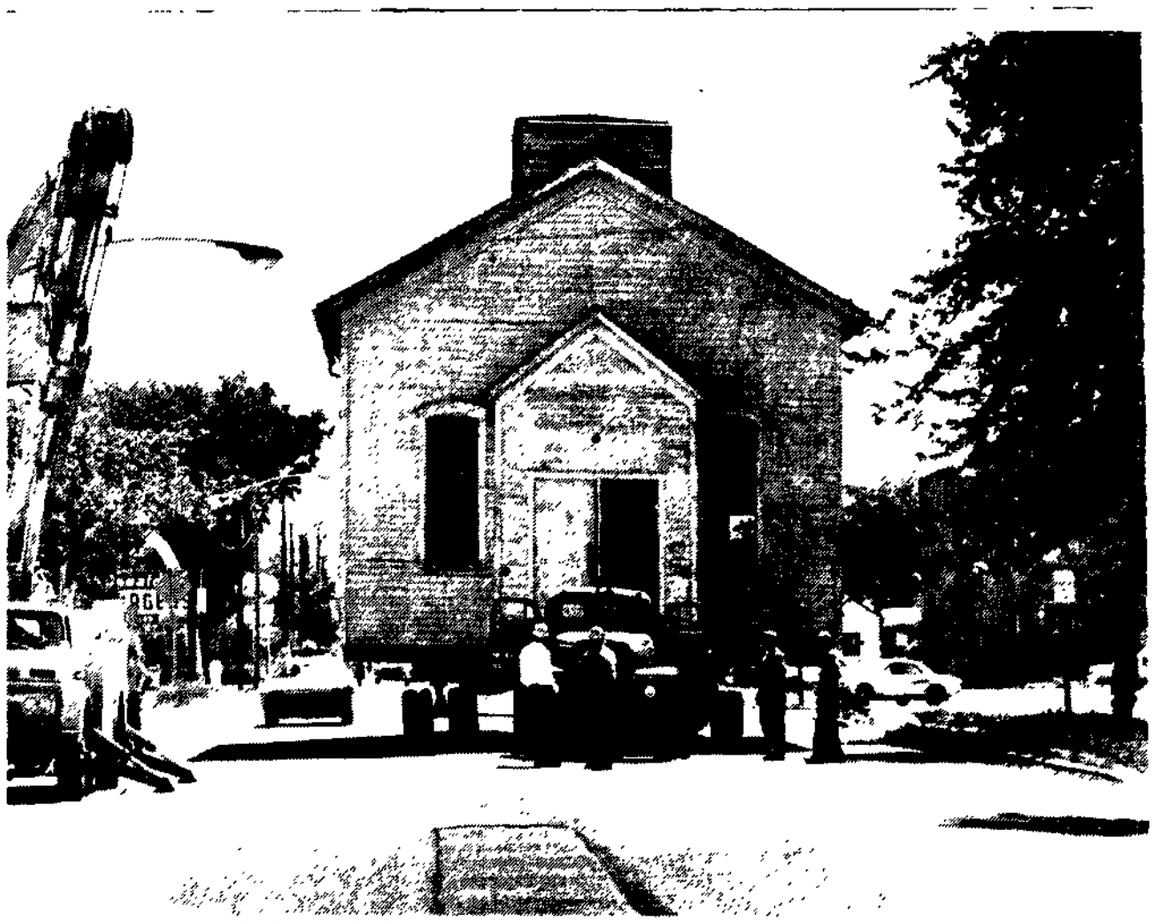
"Voter turn-out was high, probably because high school and junior college boards were also being elected. But since there was only one polling place, long lines formed and probably a lot of people who would have voted decided not to wait when they saw the mob," he explained.

"I WOULD HOPE we could do better this time since the referendum will be the only issue on the ballot," he said.

Polling hours have been extended and the station will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in an effort to prevent congestion.

Larry Purcell, chairman of the citizen's committee formed to encourage a "yes" vote on the referendum, said his group plans to initiate a telephone campaign to get out the vote.

"I don't know what else we'll do. So much was done in April to publicize the referendum that the people surely must have the facts by now," Purcell said.



RELIGION ON THE MOVE — Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church moved to Chamber of Commerce Park yesterday. A new donut store is going in next to the village hall on the church's original site on Dundee Road.

Rainfall Leads To Flooding

Heavy rains which fell during the weekend resulted in flooding in several areas in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights.

Residents in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling reported several instances of flooding in their areas to police.

In Wheeling the most serious flooding occurred at Highland And Wolf roads. storm water began flooding Highland Road at noon Sunday

Mrs. Leonard McEstes of 100 Highland Road notified police of the flooding at p.m. In some places, Mrs. McEstes said, the water was more than 2½ feet deep.

Later Sunday afternoon Mrs. McEstes and her husband blocked off Highland Road at Wolf Road to stop cars from driving through the water. The cars were causing waves, thus sending more water into homes.

Wheeling police made them move their vehicles The Department of Public Works in Wheeling later blocked off the street with wooden barricades.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS living on Highland Road were forced to move belongings they had stored in basements to the first or second floors of their homes. Flooding water in one basement caused the heat and electricity to go off in one house.

Edward Burger of 1044 Anthony in Wheeling reported to police that sanitary sewers in six houses in his area were backing up. Burger's wife said this usually occurs during heavy rains in their area.

Nearby Husky Park was also flooded during the weekend

Richard Mielke of 149 South Wolf Road also reported flooding in his area.

In Buffalo Grove, police records showed only one case of serious flooding. That was on University Drive in the Cambridge subdivision. Residents reported water came to within three feet of their homes.

The water on the street was deep enough for one man to operate a power boat on it.

By Monday afternoon the water had receded from yards. However, about four inches of water remained in the street.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN from the Forest River Fire Protection District worked all day Sunday combating floods in the Euclid-Lake area of Prospect Heights.

Firemen started early Sunday morning pumping out basements flooded with backed up sewage. At times the numbers of residents calling for help was so great that firemen were not able to keep up with them.

On Jackson Drive, north of Hintz Road behind the Cambridge subdivision, water flooded the street and several yards. The street lies in an unincorporated part of Wheeling Township.

Church Makes Move

Wheeling's 105-year-old Community Church found a new home Monday in Chamber of Commerce Park on Wolf Road.

The church, being saved as a historical monument, made a slow trip down Dundee Road under several sets of electrical and telephone wires.

Traffic on the village's major street was diverted around the building at first, and then came to a standstill as the old church made its way around the corner at Dundee and Wolf roads.

Directing much of the action was Ron Ignatius, a historical society member who has assumed responsibilities for coordinating citizens' activities to preserve the old church.

The building moved slowly down Dundee, stopping for electrical utility workers to disconnect and lift electrical lines on the way. The village hall, adjacent to the church's original location, was put on an emergency power system while wires were disconnected.

POLICEMEN DIRECTED traffic on Dundee and Wolf and on Dundee and Milwaukee Avenue, holding back and diverting cars. When the church turned onto Wolf Road, a burst of traffic flooded across Dundee for seeveral minutes until the backlog cleared.

Children from parochial schools who were out of school for the summer followed the large white building as it moved down the street. Interested bystanders lined the street as if a parade had come to town, and harried policemen coped with a steady strem of diverted traffic.

Finally the old church turned onto the dirt road which leads to Chamber of Commerce Park. Workmen plan to place the church on the northeast corner of the Chamber property later this week. Work on a foundation and restoration of the church will then begin.

ONCE THE ONLY CHURCH in the area, the building served all congregations in the Wheeling area. Plans for use of the church have not been determined as yet, although historical society members hoped it will be restored.

Ignatius said fees for the electrical work and moving the church along with necessary permits will cost more than $4,700. Contributions for the moving and restorative work on the church are still being sought by the village's historical society.

Pool Set to Open

Wheeling's Community Pool is filled and ready for opening Saturday.

But the pool isn't going to have any underwater lights this year.

Fred Arndt, park district superintendent said the lights need fixing. "We wouldn't want to take the chance of someone getting a bad shock."

A dangerous electrical problem and touchup painting are only two of the problems which plague the Wheeling Community Pool.

The pool purchase is part of a park district referendum this Saturday which would allow the park district to buy and fix up the pool.

AT FIRST GLANCE the pool appears clean and ready. But under the outside appearance there is a problem with leaks which could cost up to $4,000 to fix permanently.

Arndt talks optimistically about the district's plans for the pool if the referendum passes.

"We'd like to move the playground equipment out into Chamber of Commerce Park and turn the existing play area into a sundeck for adults," he said. Other plans for money from the referendum would include painting the outside building, putting in a new concession area, and making the existing concession area into a controlled entrance for the pool facility.

HOPES THAT THE building can be completely roofed soon lurk in the back of Arndt and park board members' minds.

The superintendent says that adults have a problem at the pool because of overcrowding and the fact that the play area is too close to the pool.

Other needed work are additional lockers, masonry work, painting for the bathhouse, heightening of the filter and storage building, new filter leaves, and addition of a water softener unit.

New steel poles for the overhead floodlights were also proposed to the park district in a recent study by district consultants, McFadzean and Everly.

ANOTHER PROBLEM WITH the pool is overcrowding in the summer. A lifeguard explained that several times last summer the pool had to be closed to additional

McHenry Has Most Accidents

On a November afternoon, a 16-year-old boy driving down McHenry Road in Wheeling failed to yield to a car with the right-of-way.

The other car hit his car in the rear, banging up both cars, but not hurting either of the drivers. The boy was a resident of another suburb.

The above is not a real accident.

It is however, the average accident that occurs in Wheeling acording to sta'istics revealed in a recent survey of Wheeling streets in a Chicago area transportation study.

The study, "A Summary of Traffic Accidents, 1968, for the Village of Wheeling," points out the most dangerous streets and conditions in the village. Its goal is to help police improve enforcement so accidents and be avoided, and to point out poorly engineered streets and intersections which need improvement.

One statistic from the study termed significant by Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher, is that 30 per cent of all accidents in the village result in injuries.

MOST ACCIDENTS, 80.8 per cent to be exact, involve motor vehicles in traffic.

Typical kinds of collision are rear-end, turn maneuver, broadside collisions, and sideswipes.

Most accidents in Wheeling occur between 3 and 5 p.m. Other heavy accident hours at 7, 8, and 9 a.m., the CATS survey shows.

Chief Horcher noted that the report shows that there is very little difference between accident rates on different days of the week. Monday has the fewest accidents, but the range shows a fairly even spread of accidents throughout weekdays and weekends.

The CATS study shows that the highest percentages of accidents occur in November, December and January. The chief said that while the number is higher in the winter months, accidents with injuries are much more prevalent by number in May through December than in the early months of the year.

The majority of accidents occur during daylight hours, illustrating Horcher's contention that most accidents occur under clear skies in the daytime under the best of conditions.

THE CHIEF EXPLAINED the outline of dangerous streets in town, saying that 52 out of 331 accidents occurred on village streets, while 280 occurred on major highways.

For comparison, Horcher estimated that there are 10 miles of highway in the village limits and 40 miles of local streets.

The street with the highest accident rate in the village is McHenry Road. The CATS study reaches that rate by comparing the accident number on a road to the millions of vehicle miles traveled on the road.

That comparison gives McHenry Road a rating of 15 accidents, Elmhurst Road a 14.2 rating, and Hintz Road a 14.6 rate. These are the three most dangerous streets in Wheeling.

The highest number of accidents occur on Dundee Road, which had an accident rate of 9.8. It has the highest average daily traffic figure in the village and the highest millions of vehicle miles traveled. A total of 128 of the accidents out of 331 in Wheeling occurred on Dundee.

Milwaukee Avenue also ranked high in average daily traffic and millions of vehicle miles traveled. There were 35 accidents on that street last year.

OTHER INFORMATION from the survey indicates that drivers from 16 to 19 have a higher percentage of the accidents for a small age bracket. Most accidents involve men, and 59.3 per cent of all accidents in the village involve residents of the Chicago metropolitan area. Wheeling residents are involved in 31 per cent. Men have approximately twice as many accidents as women, the study shows.

Auto Slams House, Garage

A Wheeling family almost had their house knocked off the block Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chobanian, 587 Merle Lane, returned home with their three children from a drive-in movie late Sunday night to find what looked like the scene of a tornado.

Actually, the driver of a car had apparently lost control and careened into the Chobanian's garage, hitting the side of the house first.

"We had just been to a war movie," Mrs. Chobanian said, "and upon seeing my house, I didn't know what to think. I thought, then, it might have been a tornado. Then I thought somebody had thrown a bomb. That's what it looked like."

No estimate of the damages to the garage and house, located on the uncurved part of Merle Lane, has been made.

"WE'RE LUCKY NO one was home. The kids always play in the driveway, and they probably would have been hit," Mrs. Chobanian said.

The Chobanians' neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lark, 593 Merle, first thought the car was going to join them in their living room.

"Our neighbors tried to duck out of the way, because they saw headlights coming toward their front room window," Mrs. Chobanian said. "Then it veered toward our house, nicked the side, and crashed into the front door of the garage, pushing my husband's car through the back of the garage."

The Chobanian car was damaged slightly. The car responsible for the damage was towed away Monday morning, according to Mrs. Chobanian. Wheeling police did not release the name of the driver because they had not completed the accident report.

STRAYING CARS are not an unfamiliar sight on Merle Lane. "Several times along the street cars have gone up on the grass, and quite a few trees have been clipped by cars," Mrs. Chobanian said. "They speed through like it's a freeway."

"The 30-mile-an-hour speed limit is too fast for these side streets," she said. "Kids play baseball in the street, and they're really in danger."

Debate Aid Issue

State sid to nonpublic schools, one ofsthe hottest issues facing the legislature this session, will be debated at the Wheeling Township Republican Organization meeting Thursday night.

The meeting will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the VFW Hall, Yale and Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Debating the issue will be State Rep. Edward Copeland, D-Chicago, chief sponsor of a house bill granting aid to nonpublic schools, and Mrs. Peggy Norton, state PTA legislative chairman and the PTA's lobbyist in Springfield.

COPELAND IS A two-term Republican legislator from Chicago's 10th District and a lawyer who was graduated from Carleton College and the Northwestern University law school. His bill HB 1116, is one of two now in the Senate Education committee after having passed the House.

HB 1116 provides for grants of $60 per elementary student and $90 per high school student, payable to private schools meeting certain standards.

Mrs. Norton, a Chicagoan, has been in Springfield all session testifying at committee hearings maintaining the PTA's strong stand against non-public school aid. Her organization's arguments center around the state's financial bind and its responsibility to meet the public school needs first.

MRS. NORTON HAS appeared in this area as a speaker at League of Women Voters' legislative workshops and at PTA programs focusing on legislative issues.

The fate of Copeland's bill and the other non-public school aid bill, HB 2950, is rated by Senate observers as "uncertain." If either bill clears the Senate Education Committee, it will be voted on by the entire Senate within the next two weeks. Voters on both sides of the issue are working hard to reach as many legislators as possible in that short time.

Groundbreaking Held For Two Businesses

Groundbreaking was held recently for two new businesses in the north Wheeling Township area.

An enclosed mall shopping center will be built this year on the northwest corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads in Buffalo Grove. The center is expected to open in November.

Kenroy, Inc., is developing the mall with Robert Weber, director of commercial leasing, and Stewart L. Grill, president of the Contracting and Consulting Corp.

Simonize Wax, National Tea Co. and Scott stores are already scheduled to move into the complex.

The newest addition to the Arlington Heights Industrial and Research Center in northern Arlington Heights will be the Cincinnati-Forte Co. Rudolph Toczyle is vice president and manager of the Chicago manufacturing firm.

Kenroy is the park's developer.

Pass Double-Tax Bill

A bill to end the double taxation currently in effect in some northern subdivisions in Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights has passed the Senate and now awaits the governor's signature.

The bill, HB 845, will allow areas such as Arlington Vista, Dunroven, Tallyrand, in Arlington Heights, and Wedgewood Terrace in Mount Prospect to disannex from the Prospect Heights library district.

Homeowners in these areas are now paying taxes to support both the Prospect Heights Library and the library in their village.

It is costing them an extra $7.51 cents each year for the services of the small library in Prospect Heights.

IF GOV. RICHARD Ogilvie signs the bill, it will go into effect Jan. 1, 1970. However, the $7.51 will not be removed from the tax bills until 1971.

Another bill, HB 844 has also been passed by the Senate. It requires municipal trustees to give notice of any annexation that will effect a library district.

However, even if the bills become law the taxpayers may not obtain relief if the library district decides to fight the disannexation in court.

After Jan. 1, 1970, the library district can, if it so desires, file suit to stop disannexation.

by ED BURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That's the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee completely reassesses its attitudes toward those areas."

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep. Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

Much primary attention will paid to the Republicans' race with a field of at least eight candidates from the predominantly Republican district.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

swimmers.

The referendum on Saturday also includes an allowance for construction of a new indoor pool at Wheeling High School. Backers of the referendum are optimistic that an indoor pool will not only allow district residents to swim throughout the year, but will cut down overcrowding during summer months.

But whether the referendum passes or not, the pool will open Saturday for the summer.

A YOUNG BOY who spends much of his time at the community pool in the summer was asked about conditions there. "It's really crowded, mostly with kids," he said. "I think a new pool, if the public could use it, would help," he said, pointing out that kids from the Dunhurst area would swim there.

Apartments Draw Flak

Plans for construction of 86 apartments on South Plum Grove Road between Rolling Meadows and Palatine were unveiled before the county zoning board yesterday afternoon.

The proposed four-story buildings to be located just west of Plum Grove Road between Illinois Street and Aldridge Avenue drew strong objection from surrounding homeowners.

A petition objecting to rezoning of the approximately three-acre tract with pages of signatures was presented to the board

Proposed for the area are two four-story buildings with elevators containing 46 two-bedroom apartments and 34-one-bedroom units.

Rent would range from $190 to $255 a month, according to Robert di Gerolomo, developer of the land.

He said the total project would cost about $900,000 exclusive of site improvements and purchase price of the property.

NEIGHBORING HOMEOWNERS gave several reasons for objecting to the apartments including anticiapted traffic congestion on South Plum Grove Road, inadequate storm water drainage, overloading of the school system and possible devaluation of their homes.

Officials from both Palatine and Rolling Meadows requested a 28-day delay in the zoning board's decision to allow time to file a statutory objection.

Rolling Meadows City Atty. Donald Rose said, "If multiple-family zoning is granted for the tract, it will open up the area to the west for more and more apartments.

"It seems to be a clear case of land speculation here," he added.

THE LAND DENSITY with 80 apartments proposed on less than three acres was of major concern to Palatine Village Mgr. Berton Braun.

He said, "That type of density is considerably larger than allowed in the village of Palatine."

As residents of an unincorporated area who get their water supply from private wells, homeowners also were concerned about the potential water supply for the apartment project.

Morton Kaplan, attorney for the developer, said a feasibility study of the land had been made and proved the possibility of sinking a well for the land.

"Why should they make a gold mine out of three or four acres at the expense of all of us?" a woman asked.

The tract stretches west to Brockway Street where single-family homes line both sides of the street. But a last-minute change in the zoning request Monday seeks single-family zoning for the property fronting on Brockway.

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it.

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23 She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County

PROJECT "FRIENDLY TOWN," a program which brings inter-city children to the suburbs, is still seeking host families in the Rolling Meadows and Palatine area for its summer program. Prospective host families should contact their church representatives for more information and application blanks. Or they may call Rolling Meadows-Palatine area chairman, Mrs. Betty Ginger at 259-1188, if no representative is listed for their church. Application blanks should be sent to Mrs. Ginger by June 20. She lives at 2413 Wing St., Rolling Meadows.

Friendly Town Works 2 Ways

by BOB ZANIC

This is the time of year when many suburban families are making plans for their summer vacations. Whether the family is vacationing at home or "on the road" or both, it can still include Friendly Town into its plans.

Friendly Town is a program arranged for inner-city children to visit with suburban host families for a two-week vacation during the summer. It gives the suburban family the opportunity to share its summer joy with a child from the inner city.

Rolling Meadows and Palatine churches will be working directly with the Kenwood Mothers Club of Chicago's south side in this summer's Friendly Town program. Host families are still needed.

Host familys may designate the age (from 7 to 12) and sex of the child or children they wish and may select the time period most convenient for them from the following two week sessions: July 5-19, July 19 to August 2 and Aug. 2 to 16.

THE FRIENDLY TOWN program began in 1961 when 11 inner city children were sent on the first Friendly Town visits. In the summer of 1968, 2,400 children enjoyed suburban vacations in Illinois and other participating states.

The purpose of Friendly Town is to enrich the appreciation for diversity within the human family.

Each year, the program has surpassed itself in the number of children placed in homes.

The majority of the children are between 5 and 12 years of age but some range up to 16. A great many are Negroes, but there is a sizeable portion of Puerto Ricans and whites.

Orphans are rare, but about half of the children are fatherless. All are poor and live under miserably closed conditions, and few have ever been outside the city.

Before they are released to host families, all children are carefully screened by reliable social agencies and are given health examinations. Although real delinquents are eliminated, few, if any of the youngsters, can be called model children.

"The chances of getting a 'perfect child' are one in a thousand," a brochure published by one program says, and "the chances of your getting an 'impossible child' are one in a thousand."

MOST HOST FAMILIES are allowed to specify the age and the sex of the children they take, but specification of race and religion are discouraged and in the case of many programs, flatly prohibited.

Some host families ask for only one child at a time, but it is not uncommon to ask for and be given two and perhaps three, provided they are not siblings.

In the beginning, Friendly Town was a one-way operation. The inner-city child spent a vacation with a suburban family. However, in some areas, a two-way operation has been started this year.

As much as suburban host families would like it, there is difficulty in sending their children into the inner city because, one or both of the child's parents works during the day.

Friendly Town costs the agencies approximately $10 per child. Contributions from churches, groups, host families and individuals make the continuation of Friendly Town possible.

The agency provides a sickness and accident policy on each child with benefits to $2,500.

If the hosts do not carry public liability, the agency will provide it for the period the Friendly Town children are with the host family.

BECAUSE THE AGENCY works through churches and synagogues, a minister, priest or rabbi must sign the application. At least three familids from a community need to be in the program.

In 1968, Rolling Meadows had 24 families participate in Friendly Town.

An agency representative said Friendly Town children change markedly as a result of their visits with white families. She said that apart from the obvious benefits of having grassy yards to play in and going to fun places, they also see and learn things that can change and motivate their entire families.

She said many times the children's mannerisms change for the better. In so many ways they are introduced to a different way of life.

The representative also said that one of the most important benefits to the children is that he becomes a special individual for

1,000 to Graduate

More than 1,000 eighth graders will be graduated from five Dist. 15 schools Thursday and Friday.

Last year's graduates numbered about 1,800.

Plum Grove school will be graduating its first eighth grade class Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Speaker at the commencement exercises will be school board member Leland N. Gibbs Jr

All but 11 of the 151 graduating class will attend William Fremd high school in the fall

GRAY M. SANBORN school will graduate 108 students Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium

School board member Otto R. Eilering will address the class. Most of the students will attend Palatine High School this fall, with 36 students going to William Fremd High School.

For the second year, Winston Park School will hold their commencement program outdoors. Board member J. Leslie Ehringer will address the 300 graduates Thursday at 7:15 p.m.

Most of Winston Park's graduating class will begin at Palatine high school this fall. Twenty graduates will go to William Fremd High School.

ON FRIDAY at 8 p.m., 312 eighth graders will receive their diplomas from Carl Sandburg school. Admission is by ticket only to the commencement program being held in the school gymnasium.

Joel D. Meyer, school board member, will adress the class. The majority of Carl Sandburg's graduates will attend Forest View High School, with a few attending William Fremd and Palatine high schools.

Stuart R. Paddock school will graduate 151 students Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Mrs. Patricia Oakley, school board member, will speak during the program. Most of the graduating class will attend William Fremd High School this fall.

Kids Interested in Center

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

"Winners never quit" seems to be the philosophy of the teens in the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO).

"We came out ahead on the Jog for the Joint," said Bill Hake, president of the PTYO. Even if we would have lost money, we got the kids interested, to see if they want a teen center. Hake thought this is the most important thing.

The bond drive will continue through the month of June, on a more individual basis, said Sue Veatty, PTYO secretary.

She was disappointed that people weren't more receptive, but was thankful to people who bought bonds.

"I THINK IT is kind of a rewarding thing, I feel good after I do something like that," she said.

Hake said teens and community now know about the teen center. "I think they want a teen center more than ever, after seeing it's potential," he said.

"During the month of June, the kids are going to want to sell bonds, we have a lot of homes to go back to.

"We will continue the drive, we're not going to quit," he said.

Although the Jog for the Joint raised only about $6,000, the outcome wasn't bad as far as the teens were concerned, Mrs. Loraine LaSusa, adult advisor said.

"THE TEENS ARE very encouraged, they are bound and determined to continue.

"We need adults to help that are positive and enthusiastic, and feel the young kids can do it," she said.

"They will continue the jog and finish covering Palatine daily during the summer. Now we are looking for direction, we have to go back to the older teens for support," she said.

The Joint serves a five-school area, and is the place where kids will be able to meet.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS are needed for the rennovation of the old barn into a coffeehouse and recreation center. The Joint is independent, and is run by a young board of directors, Mrs. LaSusa said.

They thought it was great, she added, it was all they had hoped to do.

Not A Group Member

Rolling Meadows resident Mrs. Anne Casper said she is not a committee member of the Enlightened Parents of Palatine.

It was reported in the June 9 edition of the Herald that she was one of the committee members.

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organiza-

'Way Back Then:' Schools

("Way Back Then," a regular feature of the Tuesday Herald, discusses life in Palatine and Rolling Meadows as it was in years past. Today, 1964 — five years ago — is featured.)

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

What is now history was, five years ago, front page news in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Zoning, taxes, new buildings and schools were prominent on the news pages. A city government tax levy of $105,000 proposed for the Rolling Meadows 1964-65 budget was cut to $95,000, necessitating little or no increase in the city's current tax rate.

A school bond referendum was proposed as a possibility for an elementary school in the Winston Park area. It was thought then that crowded conditions in the schools might force double sessions in the Winston and Jane Addams schools.

PROJECTIONS CALLED for a new school in Dist. 15 by the fall of 1965.

In Rolling Meadows, a sewer tax rate was being readied to be presented to the city council.

The sewer department was separated from the water department by new ordinancees revising downward the water billing rates and establishing a sewer tax rate to pick up the difference.

After approval of the ordinances by the city council, new water rates and a sewer-rate tax was added to quarterly billings received by Rolling Meadows water users.

Park commissioners in Rolling Meadows were notified to get a park commissioner within 60 days, the park district had no commissioner since James Holste had left the post the previous summer.

ALSO ON THE park commissioners agenda was a meeting to give consideration to construction of a playground headquarters building in Capital Drive and Salk Parks.

In early June, the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals approved a proposed professional building at the southwest corneer of Johnson and Greeeley streets.

Another zoning request ran into trouble from the Hoffman Estates village board. An 80 acre shopping center and a 1,300 unit multi-family housing project on the north side of Palatine Road was being contested.

The land for the proposed buildings had been involved in a long annexation legal battle until being settled in January of 1964 in favor of Palatine.

A 628-APARTMENT planned development of Sam Pancotta was approved by the Rolling Meadows city council. The aldermen accepted preliminary plat for project at Algonquin Road and Route 53.

Later that week, the members of Schaumburg Dist. 54 school board accused the Rolling Meadows city council of creating conditions that would lead to a future school crisis.

They saw the 628-apartment Ramblin' Rose project filled with children and no school to serve them.

In Palatine an ordinance was proposed to allow homeowners more flexibility in building permanent additions to new homes. It would permit present homeowners or new ones to make use of its provisions for additions.

ALSO THAT WEEK, Mrs. June Boston resigned as Palatine deputy clerk stating a difference of opinion with another official as the reason.

A week later she resumed her job as deputy clerk and administrative secretary after executive session of board officials.

A Chamber of Commerce committee in Rolling Meadows concluded that the purpose of a united fund drive would be defeated under conditions as they then existed. The committee had studied the feasibility of a joint campaign.

Nonbaseball lovers protested the moving of a baseball backstop to Cardinal Drive Park. The homeowners claimed the new location of the diamond brought the baseball games literally into their back yards. officials of the Rolling Meadows Park District kept the location but agreed to take steps to reduce the nuisance.

OBJECTIONS TO THE proposed regulations for O'Hare Field International Airport were removed when the City of Chicago and the Suburban Municipal Council on O'Hare zoning submitted a joint proposal to the department of aeronautics in Springfield.

The amendment submitted by attorneys for the two groups gave the suburban municipalities "home rule" on zoning matters.

Civic events in Palatine included the naming of eight persons to the newly formed Human Relations Commission.

The Rev. Raymond J. Sullivan of St. Theresa's Catholic Church was named the commission's chairman.

The commission was created by ordinance in April of 1964.

A NEW STATE fire code became effective, necessitating modifications in the buildings of Palatine-Schaumburg high school Dist. 211 and elementary school Dist. 15.

In Rolling Meadows, Forest View High School graduated its first class.

Concerning higher education, two northwest suburban high school boards voted to reactivate the Citizen's Community College Committee to investigate establishing a junior college in the area served by the two districts, Palatine Dist. 211 and Arlington Dist. 214.

A deficit of $174,000 was expected by the Palatine-Schaumburg high school Dist. 211 for the 1964-65 fiscal yeear.

THE DISTRICT HOPED to make up the defict from contingency funds. It was stated that if no increase was made in the educational tax rate, next year's budget would be in the red.

In other budgeting, the Rolling Meeadows city council adopted a $646,054 budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

That year the public hearing for the new Palatine Comprehensive Land Use Map and Master plan lasted one minute.

No one appeared to see the map or question the provisions. Besides Palatine Plan Commission members, the only persons present were Village Manager Robert Hollander, Trustee Robert Layer and a reporter from the then Palatine Enterprise.

ON THE CIVIC improvement sceene, Palatine proposed a beautification plan for thee Chicago and North Western railway station.

The Rolling Meadows city council appointed a committee to eliminate blighted, unhealthy or unsafe conditions existing on some commercial, park and city property.

The Northwest Community Hospital opened an intensive care unit to conserve vital time in an emergency or critical illness case.

On the lighter side of the news, a chicken barbecue and a band concert were added to the 4th of July celebrations in Rolling Meadows. The Chamber of Commerce organized the first annual celebration in 1962.

PALATINE VILLAGE employes were notified that the village would no longer provide beer at the annual employes picnic. The employes did get their beer, however, at no cost to them or the village.

In April, 1964, the part owner of a Palatine tavern was shot and killed by a gunman. Wayne H. Kruse of Wayne H. Kruse, Inc., a Wheeling wholesaler for a ber company, offered $300 reward for capture and conviction.

Palatine police apprehended the gunman, but turned down the reward. Village Manager Hollander remembered the incident and contacted Kruse, who supplied the employes picnic.

And to show that some things don't change too much, rains flooded the Palatine and Rolling Meadows area that June, five years ago.

ROLLING MEADOWS civil defense workers waited outside the police department last Saturday before beginning distribution of the booklet "In Time of Emergency." Fifty Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts distributed the booklets door-to-door in Rolling Meadows.

Explain 'Time of Emergency'

Approximately 50 Boy and Girl Scouts under the supervision of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense distributed over 3,300 booklets, "In Time of Emergency" to residents of Rolling Meadows.

Carmen Vinezeano, deputy director of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense headed Saturday's door-to-door delivery.

ATTACHED TO THE booklets were letters explaining that, at the present, there is no city-wide warning system but a three to five minute blast on the fire siren would be used as a warning for tornadoes.

The booklet, a citizen's handbook on nuclear attack and natural disasters, tell people what precautions to take during the tornado season.

The remaining 2,700 booklets will be passed out at a later date.

tion because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Friendly Town Works 2 Ways

two weeks. Often conditions are such at the child's home that the adults do not have sufficient time to spend with each child.

But during his Friendly Town visit he is the "big shot" with no brothers or sisters sharing his spotlight. He is the one being "made over" and catered to. This kind of special attention does wonders for a child's sense of personal worth.

Does Friendly Town affect any structural changes in society? Charles Cook, director of the Friendly Town program at the Community Renewal Society, has said that the program is being evaluated continuously in an attempt to answer this question.

COOK SAYS THAT the prime purpose of the program is not to integrate society, but to give needy children of all kinds a summer vacation that they would not have except for the Friendly Town program. It should be seen as an opportunity to give a child two weeks of summer fun.

If there are attitude changes on the part of the black children and their families, and changes in the way suburbia views inner-city problems, and if continuing relationships are established between families of two diverse communities, wonderful, he said.

Until this year, the program was sponsored by the Community Renewal Society. But because of the demand for greater control from the agencies, the society is performing a coordinating function.

The greatest change comes from the personal contacts that are now possible with the people preparing the children for their visits. The Palatine-Rolling Meadows area is working with the agency called the Kenwood Mothers Club.

Visiting dates are determined through a discussion of what the mothers preferred and what the area representative thinks would afford the host families the greatest choice.

THIS YEAR THE children will be picked up at the Kenwood United Church of Christ on the beginning day of each session. They will be returned to their homes two weeks later.

Prospective host families may contact their church representatives for more information and application blanks, or may call the area chairman, Mrs. Betty Ginger, at 259-1188, if no representative is listed for their church.

Participating churches and representatives to contact are: In Rolling Meadows, Community Church, the Rev. William H. Herman, 255-5510; Meadows Baptist, Mrs. Rose Greismeyer, 392-1312; St. Colette Catholic, Mrs. Connie Wilson, 259-3919; Trinity Lutheran, Mrs. Betty Coombs, 392-6806, and Mrs. Carol Vessell, 392-5694.

In Palatine: Bethel Lutheran, Mrs. Betty Winsell, 255-3868; Christ Lutheran, the Rev. Roy L. Jeremiah, 358-4600, First Baptist, Church of Palatine; 358-4224, Immanuel Lutheran, 359-1549; St. Phillip's Episcopal, Mrs. Karen Grzesik, 359-1684, and the Unitarian Universalist, Mrs. Karen Houghton, 255-8911.

Serving as host families also are members from St. Paul's United Church of Christ and St. Theresa in Palatine.

According to Mrs. Ginger, "If you participate in Friendly Town, you certainly are giving a child a fun-filled two weeks, but the program actually works both ways.

"Experienced host parents will agree, the benefits of Friendly Town to their own families are immeasurable. You cannot give without also receiving."

Tool Theft Reported

Richard Bickel, a machinist at American Can Co., 2000 Pratt Blvd., told Elk Grove Village police last week that $50 in tools were stolen from him when he left a section of the building to help another employe start a machine.

Earns Nursing Degree

Nancy Brome Rude of 901 Sherwood Drive, Prospect Heights, has received a bachelor of science degree in nursing at recent commencement exercises at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn.

Sex Education Presentation Set

Sex education as taught in Dist. 15 schools will be presented tonight at 8 p.m. in the Gray M. Sanborn school cafeteria.

As a result of last Thursday's meeting of the Enlightened Parents of Palatine, Marion Omiatek, director for instruction for Dist. 15, set up the presentation for parents wanting to know what materials are shown their children.

The meeting tonight will include films viewed by students in the school district.

Omiatek and teachers in Dist. 15 will be present to discuss the curriculum with parents.

Apartments Draw Flak

Plans for construction of 86 apartments on South Plum Grove Road between Rolling Meadows and Palatine were unveiled before the county zoning board yesterday afternoon.

The proposed four-story buildings to be located just west of Plum Grove Road between Illinois Street and Aldridge Avenue drew strong objection from surrounding homeowners.

A petition objecting to rezoning of the approximately three-acre tract with pages of signatures was presented to the board

Proposed for the area are two four-story buildings with elevators containing 46 two-bedroom apartments and 34-one-bedroom units.

Rent would range from $190 to $255 a month, according to Robert di Gerolomo, developer of the land.

He said the total project would cost about $900,000 exclusive of site improvements and purchase price of the property

NEIGHBORING HOMEOWNERS gave several reasons for objecting to the apartments including anticipated traffic congestion on South Plum Grove Road, inadequate storm water drainage, overloading of the school system and possible devaluation of their homes.

Officials from both Palatine and Rolling Meadows requested a 28-day delay in the zoning board's decision to allow time to file a statutory objection.

Rolling Meadows City Atty. Donald Rose said, "If multiple-family zoning is granted for the tract, it will open up the area to the west for more and more apartments

"It seems to be a clear case of land speculation here," he added.

THE LAND DENSITY with 80 apartments proposed on less than three acres was of major concern to Palatine Village Mgr. Berton Braun.

He said, "That type of density is considerably larger than allowed in the village of Palatine."

As residents of an unincorporated area who get their water supply from private wells, homeowners also were concerned about the potential water supply for the apartment project.

Morton Kaplan, attorney for the developer, said a feasibility study of the land had been made and proved the possibility of sinking a well for the land.

"Why should they make a gold mine out of three or four acres at the expense of all of us?" a woman asked.

The tract stretches west to Brockway Street where single-family homes line both sides of the street. But a last-minute change in the zoning request Monday seeks single-family zoning for the property fronting on Brockway.

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter.

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it.

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing. A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Slain Girl Found

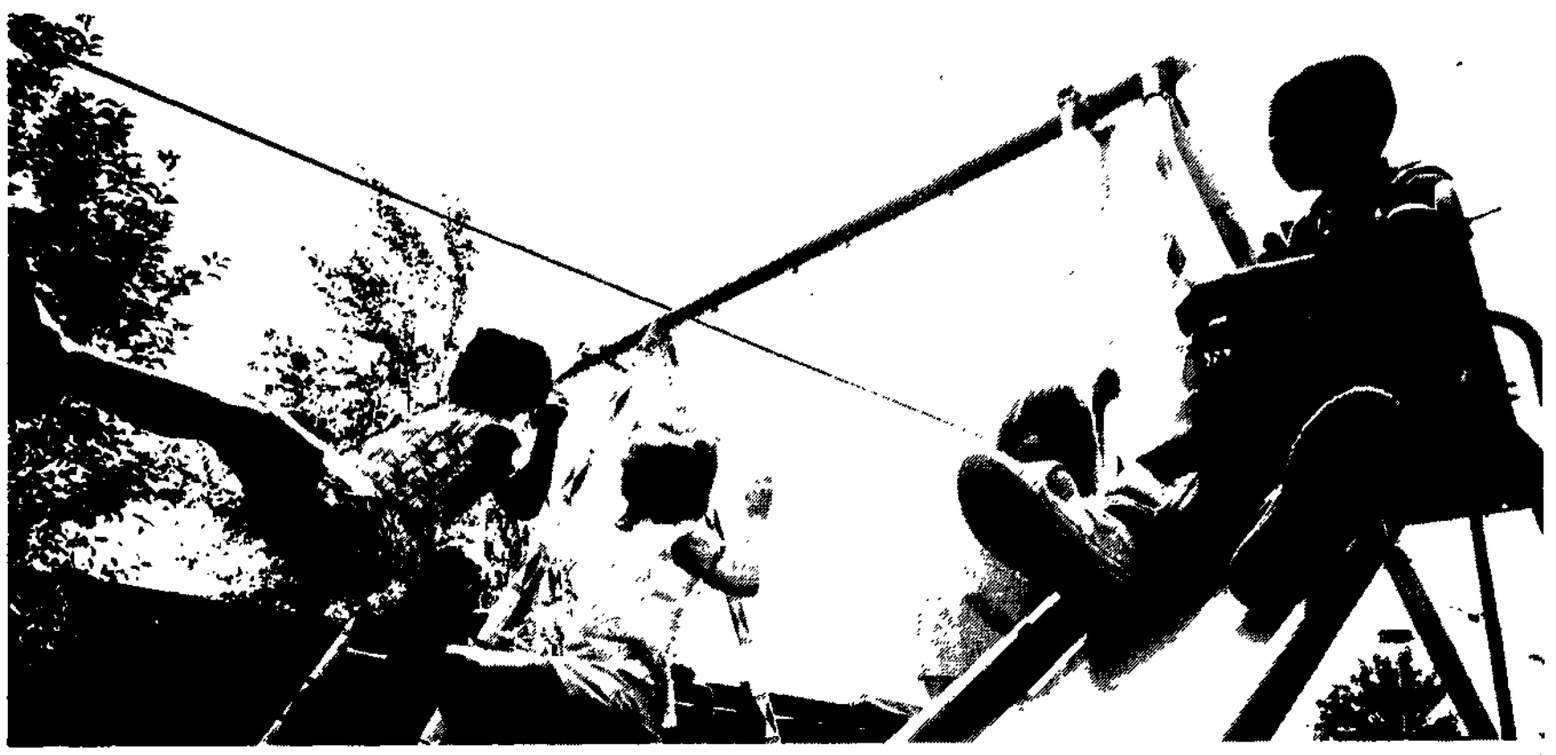
ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23. She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white. The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County



PROJECT "FRIENDLY TOWN," a program which brings inter-city children to the suburbs, is still seeking host families in the Rolling Meadows and Palatine area for its summer program. Prospective host families should contact their church representatives for more information and application blanks. Or they may call Rolling Meadows-Palatine area chairman, Mrs. Betty Ginger at 259-1188, if no representative is listed for their church. Application blanks should be sent to Mrs. Ginger by June 20. She lives at 2413 Wing St., Rolling Meadows.

Friendly Town Works 2 Ways

by BOB ZANIC

This is the time of year when many suburban families are making plans for their summer vacations. Whether the family is vacationing at home or "on the road" or both, it can still include Friendly Town into its plans.

Friendly Town is a program arranged for inner-city children to visit with suburban host families for a two-week vacation during the summer. It gives the suburban family the opportunity to share its summer joy with a child from the inner city.

Rolling Meadows and Palatine churches will be working directly with the Kenwood Mothers Club of Chicago's south side in this summer's Friendly Town program. Host families are still needed.

Host familys may designate the age (from 7 to 12) and sex of the child or children they wish and may select the time period most convenient for them from the following two week sessions: July 5-19, July 19 to August 2 and Aug. 2 to 16.

THE FRIENDLY TOWN program began in 1961 when 11 inner city children were sent on the first Friendly Town visits. In the summer of 1968, 2,400 children enjoyed suburban vacations in Illinois and other participating states.

The purpose of Friendly Town is to enrich the appreciation for diversity within the human family.

Each year, the program has surpassed itself in the number of children placed in homes.

The majority of the children are between 5 and 12 years of age but some range up to 16. A great many are Negroes, but there is a sizeable portion of Puerto Ricans and whites.

Orphans are rare, but about half of the children are fatherless. All are poor and live under miserably closed conditions, and few have ever been outside the city.

Before they are released to host families, all children are carefully screened by reliable social agencies and are given health examinations. Although real delinquents are eliminated, few, if any of the youngsters, can be called model children.

"The chances of getting a 'perfect child' are one in a thousand," a brochure published by one program says, and "the chances of your getting an 'impossible child' are one in a thousand."

MOST HOST FAMILIES are allowed to specify the age and the sex of the children they take, but specification of race and religion are discouraged and in the case of many programs, flatly prohibited.

Some host families ask for only one child at a time, but it is not uncommon to ask for and be given two and perhaps three, provided they are not siblings.

In the beginning, Friendly Town was a one-way operation. The inner-city child spent a vacation with a suburban family. However, in some areas, a two-way operation has been started this year.

As much as suburban host families would like it, there is difficulty in sending their children into the inner city because, one or both of the child's parents works during the day.

Friendly Town costs the agencies approximately $10 per child. Contributions from churches, groups, host families and individuals make the continuation of Friendly Town possible.

The agency provides a sickness and accident policy on each child with benefits to $2,500.

If the hosts do not carry public liability, the agency will provide it for the period the Friendly Town children are with the host family.

BECAUSE THE AGENCY works through churches and synagogues, a minister, priest or rabbi must sign the application. At least three familids from a community need to be in the program.

In 1968, Rolling Meadows had 24 families participate in Friendly Town.

An agency representative said Friendly Town children change markedly as a result of their visits with white families. She said that apart from the obvious benefits of having grassy yards to play in and going to fun places, they also see and learn things that can change and motivate their entire families.

She said many times the children's mannerisms change for the better. In so many ways they are introduced to a different way of life.

The representative also said that one of the most important benefits to the children is that he becomes a special individual for

1,000 to Graduate

More than 1,000 eighth graders will be graduated from five Dist. 15 schools Thursday and Friday

Last year's graduates numbered about 1,800.

Plum Grove school will be graduating its first eighth grade class Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Speaker at the commencement exercises will be school board member Leland N. Gibbs Jr.

All but 11 of the 151 graduating class will attend William Fremd high school in the fall

GRAY M. SANBORN school will graduate 108 students Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

School board member Otto R. Eilering will address the class. Most of the students will attend Palatine High School this fall, with 36 students going to William Fremd High School.

For the second year, Winston Park School will hold their commencement program outdoors. Board member J. Leslie Ehringer will address the 300 graduates Thursday at 7:15 p.m.

Most of Winston Park's graduating class will begin at Palatine high school this fall. Twenty graduates will go to William Fremd High School.

ON FRIDAY at 8 p.m., 312 eighth graders will receive their diplomas from Carl Sandburg school. Admission is by ticket only to the commencement program being held in the school gymnasium.

Joel D. Meyer, school board member, will adress the class. The majority of Carl Sandburg's graduates will attend Forest View High School, with a few attending William Fremd and Palatine high schools.

Stuart R. Paddock school will graduate 151 students Thursday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Mrs. Patricia Oakley, school board member, will speak during the program. Most of the graduating class will attend William Fremd High School this fall.

Kids Interested in Center

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

"Winners never quit" seems to be the philosophy of the teens in the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO).

"We came out ahead on the Jog for the Joint," said Bill Hake, president of the PTYO. Even if we would have lost money, we got the kids interested, to see if they want a teen center. Hake thought this is the most important thing.

The bond drive will continue through the month of June, on a more individual basis, said Sue Veatty, PTYO secretary.

She was disappointed that people weren't more receptive, but was thankful to people who bought bonds.

"I THINK IT is kind of a rewarding thing, I feel good after I do something like that," she said.

Hake said teens and community now know about the teen center. "I think they want a teen center more than ever, after seeing it's potential," he said.

"During the month of June, the kids are going to want to sell bonds, we have a lot of homes to go back to.

"We will continue the drive, we're not going to quit," he said.

Although the Jog for the Joint raised only about $6,000, the outcome wasn't bad as far as the teens were concerned, Mrs. Loraine LaSusa, adult advisor said.

"THE TEENS ARE very encouraged, they are bound and determined to continue.

"We need adults to help that are positive and enthusiastic, and feel the young kids can do it," she said.

"They will continue the jog and finish covering Palatine daily during the summer. Now we are looking for direction, we have to go back to the older teens for support," she said.

The Joint serves a five-school area, and is the place where kids will be able to meet.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS are needed for the rennovation of the old barn into a coffeehouse and recreation center. The Joint is independent, and is run by a young board of directors, Mrs. LaSusa said.

They thought it was great, she added, it was all they had hoped to do.

Not A Group Member

Rolling Meadows resident Mrs. Anne Casper said she is not a committee member of the Enlightened Parents of Palatine.

It was reported in the June 9 edition of the Herald that she was one of the committee members.

Demos in Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas."

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

'Way Back Then:' Schools

("Way Back Then," a regular feature of the Tuesday Herald, discusses life in Palatine and Rolling Meadows as it was in years past. Today, 1964 — five years ago — is featured.)

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

What is now history was, five years ago, front page news in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Zoning, taxes, new buildings and schools were prominent on the news pages. A city government tax levy of $105,000 proposed for the Rolling Meadows 1964-65 budget was cut to $95,000, necessitating little or no increase in the city's current tax rate.

A school bond referendum was proposed as a possibility for an elementary school in the Winston Park area. It was thought then that crowded conditions in the schools might force double sessions in the Winston and Jane Addams schools.

PROJECTIONS CALLED for a new school in Dist. 15 by the fall of 1965.

In Rolling Meadows, a sewer tax rate was being readied to be presented to the city council.

The sewer department was separated from the water department by new ordinancees revising downward the water billing rates and establishing a sewer tax rate to pick up the difference.

After approval of the ordinances by the city council, new water rates and a sewer-rate tax was added to quarterly billings received by Rolling Meadows water users.

Park commissioners in Rolling Meadows were notified to get a park commissioner within 60 days, the park district had no commissioner since James Holste had left the post the previous summer.

ALSO ON THE park commissioners agenda was a meeting to give consideration to construction of a playground headquarters building in Capital Drive and Salk Parks.

In early June, the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals approved a proposed professional building at the southwest corneer of Johnson and Greeeley streets.

Another zoning request ran into trouble from the Hoffman Estates village board. An 80 acre shopping center and a 1,300 unit multi-family housing project on the north side of Palatine Road was being contested.

The land for the proposed buildings had been involved in a long annexation legal battle until being settled in January of 1964 in favor of Palatine.

A 628-APARTMENT planned development of Sam Pancotta was approved by the Rolling Meadows city council. The aldermen accepted preliminary plat for project at Algonquin Road and Route 53.

Later that week, the members of Schaumburg Dist. 54 school board accused the Rolling Meadows city council of creating conditions that would lead to a future school crisis.

They saw the 628-apartment Ramblin' Rose project filled with children and no school to serve them.

In Palatine, an ordinance was proposed to allow homeowners more flexibility in building permanent additions to new homes. It would permit present homeowners or new ones to make use of its provisions for additions.

ALSO THAT WEEK, Mrs. June Boston resigned as Palatine deputy clerk stating a difference of opinion with another official as the reason.

A week later she resumed her job as deputy clerk and administrative secretary after executive session of board officials.

A Chamber of Commerce committee in Rolling Meadows concluded that the purpose of a united fund drive would be defeated under conditions as they then existed. The committee had studied the feasibility of a joint campaign.

Nonbaseball lovers protested the moving of a baseball backstop to Cardinal Drive Park. The homeowners claimed the new location of the diamond brought the baseball games literally into their back yards. officials of the Rolling Meadows Park District kept the location but agreed to take steps to reduce the nuisance.

OBJECTIONS TO THE proposed regulations for O'Hare Field International Airport were removed when the City of Chicago and the Suburban Municipal Council on O'Hare zoning submitted a joint proposal to the department of aeronautics in Springfield.

The amendment submitted by attorneys for the two groups gave the suburban municipalities "home rule" on zoning matters.

Civic events in Palatine included the naming of eight persons to the newly formed Human Relations Commission.

The Rev. Raymond J. Sullivan of St. Theresa's Catholic Church was named the commission's chairman.

The commission was created by ordinance in April of 1964.

A NEW STATE fire code became effective, necessitating modifications in the buildings of Palatine-Schaumburg high school Dist. 211 and elementary school Dist. 15.

In Rolling Meadows, Forest View High School graduated its first class.

Concerning higher education, two northwest suburban high school boards voted to reactivate the Citizen's Community College Committee to investigate establishing a junior college in the area served by the two districts, Palatine Dist. 211 and Arlington Dist. 214.

A deficit of $174,000 was expected by the Palatine-Schaumburg high school Dist. 211 for the 1964-65 fiscal yeear.

THE DISTRICT HOPED to make up the deficit from contingency funds. It was stated that if no increase was made in the educational tax rate, next year's budget would be in the red.

In other budgeting, the Rolling Meeadows city council adopted a $646,954 budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

That year the public hearing for the new Palatine Comprehensive Land Use Map and Master plan lasted one minute.

No one appeared to see the map or question the provisions. Besides Palatine Plan Commission members, the only persons present were Village Manager Robert Hollander, Trustee Robert Layer and a reporter from the then Palatine Enterprise.

ON THE CIVIC improvement sceene, Palatine proposed a beautification plan for thee Chicago and North Western railway station.

The Rolling Meadows city council appointed a committee to eliminate blighted, unhealthy or unsafe conditions existing on some commercial, park and city property.

The Northwest Community Hospital opened an intensive care unit to conserve vital time in an emergency or critical illness case.

On the lighter side of the news, a chicken barbecue and a band concert were added to the 4th of July celebrations in Rolling Meadows. The Chamber of Commerce organized the first annual celebration in 1962.

PALATINE VILLAGE employes were notified that the village would no longer provide beer at the annual employes picnic. The employes did get their beer, however, at no cost to them or the village.

In April, 1964, the part owner of a Palatine tavern was shot and killed by a gunman. Wayne H. Kruse of Wayne H. Kruse, Inc., a Wheeling wholesaler for a ber company, offered $300 reward for capture and conviction.

Palatine police apprehended the gunman, but turned down the reward. Village Manager Hollander remembered the incident and contacted Kruse, who supplied the employes picnic.

And to show that some things don't change too much, rains flooded the Palatine and Rolling Meadows area that June, five years ago.

ROLLING MEADOWS civil defense workers waited outside the police department last Saturday before beginning distribution of the booklet "In Time of Emergency." Fifty Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts distributed the booklets door to-door in Rolling Meadows.

Explain 'Time of Emergency'

Approximately 50 Boy and Girl Scouts under the supervision of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense distributed over 3,300 booklets, "In Time of Emergency" to residents of Rolling Meadows.

Carmen Vinezeano, deputy director of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense headed Saturday's door-to-door delivery.

ATTACHED TO THE booklets were letters explaining that, at the present, there is no city-wide warning system but a three to five minute blast on the fire siren would be used as a warning for tornadoes.

The booklet, a citizen's handbook on nuclear attack and natural disasters, tell people what precautions to take during the tornado season.

The remaining 2,700 booklets will be passed out at a later date.

tion because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Friendly Town Works 2 Ways

two weeks. Often conditions are such at the child's home that the adults do not have sufficient time to spend with each child.

But during his Friendly Town visit he is the "big shot" with no brothers or sisters sharing his spotlight. He is the one being "made over" and catered to. This kind of special attention does wonders for a child's sense of personal worth.

Does Friendly Town affect any structural changes in society? Charles Cook, director of the Friendly Town program at the Community Renewal Society, has said that the program is being evaluated continuously in an attempt to answer this question.

COOK SAYS THAT the prime purpose of the program is not to integrate society, but to give needy children of all kinds a summer vacation that they would not have except for the Friendly Town program. It should be seen as an opportunity to give a child two weeks of summer fun.

If there are attitude changes on the part of the black children and their families, and changes in the way suburbia views inner-city problems, and if continuing relationships are established between families of two diverse communities, wonderful, he said.

Until this year, the program was sponsored by the Community Renewal Society. But because of the demand for greater control from the agencies, the society is performing a coordinating function.

The greatest change comes from the personal contacts that are now possible with the people preparing the children for their visits. The Palatine-Rolling Meadows area is working with the agency called the Kenwood Mothers Club.

Visiting dates are determined through a discussion of what the mothers preferred and what the area representative thinks would afford the host families the greatest choice.

THIS YEAR THE children will be picked up at the Kenwood United Church of Christ on the beginning day of each session. They will be returned to their homes two weeks later.

Prospective host families may contact their church representatives for more information and application blanks, or may call the area chairman, Mrs. Betty Ginger, at 259-1188, if no representative is listed for their church.

Participating churches and representatives to contact are: In Rolling Meadows, Community Church, the Rev. William H. Herman, 255-5510; Meadows Baptist, Mrs. Rose Greismeyer, 392-1312; St. Colette Catholic, Mrs. Connie Wilson, 259-3919; Trinity Lutheran, Mrs. Betty Coombs, 392-6806, and Mrs. Carol Vessell, 392-5694.

In Palatine: Bethel Lutheran, Mrs. Betty Winsell, 255-3868; Christ Lutheran, the Rev. Roy L. Jeremiah, 358-4600, First Baptist, Church of Palatine; 358-4224, Immanuel Lutheran, 359-1549; St. Phillip's Episcopal, Mrs. Karen Grzesik, 359-1684, and the Unitarian Universalist, Mrs. Karen Houghton, 255-8911.

Serving as host families also are members from St. Paul's United Church of Christ and St. Theresa in Palatine.

According to Mrs. Ginger, "If you participate in Friendly Town, you certainly are giving a child a fun-filled two weeks, but the program actually works both ways.

"Experienced host parents will agree, the benefits of Friendly Town to their own families are immeasurable. You cannot give without also receiving."

Sex Education Presentation Set

Sex education as taught in Dist. 15 schools will be presented tonight at 8 p.m. in the Gray M. Sanborn school cafeteria.

As a result of last Thursday's meeting of the Enlightened Parents of Palatine, Marion Omiatek, director for instruction for Dist. 15, set up the presentation for parents wanting to know what materials are shown their children.

The meeting tonight will include films viewed by students in the school district.

Omiatek and teachers in Dist. 15 will be present to discuss the curriculum with parents.

Tool Theft Reported

Teachers Pass Pay Pact

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U.S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer.

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter.

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. Witham Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it.

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh.

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat. Far to the north, U.S. forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing. A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U.S. 23. She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white. The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph. The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County

RAISE HIGH THE ROOFBEAM, carpenters. Additions to the Mount Prospect library are progressing as the weather permits. The new addition will provide extra room for the library in what is now the loft portion of the building. Working on the project is Ron Welter, Prospect Heights, of the R. W. Construction Co.

Teachers in District 59 voted to accept a comprehensive services payment program yesterday, thus ending two months of negotiations between teachers and the administration.

The final vote on acceptance of the pay package was 303 yes, 51 no. The vote was considered a high percentage of the teachers according to Harlan Michaels of the negotiation team.

Of the district schools, only the teachers of Bryd School voted to reject the contract.

The contract means that the teachers and Dist. 59 officials have agreed that the Teachers' Counsel will be the sole bargaining agent for the teachers' salaries. This year's contract is the first such agreement between the teachers and the administration in Dist. 59 and will undoubtably set a precedent for future negotiations. The contract is in effect for one year.

QUESTIONS FROM the teachers about the contract centered around the "extended services" contract offered by the Dist. The contract provides for extra money for teachers who supervise extra curricular activities.

Michaels said 50 per cent of the staff will go on extended services with more contracts offered should further state aid to educations be realized.

The teachers seem to be fully behind the negotiated settlement saying it was "best for the whole District."

Salary schedules, under the contract, provide for 14 steps for a teacher in Dist. 59. A teacher with a Bachelor's degree has a starting salary of $7,000, increasing by steps to a ceiling of $14,145 for teachers with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours. Extended services offered to the teachers in each step is $300 per year.

UNDER THE provisions of the contract, some 20 per cent of the teachers receiving extended services contracts will be cut from the program. Although some fought the idea of such a cut in extended services, many others felt that the total pay package compensates for the reduction.

Other provisions in the contract call for the establishment of a "sick bank" in which the teachers will contribute one sick day for later use by any teacher with an emergency need.

Also in the accepted contract is a provision which allows the Teacher's Counsel an alleged grievance for any teacher claiming to be given an intolerable teaching load. An intolerable teaching load is defined by the Counsel as one that is severely in opposition to current educational research.

Will Democrats Stay in GOP Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas."

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.'"

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

5 Park Plans Approved

Development plans for High Ridge Knolls, Devonshire, Emerson, Owens and East Park were reviewed and approved by the Mount Prospect Park Board last night.

The park planning firm of Kessler, Merci, Bronkhorst and Lochner submitted the plans for the development outlined by the part district referendum.

These improvements will include landscaping and seeding, tot lot facilities, baseball diamonds and football fields.

The official plans for East Park, located at William and Sunset streets, will be presented to school Dist. 57 board members for their consideration and approval.

The school district is allowing to use the property for recreational facilities. The park planners were authorized last night to prepare cost estimates and final drafts on the development plans

Registration for all summer recreation programs except pool passes begins today at 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club. Residents interested in participating in any of the park district's programs may obtain information and registration forms at the park district offices. For further information contact park district offices at 255-5380 or 255-5381.

Query Drug Club

The National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse disclaims the group which spoke to students at several local high schools, including Prospect, in the last two months, the Mount Prospect Youth Commission learned last night.

The group was represented as the Chicago chapter of the well-known national group.

The disclaimer came on a television news show Sunday night.

The broadcast reported that Harry Yager, one of the participants, was involved in a mail fraud three years ago.

Youth commission chairman Ty Clements said, "The basic premise and the basic idea of the program is excellent."

Clements recommended the youth commission investigate the charges and write letters to the national organization about the Chicago chapter.

The other business, presentation of the Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarship was presented to Wheeling High School senior Jim Johnson, son of Mrs. Edward F. Johnson, 210 N. Yates, Mount Prospect.

The $500 scholarship may be used toward any legitimate college expenses, according to the youth commission. Johnson plans to attend the University of Illinois to study engineering.

The council commission also gave its approval to St. Mark's Youth Center, now being built at a cost of $275,000. The commission hopes to help with the center's staffing problems.

Richard Dodorny resigned last night sion due to serious business commitments. from the Mount Prospect Youth Commission. Details in tomorrow's Herald.

Roadblocks Go Up Today

Motorists on Arlington Heights Road gained a one-day reprieve Saturday on a plan to close the two southbound lanes of that road. However, the road blocks will go up this morning.

Al Sander, village engineer, said a last-minute delay in obtaining permission to start work on a sewer project on Sigwalt delayed the project's Monday starting date.

However, the project will begin this morning between 9 and 10, when road crews erect signs and channel traffic off onto Evergreen, which will serve as the alternate route for motorists.

SIGWALT BETWEEN Arlington Heights Road and Evergreen will be blockaded for the construction. Most of Evergreen will remain two-way, except the portion between Sigwalt and South Street, which will be cut to one-way southbound.

Arlington Heights Road will be cut to two northbound lanes for only two weeks, barring unforeseen delays, Sander said.

2 Bridges Urged

The Mount Prospect Fire and Police Committee last night unanimously voted to recommend bridges to span Weller Creek at George and See-Gwun streets.

About 25 persons from George and See-Gwun, north of the creek, protested against the bridges, but in vain. The George Street bridge approved next week by the village board will cost about $72,000 and can be constructed in 90 to 100 days with state MFT funds. The See-Gwun bridge can be constructed for $135,000 and can be completed in the same time. The village board is expected to vote on the issue next Tuesday.

Dist. 57 Determined to Sell Central School

The Dist. 57 board of education is determined to sell Central school. The long debated issue in Mount Prospect is expected to come to a close next week with a decision to sell the property.

Voters will be asked to approve a bond issue this Saturday to allow for construction at Lincoln junior high. The construction is aimed at providing space for students now attending Central.

In an effort to clarify the issue of Central school, the Herald asked each Dist. 57 board member for a statement of policy regarding to sale of the junior high facility. All favor the sale of the school.

HARRY HANSEN, board president: "In view of the benefits to the district of one junior high school and the assurance from our architect that classrooms can be added to Lincoln to house the additional students, I fully intend to vote to accept a bid for the sale of Central school. I encourage the voters to consider the June 14 referendum as a choice between a very fine comprehensive junior high school program or one that is virtually a continuation of our present program. The question is not whether we have a junior high on the north side or whether we retain Central school or not."

CHARLES HOUCHINS: "In the event the June 14 referendum fails, I will nevertheless vote for the sale of Central providing I am satisfied by information before the Board that adequate facilities may be provided at Lincoln with the proceeds from Central. I will not vote to dispose of one school, however indadequate, when the alternative is a more inadequate facility with shifts and other substandard facilities. Most important, the question of the referendum should go to the voters as a clean question, without the coercion of a . . .Central sale. The voters will hopefully return this act of good faith and good will with support for the referendum."

RALPH WALBERG: "It is my intention to accept a bid for the sale of Central school. A single junior high school program is the best."

JACK RONCHETTO: "I was a member of the facilities committee which recommended that Lincoln school be completed as a first class junior high to serve the entire community. I continue to believe that this is the best course for the district and strongly urge passage of the referendum next week. Several weeks ago the board established a timetable which called for acceptance of a bid after the results of the referendum were known. Acceptance of the bids today would be unnecessary, untimely and premature. The board is not fully informed on what the proceeds of the sale will buy at Lincoln. I am hopeful that any discussion following the referendum regarding constructing an incomplete and inadequate addition to Lincoln will be academic. In any event, by postpoing a decision until after the referendum we will be able to act on the basis of facts and all the facts would be available to us."

LEO FLOROS: "My position on the sale of Central school has been consistent throughout the entire deliberations of the board and as long as I have been a member of this board. I believe strongly that Central school no longer meets the educational needs of this community and I strongly favor its disposal. . .regardless of the outcome of the June 14 referendum. If we fail to accept a bid now, the community will no longer believe that this board really intends to sell Central school. I have every intention of voting "yes" on the acceptance of the highest bonafide bid for Central school when the issue comes before the board June 16.

ALEX CASPER: "I favor taking positive action on June 16 to go ahead with the sale of Central school. The board and community both have come a long way with regard to this proposition and I feel the majority of the community is ready to move ahead."

MRS. PAT KIMBALL did not make a formal statement, but has long sought the sale of Central and the move to a single junior high for Dist. 57.

Roe's in Race

by MARTHA MOSER

Emphasizing greater people involvement in government and outlining concerns he would take to Congress, Hollister Newspapers' publisher David Roe announced his candidacy Monday for 13th District congressman.

Roe joins six other Republican candidates in the Oct. 7 GOP primary. A Nov. 25 special election will select a congressman to succeed Donald Rumsfeld, director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Roe, 33, of Glenview, said he was entering the race because of a "deep desire to contribute to this country through government service." He spoke at a press conference in the Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.

HE CITED 10 YEARS of newspaper work in the 13th District as a background of awareness of problems. He announced he is leaving Hollister, effective that day, to campaign. Roe mentioned 13th District problems cannot be packaged out of national issues.

"The important thing is what the district can contribute," he said on questioning. "I'd hope to bring an understanding of what the district wants to contribute."

He said his news record stands for support of what might be considered unpopular issues.

In a prepared speech, Roe said "Private citizens must contribute to government if our country is to respond effectively to the electorate."

"I INTEND TO CARRY into government my newspaper campaigns for greater government responsiveness to the people."

He listed measures he has supported to bring government to the electorate as: Open meetings of all governing bodies, greater public access to government information, strong conflict of interest laws, election reform, increased home rule, open primaries and fairer representation of suburbs through reapportionment.

He cited open space, public transportation, and environmental improvement as areas he will fight for.

Roe promised "no panaceas" to problems. While presenting well-prepared views on issues of Vietnam, ABM and welfare, he cautioned he would want to measure points of view and costs before deciding on particular courses of action.

THE CANDIDATE SAID he has been a resident of Lincolnshire in Lake County the last two years but is moving to his home in Glenview this week. He has been a New Trier Township resident most of his life, he said.

Roe joined Hollister Newspapers in 1959 and has seen the north shore chain of papers grow from six to 10. He became managing editor in 1960 at age 24, subsequently becoming associate editor, vice president and a member of the Hollister board of directors.

He joins in the Republican primary, the announced candidates of Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth, Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Alban Weber of Evanston and Bruce Ladd of Silver Springs, Md.

Others named by the Republican state Central Committee as possible candidates are Yale Roe (no relation to Monday's candidate), Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and John Nimrod of Skokie.

Women Golfers Organize Club

The Buffalo Grove Ladies Golf League was organized last week with more than 40 charter members at the Buffalo Grove Golf Club.

Those elected to office include Vicki Metzgar, president; Peggy Pash, secretary, and Sheila Thomas, treasurer.

The rules committee consists of Barb Adams, Joyce Butero, and Judy Rischell. Members of the league are from Buffalo Grove as well as Wheeling, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Northbrook.

Applications will be accepted until June 15.

A MEETING WILL be held next Monday at 8 p.m. at the Buffalo Grove Golf Club, where the bylaws and rules for the organization will be presented to the membership for approval.

League play will begin June 19 and will continue each Thursday morning thereafter. Information regarding membership in the league can be obtained by telephoning Barb Adams at the Buffalo Grove Club, 537-5819.

Plan Commission To Hear DiMucci

Salvatore DiMucci will appear before the Mount Prospect Plan Commission at a public hearing June 20 to request a rezoning classification on a five-acre tract at Busse and Golf roads.

The local builder is requesting that his property be rezoned for apartments, a promise made by the village last year if DiMucci sold part of his land to the park district.

Since final passage of the park district's referendum the West Park site exchange for the rezoning has become a highly controversial topic in the community.

The decision to trade a park for apartments has been delayed by the village board pending further park district and plan commission studies on the merits of the deal.

St. Paul School Will Graduate 51

St. Paul's Lutheran School in Mount Prospect will graduate 51 students at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the school's auditorium.

Lester Rusch, principal of St. Peter's Lutheran School in Arlington Heights will be the speaker for the graduation exercises.

Valedictorian for the Class of 1969 is Phil Fischer. Co-salutatorians are Terri Lyon and Gloria Molzahn.

School Trustees Meet

Dist. 59 Is 'United'

Officials of School Dist. 59 have clarified their positions on controversial issues through two statements aimed at bringing harmony to the schools.

A release from members of the Dist. 59 Board of Education emphasizes that the board and the administration are in agreement over the basic objectives of the district.

"The board and the administration are united in their support for the current educational philosophy and programs. The board anticipates no changes in philosophy or direction and hopes to continue the present educational programs."

The statement apparently stems from the recent resignation of Supt. Donald Thomas.

"SCHOOL DIST. 59 is an excellent district," the statement says. "The board and the administration are united in supporting this excellence.

welfare of the district's children supersede

"Both believe that the education and all other considerations. They are united in doing all that is necessary to continue a program of quality service to every boy and girl.

"We believe that each person in the district is similarly committed to this philosophy. We seek your help and cooperation in uniting to support this position."

In another attempt to clarify the administration's position, a staff bulletin from Thomas is aimed at explaining the matter of alleged improper involvement in the state program for gifted children.

Thomas received criticism when he declared that false affidavits were signed by the administration to obtain state aid.

"MY STATEMENT made at the budget meeting of May 26 was not accurate," Thomas says in the bulletin. "No person this year, or in the past, has signed any affidavit falsely."

"The signed affidavits indicate a percentage of annual time administrators spent providing services to gifted children. It is difficult to accurately apportion administrative work time because of the many overlapping duties performed."

Thomas contends that the definition of a gifted child is such that students with interests from academics to basketball can qualify for that description. The superintendent said under the general description of gifted children districts may receive aid under a formula.

"By this method," Thomas said, "the state funds that are apportioned come to about $2 per child and may be used to defray all expenses of the gifted program. This method allows for more accuracy in administration. It is for this reason that this year we chose to switch our method of receiving reimbursement funds from the state.

"THE QUALITY of the extra services to gifted children during the past few years has been exceptionally high and the work of administrators involved in these programs has been excellent. My comments were not meant to reflect negatively upon our programs nor upon the personnel who supervise them. They were also not meant to cast doubt upon the honesty or sincerity of those individuals who signed time allocation affidavits.

"In the past the state has commended our district for its services to gifted children," Thomas concluded. "I hope our work will be such that we will continue to receive such recommendations."

Thomas' disclosures before the board's Budget Committee relative to the so-called false claims for state aid told of practices of claimed such aid which were common to other local school districts in addition to Dist. 59.

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep. Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

Demos in Shadow?

pation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Four Local Musicians Appear In City Revue

Four Mount Prospect musicians appeared in concert at Orchestra Hall Sunday in the "Sounds of the City Revue," a benefit program for the Chicago Community Musical Foundation.

Teachers Pass Pay Pact

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U S. troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky.

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops, and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat Far to the north, U S forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U S 23 She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County

RAISE HIGH THE ROOFBEAM, carpenters. Additions to the Mount Prospect library are progressing as the weather permits. The new addition will provide extra room for the library in what is now the left portion of the building. Working on the project is Ron Welter, Prospect Heights, of the R. W. Construction Co.

Teachers in District 59 voted to accept a comprehensive services payment program yesterday, thus ending two months of negotiations between teachers and the administration.

The final vote on acceptance of the pay package was 303 yes, 51 no The vote was considered a high percentage of the teachers according to Harlan Michaels of the negotiation team

Of the district schools, only the teachers of Bryd School voted to reject the contract

The contract means that the teachers and Dist 59 officials have agreed that the Teachers' Counsel will be the sole bargaining agent for the teachers' salaries This year's contract is the first such agreement between the teachers and the administration in Dist 59 and will undoubtably set a precedent for future negotiations The contract is in effect for one year

QUESTIONS FROM the teachers about the contract centered around the "extended services" contract offered by the Dist The contract provides for extra money for teachers who supervise extra curricular activities

Michaels said 50 per cent of the staff will go on extended services with more contracts offered should further state aid to educations be realized.

The teachers seem to be fully behind the negotiated settlement saying it was "best for the whole District "

Salary schedules, under the contract provide for 14 steps for a teacher in Dist 59. A teacher with a Bachelor's degree has a starting salary of $7,000, increasing by steps to a ceiling of $14,145 for teachers with a master's degree plus 30 credit hours Extended services offered to the teachers in each step is $300 per year.

UNDER THE provisions of the contract, some 20 per cent of the teachers receiving extended services contracts will be cut from the program Although some fought the idea of such a cut in extended services, many others felt that the total pay package compensates for the reduction.

Other provisions in the contract call for the establishment of a "sick bank" in which the teachers will contribute one sick day for later use by any teacher with an emergency need.

Also in the accepted contract is a provision which allows the Teacher's Counsel an alleged grievance for any teacher claiming to be given an intolerable teaching load An intolerable teaching load is defined by the Counsel as one that is severely in opposition to current educational research.

Will Democrats Stay in GOP Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas "

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization ' "

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it "

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the partici-

5 Park Plans Approved

Development plans for High Ridge Knolls, Devonshire, Emerson, Owens and East Park were reviewed and approved by the Mount Prospect Park Board last night

The park planning firm of Kessler, Mercer, Bronkhorst and Lochner submitted the plans for the development outlined by the part district referendum

These improvements will include landscaping and seeding, tot lot facilities, baseball diamonds and football fields.

The official plans for East Park, located at William and Sunset streets, will be presented to school Dist 57 board members for their consideration and approval

The school district is allowing to use the property for recreational facilities. The park planners were authorized last night to prepare cost estimates and final drafts on the development plans

Registration for all summer recreation programs except pool passes begins today at 9 a m to 4 p m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club Residents interested in participating in any of the park district's programs may obtain information and registration forms at the park district offices. For further information contact park district offices at 255-5380 or 255-5381.

Query Drug Club

The National Council for the Prevention of Drug Abuse disclaims the group which spoke to students at several local high schools, including Prospect, in the last two months, the Mount Prospect Youth Commission learned last night.

The group was represented as the Chicago chapter of the well-known national group.

The disclaimer came on a television news show Sunday night.

The broadcast reported that Harry Yager, one of the participants, was involved in a mail fraud three years ago.

Youth commission chairman Ty Clements said, "The basic premise and the basic idea of the program is excellent."

Clements recommended the youth commission investigate the charges and write letters to the national organization about the Chicago chapter.

The other business, presentation of the Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarship was presented to Wheeling High School senior Jim Johnson, son of Mrs. Edward F. Johnson, 210 N. Yates, Mount Prospect.

The $500 scholarship may be used toward any legitimate college expenses, according to the youth commission. Johnson plans to attend the University of Illinois to study engineering.

The council commission also gave its approval to St Mark's Youth Center, now being built at a cost of $275,000 The commission hopes to help with the center's staffing problems.

Richard Dodorny resigned last night sion due to serious business commitments from the Mount Prospect Youth Commission. Details in tomorrow's Herald.

Roadblocks Go Up Today

Motorists on Arlington Heights Road gained a one-day reprieve Saturday on a plan to close the two southbound lanes of that road. However, the road blocks will go up this morning.

Al Sander, village engineer, said a last-minute delay in obtaining permission to start work on a sewer project on Sigwalt delayed the project's Monday starting date.

However, the project will begin this morning between 9 and 10, when road crews erect signs and channel traffic off onto Evergreen, which will serve as the alternate route for motorists.

SIGWALT BETWEEN Arlington Heights Road and Evergreen will be blockaded for the construction Most of Evergreen will remain two-way, except the portion between Sigwalt and South Street, which will be cut to one-way southbound

Arlington Heights Road will be cut to two northbound lanes for only two weeks, barring unforeseen delays, Sander said.

2 Bridges Urged

The Mount Prospect Fire and Police Committee last night unanimously voted to recommend bridges to span Weller Creek at George and See-Gwun streets.

About 25 persons from George and See-Gwun, north of the creek, protested against the bridges, but in vain. The George Street bridge approved next week by the village board will cost about $72,000 and can be constructed in 90 to 100 days with state MFT funds. The See-Gwun bridge can be constructed for $135,000 and can be completed in the same time. The village board is expected to vote on the issue next Tuesday.

Dist. 57 Determined to Sell Central School

The Dist. 57 board of education is determined to sell Central school. The long debated issue in Mount Prospect is expected to come to a close next week with a decision to sell the property.

Voters will be asked to approve a bond issue this Saturday to allow for construction at Lincoln junior high. The construction is aimed at providing space for students now attending Central.

In an effort to clarify the issue of Central school, the Herald asked each Dist. 57 board member for a statement of policy regarding to sale of the junior high facility. All favor the sale of the school.

HARRY HANSEN, board president: "In view of the benefits to the district of one junior high school and the assurance from our architect that classrooms can be added to Lincoln to house the additional students, I fully intend to vote to accept a bid for the sale of Central school. I encourage the voters to consider the June 14 referendum as a choice between a very fine comprehensive junior high school program or one that is virtually a continuation of our present program. The question is not whether we have a junior high on the north side or whether we retain Central school or not."

CHARLES HOUCHINS: "In the event the June 14 referendum fails, I will nevertheless vote for the sale of Central providing I am satisfied by information before the Board that adequate facilities may be provided at Lincoln with the proceeds from Central. I will not vote to dispose of one school, however indadequate, when the alternative is a more inadequate facility with shifts and other substandard facilities. Most important, the question of the referendum should go to the voters as a clean question, without the coercion of a . . .Central sale. The voters will hopefully return this act of good faith and good will with support for the referendum."

RALPH WALBERG: "It is my intention to accept a bid for the sale of Central school. A single junior high school program is the best."

JACK RONCHETTO: "I was a member of the facilities committee which recommended that Lincoln school be completed as a first class junior high to serve the entire community. I continue to believe that this is the best course for the district and strongly urge passage of the referendum next week. Several weeks ago the board established a timetable which called for acceptance of a bid after the results of the referendum were known. Acceptance of the bids today would be unnecessary, untimely and premature. The board is not fully informed on what the proceeds of the sale will buy at Lincoln. I am hopeful that any discussion following the referendum regarding constructing an incomplete and inadequate addition to Lincoln will be academic. In any event, by postpoing a decision until after the referendum we will be able to act on the basis of facts and all the facts would be available to us."

LEO FLOROS: "My position on the sale of Central school has been consistent throughout the entire deliberations of the board and as long as I have been a member of this board. I believe strongly that Central school no longer meets the educational needs of this community and I strongly favor its disposal. . .regardless of the outcome of the June 14 referendum. If we fail to accept a bid now, the community will no longer believe that this board really intends to sell Central school. I have every intention of voting "yes" on the acceptance of the highest bonafide bid for Central school when the issue comes before the board June 16.

ALEX CASPER: "I favor taking positive action on June 16 to go ahead with the sale of Central school. The board and community both have come a long way with regard to this proposition and I feel the majority of the community is ready to move ahead."

MRS. PAT KIMBALL did not make a formal statement, but has long sought the sale of Central and the move to a single junior high for Dist. 57.

Roe's in Race

by MARTHA MOSER

Emphasizing greater people involvement in government and outlining concerns he would take to Congress, Hollister Newspapers' publisher David Roe announced his candidacy Monday for 13th District congressman.

Roe joins six other Republican candidates in the Oct. 7 GOP primary. A Nov. 25 special election will select a congressman to succeed Donald Rumsfeld, director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Roe, 33, of Glenview, said he was entering the race because of a "deep desire to contribute to this country through government service." He spoke at a press conference in the Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.

HE CITED 10 YEARS of newspaper work in the 13th District as a background of awareness of problems. He announced he is leaving Hollister, effective that day, to campaign. Roe mentioned 13th District problems cannot be packaged out of national issues.

"The important thing is what the district can contribute," he said on questioning. "I'd hope to bring an understanding of what the district wants to contribute."

He said his news record stands for support of what might be considered unpopular issues.

In a prepared speech, Roe said "Private citizens must contribute to government if our country is to respond effectively to the electorate."

"I INTEND TO CARRY into government my newspaper campaigns for greater government responsiveness to the people."

He listed measures he has supported to bring government to the electorate as: Open meetings of all governing bodies, greater public access to government information, strong conflict of interest laws, election reform, increased home rule, open primaries and fairer representation of suburbs through reapportionment.

He cited open space, public transportation, and environmental improvement as areas he will fight for.

Roe promised "no panaceas" to problems. While presenting well-prepared views on issues of Vietnam, ABM and welfare, he cautioned he would want to measure points of view and costs before deciding on particular courses of action.

THE CANDIDATE SAID he has been a resident of Lincolnshire in Lake County the last two years but is moving to his home in Glenview this week. He has been a New Trier Township resident most of his life, he said.

Roe joined Hollister Newspapers in 1959 and has seen the north shore chain of papers grow from six to 10. He became managing editor in 1960 at age 24, subsequently becoming associate editor, vice president and a member of the Hollister board of directors.

He joins in the Republican primary, the announced candidates of Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth, Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Alban Weber of Evanston and Bruce Ladd of Silver Springs, Md.

Others named by the Republican state Central Committee as possible candidates are Yale Roe (no relation to Monday's candidate), Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and John Nimrod of Skokie.

Women Golfers Organize Club

The Buffalo Grove Ladies Golf League was organized last week with more than 40 charter members at the Buffalo Grove Golf Club.

Those elected to office include Vicki Metzgar, president; Peggy Pash, secretary, and Sheila Thomas, treasurer.

The rules committee consists of Barb Adams, Joyce Butero, and Judy Rischell. Members of the league are from Buffalo Grove as well as Wheeling, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Northbrook.

Applications will be accepted until June 15.

A MEETING WILL be held next Monday at 8 p.m. at the Buffalo Grove Golf Club, where the bylaws and rules for the organization will be presented to the membership for approval.

League play will begin June 19 and will continue each Thursday morning thereafter. Information regarding membership in the league can be obtained by telephoning Barb Adams at the Buffalo Grove Club, 537-5819.

St. Paul School Will Graduate 51

St. Paul's Lutheran School in Mount Prospect will graduate 51 students at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the school's auditorium.

Lester Rusch, principal of St. Peter's Lutheran School in Arlington Heights will be the speaker for the graduation exercises.

Valedictorian for the Class of 1969 is Phil Fischer. Co-salutatorians are Terri Lyon and Gloria Molzahn.

The class has donated new shrubs, trees and flowers as its gift to the school.

School Trustees Meet

Plan Commission To Hear DiMucci

Salvatore DiMucci will appear before the Mount Prospect Plan Commission at a public hearing June 20 to request a rezoning classification on a five-acre tract at Busse and Golf roads.

The local builder is requesting that his property be rezoned for apartments, a promise made by the village last year if DiMucci sold part of his land to the park district.

Since final passage of the park district's referendum the West Park site exchange for the rezoning has become a highly controversial topic in the community.

The decision to trade a park for apartments has been delayed by the village board pending further park district and plan commission studies on the merits of the deal.

Demos To Pick Man

June 19 has been set as the date the eight Democratic township committeemen in the 13th Congressional District will pick their candidate for congressman.

In the meantime, the committeemen will be going to their party organizations for direction on which of 10 candidates to choose.

Democratic committeemen met Sunday in Skokie to interview four more candidates: State Rep. Edward A. Warman of Skokie, Raymond S. True of Roselle, Jason Bellows of Wilmette, and Jona Cohn of Morton Grove.

An initial screening session May 26 considered another six candidates: Tom Murphy, Mrs. Pat Siebert and Milton Rakove, all of Evanston; David Shields of Golf, and George Sullivan and Mrs. Claude Carney, both of Wilmeete.

COMMITTEEMEN HAVE not decided whether to have a Democratic primary, according to Aaron Jaffe of Skokie, part of the party's screening committee. The township party leaders earlier indicated a Democratic primary will depend on how united their opinions are on candidates.

A primary election could be one question decided by the Democratic township organizations.

Much primary attention will paid to the Republicans' race with a field of at least eight candidates from the predominantly Republican district.

The special Nov. 25 election will fill the congressional seat left vacant May 25 when Donald Rumsfeld resigned to become director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The primary is Oct. 7.

Warman, 42, a Skokie attorney, is in his third term in the state legislature, representing the fourth district. In this General Assembly, he serves on the judiciary, education, municipalities and executive committees.

WARMAN RECEIVED an award as one of the best freshmen legislators for his work in 1965-66. In the last General Assembly, he got the "best legislator's award" from the Independent Voters of Illinois.

True, 34, is a former federal government employe, working in the U.S. Department of Defense and the Defense and Supply Agency. He is working toward a doctor's degree at the University of Chicago School of Business Administration.

Bellows, 39, is a Chicago attorney, active in the Chicago Bar Association. Cohn, 43, is director of research and engineering in the Communications Division of Motorola. He is past chairman of the advisory board to the Motorola board of directors and is program chairman for the 13th District Politics for Peace group.

Dist. 59 Is 'United'

Officials of School Dist. 59 have clarified their positions on controversial issues through two statements aimed at bringing harmony to the schools.

A release from members of the Dist. 59 Board of Education emphasizes that the board and the administration are in agreement over the basic objectives of the district.

"The board and the administration are united in their support for the current educational philosophy and programs. The board anticipates no changes in philosophy or direction and hopes to continue the present educational programs."

The statement apparently stems from the recent resignation of Supt. Donald Thomas.

"SCHOOL DIST. 59 is an excellent district," the statement says. "The board and the administration are united in supporting this excellence.

welfare of the district's children supersede

"Both believe that the education and all other considerations. They are united in doing all that is necessary to continue a program of quality service to every boy and girl.

"We believe that each person in the district is similarly committed to this philosophy. We seek your help and cooperation in uniting to support this position."

In another attempt to clarify the administration's position, a staff bulletin from Thomas is aimed at explaining the matter of alleged improper involvement in the state program for gifted children.

Thomas received criticism when he declared that false affidavits were signed by the administration to obtain state aid.

"MY STATEMENT made at the budget meeting of May 26 was not accurate," Thomas says in the bulletin. "No person this year, or in the past, has signed any affidavit falsely."

"The signed affidavits indicate a percentage of annual time administrators spent providing services to gifted children. It is difficult to accurately apportion administrative work time because of the many overlapping duties performed."

Thomas contends that the definition of a gifted child is such that students with interests from academics to basketball can qualify for that description. The superintendent said under the general description of gifted children districts may receive aid under a formula.

"By this method," Thomas said, "the state funds that are apportioned come to about $2 per child and may be used to defray all expenses of the gifted program. This method allows for more accuracy in administration. It is for this reason that this year we chose to switch our method of receiving reimbursement funds from the state.

"THE QUALITY of the extra services to gifted children during the past few years has been exceptionally high and the work of administrators involved in these programs has been excellent. My comments were not meant to reflect negatively upon our programs nor upon the personnel who supervise them. They were also not meant to cast doubt upon the honesty or sincerity of those individuals who signed time allocation affidavits.

"In the past the state has commended our district for its services to gifted children," Thomas concluded. "I hope our work will be such that we will continue to receive such recommendations."

Thomas' disclosures before the board's Budget Committee relative to the so-called false claims for state aid told of practices of claimed such aid which were common to other local school districts in addition to Dist. 59.

pation of the youth and women of the community, he said.

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate.

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said. "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable."

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans.

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Four Local Musicians Appear In City Revue

Four Mount Prospect musicians appeared in concert at Orchestra Hall Sunday in the "Sounds of the City Revue," a benefit program for the Chicago Community Musical Foundation.

Skip Carrol, Dean Stanley, Jim Johnson and Bill Doolan play with "The Steelers," a new recording group with Columbia Records, and their performance last weekend helped raise money to teach music to the underprivileged.

Will Pool Law Sink?

Sees More Callbacks

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Melvin Laird yesterday held out hopes that more U S troops can be withdrawn from Vietnam after the first 25,000 are pulled back this summer

Laird said the first group to be withdrawn will be "heavily weighted" with combat units of the Army and Marines. He held out hope that further cutbacks can be made in August and at "regular intervals" thereafter

Reactions Are Mixed

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders Monday praised President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 GIs from Vietnam as the first step to "de-Americanize" the war

Democrats mostly saw it as a token action, and some members of both parties called it risky

Burger Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON — Warren E. Burger won Senate confirmation as the nation's 15th Chief Justice yesterday in a short debate in which opponents said the Senate was ignoring the vows it made while Abe Fortas' finances were a matter of national concern

"What's the rush?" complained Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., but after three hours of debate only three senators voted against Burger's confirmation and 74 voted for it

See No Combat Change

SAIGON — The Vietnam war raged on yesterday despite the decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops and new fighting erupted around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh

American military sources predicted that the withdrawal will cause no decrease in the level of combat Far to the north, U S forces abandoned Hamburger Hill, site of a hotly disputed battle last month.

Transcripts Ordered

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court yesterday ruled unanimously that state and local governments must provide indigents convicted of nonfederal misdemeanors free transcripts of their trial proceedings for appeal purposes.

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a worker's wages may not be garnisheed under state laws until he is allowed a hearing A legal authority said the decision will have major impact for thousands of low-income consumers.

Slain Girl Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich — The body of a young woman was found about seven miles north of here yesterday near busy U S 23 She was the sixth woman found dead in the area within two years.

Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies refused to release any details, but other sources said the victim was about 23 years old and white The other five victims, all girls, have ranged in age from 13 to 23.

Gun Law Squeezes By

SPRINGFIELD — The downstate repeal of the Gun Owners Registration Law narrowly survived Senate committee Monday and was sent out to the Senate floor.

The Registration and Miscellany Committee approved the bill, 6-4, despite opposition from Republican Leader W Russell Arrington and former Public Safety Director Ross Randolph The bill would repeal the 1967 law everywhere but in Cook County.

Ugly Head Pops Up

The problem of drug abuse in Arlington Heights raised its ugly head at last night's Youth Council Meeting.

Council members discussed the problem of drugs in Arlington Heights with some members warning that people don't realize how serious the problem is.

James Ewart, youth council member, said, "I think it will be worse this summer than it has been before.

College kids coming into the village will probably bring some of it in," he said. He suggested using a phone number which people could call to give information about drug pushers, but not have to give their names.

"There are pushers around and the kids know who they are, but they're afraid to tell the police," Ewart said. "I know that it is bad in this area, and it's just not the freaky kids."

DURING LATER discussion, Bruno Waara, principal at Arlington High School, called for a joint meeting with park district officials and Youth Council members. Waara offered the facilities of the high school to both groups for summer use.

Youth council members discussed the possibility of holding a coffee house in the high school, but took no formal action.

An organizational meeting for a youth group to plan summer activities will be held June 22 at Arlington High. The group would be sponsored by the Youth Commission. The meeting would be run like a political convention and participants would elect a board to draw up a constitution.

Council members heard a report concerning an employment clearing house for summer work that will begin operating Monday.

Employers and prospective employes may call CL 3-0200, extension 60, to register.

About 30 to 40 Arlington Heights residents gained their first face-to-face confrontation last night with the village's above-ground pool ordinance.

"When I walked in, I thought I had a pool, but now I wonder," one resident said, as village officals painstakingly explained the ordinance step by step.

The ordinance, passed two months ago by the village board, followed a year-long effort to write a law covering above ground pools. Until April, above ground pools were illegal Safety commission chairman John Gillen and acting building commissioner Marty Munson fielded the questions, suggestions and frequent complaints from pool owners and would-be pool owners.

MANY OF THE residents seemed to have one primary complaint in mind: Cost

Jack Wells, representing an electrical firm, demonstrated a ground-fault circuit interrupter, required by the new ordinance to reduce electrical hazard.

After his explanation, several residents grumbled that the $151 price tag was too much.

Later in the meeting, which was held in the basement of the Municipal Building, others complained about the need for village permits and certain factors required by the ordinance.

"I wish to hell you had been here all winter all long," remarked Robert Reiter. Reiter and several other citizens helped the Safety Commission and the village board draw up the ordinance.

Other residents complained that sections of the ordinance would infringe on their personal rights as property owners. Gillen and Munson kept attempting to explain the ordinance and although they may have succeeded with the majority of the audience they seemed exasperated.

The public safety commission will hold another session at 1:30 a.m. Saturday in the village hall to explain the ordinance further.

Prior to the public meeting pools, the safety commission met with the full village board to work out any problems or conflicts that could occur in the future.

Members of both groups stressed the need for greater communications. Village Pres. Jack Walsh said members of other public bodies in the village would be asked to serve as ex-officio members of the safety commission.

WINDSOR SCHOOL first-grader Frances Stanton wrote and narrated "The Dragon Tooth of Flowerland," a puppet show put on by her class yesterday. With the help of IBM cards Frances became a daisy and symbol of flowerland for the Monday performance. Theme of the play was "good triumphs over evil" — the dragon was slain. The kids are members of Mrs. Marilyn Hardy s class.

Asks Center Here

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 may be asked soon to become the center for physically handicapped classes in the four-township area.

John Wightman, new director of the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO) which coordinates area classes for the handicapped, told the Dist. 214 School Board last night that the area has more physically handicapped children than it realized. Wightman said when he took over as director of NSSEO this February, the schools had records of only six handicapped children needing special schooling.

"It was just not possible with a population of 50,000 children that only five crippled children could be identified," Wightman said. "We now have identified 147 physically handicapped children who are required to have some type of special school services," Wightman went on.

HE SAID THAT he has already talked to Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong about locating classes for crippled children in the Arlington Heights schools such as Wheeling Dist. 21 has hosted classes for the blind for almost 10 years.

Pre-school and primary-first grade classes will open next fall, Wightman said. Sixty-three older children, some of them now in regular classrooms and others attending handicapped classes in other areas, will be accommodated as soon as the NSSEO can provide the space.

Wightman praised the Diagnostic Learning Center which Dist. 25 opened three years ago. The area will benefit from the special treatment this center can provide for severely disturbed children, Wightman said.

Futurities

The public relations and legal committees of the village board will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road.

Arlington Heights Memorial Library trustees will hold their 8 p.m. meeting today in the library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

The park board will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.

4 Hurt In Crash

Four persons were injured late Monday night in a two-car collision at Arlington Heights and Hintz Roads.

Taken to Northwest Community Hospital with head lacerations were Edward Young, 29, 414 Chatham Circle, Buffalo Grove, driver of one of the cars, his wife, Lillian, 24, leg and mouth injuries; Henry Schmidt, 51, Antioch, Ill., with a head injury and a broken nose, and his wife, Lillian, 55, with head and neck injuries.

Linda Blessing, 23, 2808 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, driver of the other car, was shaken up, according to Arlington Heights police.

PATROLMAN CHARLES Pedersen said the Blessing woman was traveling south on Arlington Heights Road and was attempting to make a right turn onto Hintz Road when another vehicle pulled in front of her. He said she swerved to avoid hitting the car, causing her to collide with the car driven by Young. Police charged her with not having her vehicle under control.

Pedersen said all the injured were taken to the hospital. He said, "If they didn't have their seat belts on the passengers would have possibly been killed or seriously injured. The whole front of Young's car was ripped off."

Will Demos Stay in Shadow?

by ED MURNANE

Suburban Democratic organizations are likely to remain in the shadow of their Republican counterparts unless they seriously examine their attitudes toward themselves and unless the attitude of the Cook County Democratic central committee toward the suburbs is similarly examined.

That is the opinion of Aaron Jaffe, deputy Democratic committeeman of Niles Township, in a report presented to the Democratic National Committee's Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection (McGovern Commission) Saturday.

Jaffe's Niles Township is the only one of 30 Cook County townships which went Democratic last November. Niles Township gave Hubert Humphrey 56.1 per cent of the vote. Next highest percentage for the Democrats was Evanston Township, which gave the former vice president 44.4 per cent.

'Jaffe's report accuses the Democratic Party of Cook County of failing to embark "on a specific program to strengthen the party in those areas (suburbs), despite the fact that the suburban areas have grown tremendously since World War II."

HE SAID THE party will not be able to grow until the county central committee "completely reassesses its attitudes toward these areas."

The central committeee, Jaffe said, still thinks of the suburban areas as they were thought of 20, 30 and 40 years ago. "The fact that the suburban areas have had tremendous population growth since World War II seems to be overlooked," he said.

He said the party has never given suburban members the same treatment that city members get and that appointments and nominations are usually from the city.

"This discourages people who would be active in Democratic politics in suburbia from becoming involved," Jaffe said. "As a result, people who can do things for the party and provide leadership are removed, discouraged and stifled. The Democratic Party must be opened up to all of its various factions and not merely to the old line political leaders and their proteges."

Jaffe also is critical of the attitudes suburban Democratic organization shave toward themselves. He said they must take several steps to "correct their own mistakes of the past."

FIRST, HE SAID, they should develop their own programs, tailored to the needs of their own communities, in order to establish their own identity.

"The intersts of suburban organizations sometimes vary greatly from the interests of city organizations," he said. "By not developing their own programs, people tend to think of suburban organizations merely as extensions of the 'giant city organization.' "

Jaffe said this image hurts the organization because suburban people want their own individual identity.

He referred to last April's municipal election in Skokie — a town that the Democrats carried by 10,000 votes in November. The main issue in the campaign, Jaffe said, became the Democratic label, and the Republican-backed opposition claimed Skokie would become "the 51st Ward of Chicago."

Jaffe called the charge ridiculous, but said the implication that the local party was an extension of the "Daley machine" was enough to cause its defeat.

"THIS ELECTION showed clearly that a suburban area which was supposedly predominately Democratic and liberal would abandon the party if the people thought that the local organization was merely an extension of the Democratic Party of the City of Chicago and would be swallowed by it."

Suburban Democratic organizations also must become issue-oriented and must stress programs that will have the participation of the youth and women of the community, he said

"Suburban organizations must bring issues to the people. The people in these areas tend to be more independent and increasingly look more at the issues than to the party."

Jaffe said the youth and women should be encouraged to participate and indicated that they haven't in the past because they haven't been allowed to participate

"It should be noted that Cook County Young Democrats hold out virtually no promise of anything new or refreshing to the youth of today," Jaffe said "The Cook County Young Democratic Organization has been dominated to a great extent by the same group of people for a long period of time who use this organization as their power base.

"IT WOULD APPEAR that the parent organization encourages this type of leadership because it is safe and controllable "

Jaffe's report concludes by urging the party to study why suburban Democrats have been known to split their vote much more than suburban Republicans

"For some reason, the suburban Republican voter feels it is fashionable to vote a straight ticket while the suburban Democrat feels it is equally fashionable to split his ticket."

Jaffe said attempts must be made to keep Democratic voters as loyal to the party as Republican voters have been.

Publisher Roe Becomes 13th Dist. Candidate

by MARTHA MOSER

Emphasizing greater people involvement in government and outlining concerns he would take to Congress, Hollister Newspapers' publisher David Roe announced his candidacy Monday for 13th District congressman

Roe joins six other Republican candidates in the Oct 7 GOP primary. A Nov. 25 special election will select a congressman to succeed Donald Rumsfeld, director of the U S Office of Economic Opportunity

Roe, 33, of Glenview, said he was entering the race because of a "deep desire to contribute to this country through government service." He spoke at a press conference in the Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect

HE CITED 10 YEARS of newspaper work in the 13th District as a background of awareness of problems. He announced he is leaving Hollister, effective that day, to campaign. Roe mentioned 13th District problems cannot be packaged out of national issues.

"The important thing is what the district can contribute," he said on questioning. "I'd hope to bring an understanding of what the district wants to contribute."

He said his news record stands for support of what might be considered unpopular issues

In a prepared speech, Roe said "Private citizens must contribute to government if our country is to respond effectively to the electorate."

"I INTEND TO CARRY into government my newspaper campaigns for greater government responsiveness to the people."

He listed measures he has supported to bring government to the electorate as: Open meetings of all governing bodies, greater public access to government information, strong conflict of interest laws, election reform, increased home rule, open primaries and fairer representation of suburbs through reapportionment.

He cited open space, public transportation, and environmental improvement as areas he will fight for.

Roe promised "no panaceas" to problems. While presenting well-prepared views on issues of Vietnam, ABM and welfare, he cautioned he would want to measure points of view and costs before deciding on particular courses of action.

THE CANDIDATE SAID he has been a resident of Lincolnshire in Lake County the last two years but is moving to his home in Glenview this week. He has been a New Trier Township resident most of his life, he said.

Roe joined Hollister Newspapers in 1959 and has seen the north shore chain of papers grow from six to 10. He became managing editor in 1960 at age 24, subsequently becoming associate editor, vice president and a member of the Hollister board of directors.

He joins in the Republican primary, the announced candidates of Gerald Marks of Wilmette, Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka, Rep. Alan Johnston of Kenilworth, Rep Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, Alban Weber of Evanston and Bruce Ladd of Silver Springs, Md

Others named by the Republican state Central Committee as possible candidates are Yale Roe (no relation to Monday's candidate), Mrs Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights and John Nimrod of Skokie

Call School Tax Hike Must

by SUE CARSON

Passage of the 21 cent school tax hike in Dist. 23 on June 28 is deemed an absolute "must" by district Supt. Edward Grodsky.

"We're at the brink of no return. The longer the people delay passing this referendum, the more money the district will have to borrow and the more precarious our financial position will become," he declared.

Passage of the referendum, would increase the school tax on homes from $1.60 to $1.81, boosting the total revenue of the district an estimated $50,000 yearly. The new taxes won't reach homeowners until 1971 however, and funds won't be available to the schools until the spring of 1970 at the earliest. In an election April 15, voters turned down the proposal by a vote of 523 to 474.

Evidence of the financial bind the district finds itself in, shows in the proposed budget for 1969-70. If this budget is adopted, the district will operate with a $290,000 deficit in the educational fund.

THOUGH THE DISTRICT expects to receive an additional $97,000 in state aid this year, total expenditures in the educational fund have been set at $1,563,420, and total revenue at only $1,233,428. The difference will be made up by issuing $290,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants (TAW's).

TAW's are loans which allow a school district to receive additional operating money immediately, instead of waiting until more tax revenues are collected. The loans must be paid back, with interest, when the anticipated tax funds are made available.

If the proposed budget is adopted after a public hearing scheduled for July 7, and the district does issue $290,000 worth of TAW's it will be borrowing about 66 per cent of the total amount of taxes it expects to collect in the coming year.

Even if the June 28 referendum passes, Dist. 23 still won't be out of the red. The extra money, which won't be available until the spring of 1970 at the earliest, will be used only to reduce the TAW load from 66 to 50 per cent.

"IF THIS REFERENDUM doesn't pass, some $85,000 will probably have to be cut from the educational fund in the 1970-71 budget," Grodsky said.

"I don't know where cuts would be made," he continued. "Larger classes or even split shifts might be the result, though these decisions would be up to the school board, not to me. I don't want to sound like I'm making any threats.

"The referendum simply must be approved. I don't know what else I can do to explain our situation to the voters. I've presented the facts over and over again," he sighed

John Stull, Dist 23 board member, said there is no guarantee that the schools will go on split shifts if the referendum loses. "I wouldn't want to see this happen, but some board members are convinced that this would be the case if the referendum doesn't pass," Stull said.

The financial problem now plaguing Dist. 23 has resulted from ever-increasing operational costs and rising salaries, a phenomenom common to all area school district. The squeeze is especially tight in Dist. 23, however, because therea re almost no industries to help support the tax load. Individual homeowners must bear the burden themselves

AND THE PROBLEM is likely to continue, for Grodsky estimated that enrollment is growing at the rate of 8 to 10 per cent a year. Some 1,800 students will be attending the three elementary schools and two junior highs next fall.

One of the junior high school, Dwight D. Eisenhower, is scheduled to open its doors for the first time in September, and the superintendent estimated that another elementary school will be needed in the northwest corner of the district in two or three years.

"It might be needed even sooner if builders decide to put up a lot of new houses and apartments," he said.

Summer Sign-Up At 2 Parks

Registration for summer in Arlington Heights Park District's programs is being conducted at two locations in the village.

The two sites for registration are Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., and Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave. Office hours are from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and 1:15 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Activities planned by Park District include tennis lessons, modern dance classes, tiny tots programs, dramatics classes and handicrafts classes. The first session for these activities will run from June 23 through July 18 and the second session will run July 21 through Aug. 15.

A schedule of the days and times of classes will be available for residents when they register. Activities are described in the summer program pamphlet available at Recreation and Pioneer Parks.

REGISTRATION FOR learn-to-swim classes will be held on the Saturdays before each session begins. Residents may register for all other activities and buy swimming pool passes from now until the activities begin.

If residents buy their season passes for swimming pools this week, they can use them for the first time on Saturday when the district's pools will officially open. The pools will be open for public swimming from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays and from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m. weekdays.

It costs $20 for a family pass which covers parents and children living at home.

An adult pass will cost $12 for the summer. An adult is classified as anyone who is old enough to have completed his first year of high school. Children's passes will be $8.

The park district will offer various activities at 11 park sites this summer, including Recreation and Pioneer Parks.

THE LIST OF other locations where activities will be offered includes Raven Park, Berkley Drive and Highland Avenue; Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude St.; Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave.; Ivy Hill School, 2211 N. Burke Drive, and Dryden School, 700 S. Dryden Place.

More locations are Arlington High School, 605 W. Euclid St.; Patriots Park, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd.; Greenbrier School, 2330 N. Verde Drive, and Greens Park, Olive Street and Douglas Avenue.

Coroner Blames Heart Attack

A heart attack was blamed Monday for the death of a 66-year-old Arlington Heights man, whose body was found Sunday afternoon in a neighbor's basement.

A coroner's inquest at the Cook County morgue ruled that Paul Petersen, 710 E. St. James, died of heart failure.

Arlington Heights police said a visitor to the house owned by Vivian Lendheim, 318 N. Beverly, told them that the man, dressed in pajamas,was lying face down in four to six inches of water at the bottom of the basement stairs.

The body was taken to Northwest Community Hospital where Petersen was pronounced dead on arrival. His nephew, Terry Audette, identified the body and told police the man had had a stroke a few weeks ago.

A friend of Petersen's told police that they played golf Saturday afternoon at the Rolling Green Country Club, and that h dropped Petersen home about 1 a.m. Audette said he had not heard his uncle return home Saturday night.

Mrs. Lendheim said she didn't let him in the house but that she leaves all her doors unlocked.

The visitor, Mrs. Joyce Patrick, said she was at the house to pick up a ceramic kiln, which she had purchased from Mrs. Lendheim. She said the kiln was in the basement and when she opened the door she saw Petersen's body lying at the foot of the stairs.

Solicitation Bills Clear

Two bills co-sponsored by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, to regulate door-to-door solicitation have cleared the Senate Committee on Registration and Miscellany.

The bills, HB 107 and 108, were introduced to grant local government the power to license and regulate direct selling, a power heretofore denied municipalities.

The two bills will now go to the Illinois Senate for approval, after passage recently by the House.

They would permit direct sellers to either "register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation."

THE DEPARTMENT is authorized to revoke or suspend solicitor permits based on certain guidelines, the same guidelines set down for municipalities.

Both bills have aroused strong interest in Wheeling, which has a solicitation ordinance considered tougher than Schlickman's bill. However, a recent decision oy the First District Appellate Court ruled that Wheeling had no statutory authority to enact a nonsolicitation ordinance.

Roadblocks Go Up Today

Motorists on Arlington Heights Road gained a one-day reprieve Saturday on a plan to close the two southbound lanes of that road. However, the road blocks will go up this morning.

Al Sander, village engineer, said a last-minute delay in obtaining permission to start work on a sewer project on Sigwalt delayed the project's Monday starting date.

However, the project will begin this morning between 9 and 10, when road crews erect signs and channel traffic off onto Evergreen, which will serve as the alternate route for motorists.

SIGWALT BETWEEN Arlington Heights Road and Evergreen will be blockaded for the construction. Most of Evergreen will remain two-way, except the portion between Sigwalt and South Street, which will be cut to one-way southbound.

Arlington Heights Road will be cut to two northbound lanes for only two weeks, barring unforeseen delays, Sander said.

Predicts Pennant for Cubs

A prediction of a National League pennant for the Chicago Cubs was made by Irene Hughes during the annual Awards and Installation Banquet of the Arlington Heights Jaycees Friday night.

Mrs. Hughes, psychic and ESP expert, writes a column which appears in 21 newspapers. During Mrs. Hughes' free-wheeling discussion of events to come, she predicted the nation will mourn the death of a national figure this month.

"I cannot see a U.S. astronaut on the moon this year, but someone. . .in 1970," she said.

Included in events which Mrs. Hughes predicts for the future are a violent eruption of Mount Etna in Sicily with an "unbelievable" loss of life and property some time between June 15 and July 15, to be followed by a natural disaster of less severity in California; peace in Vietnam with American soldiers returning home in 1969; discovery of a preventative for cancer this year which will come into widespread use in 1970, and a major downswing in the stock market.

MRS. HUGHES said she had made many of these predictions two or three years ago for the first time. She said she has recorded in personal notebooks "vibrations" she has received for events that will happen through the year 2046. Based on her past predictions, Mrs. Hughes said she has a 90 per cent accuracy on her predictions.

During the program, Ed Stocking, 1830 N. Ridge, was named Jaycee of the Year, and incoming president Howard Rosley, 505 S. Gibbons, was named Key Man of the Year.

The top salesman award for the year was presented to Bob Clark, 527 S. Dryden. The outstanding records and recognition award was won by Paul Delia, 31 N. Prindle. Mary Gillette, 412 S. Belmont, was named most active Jaycee wife.

A $1,600 check representing proceeds from the Jaycees' annual spring sand sales was given to Jerry Beauvais, president of the Board of Clearbrook Center for Retarded Children. Proceeds from the annual sale are pledged to the school by the Jaycees.

Reports on Parks On Board Agenda

Reports on construction of new parks and the status of the proposed park site at Hickory Meadows Retention Basin will be heard by the Arlington Heights Park Board tonight.

Board members will hold their regular meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.

Also included on the board's agenda is the introduction of new recreation supervisors recently hired by the Park District.

Board members will decide on the type of automatic telephone answering equipment to be purchased for use in the park district office.

View Book Funds

Library Atty. R. Marlin Smith, will report on the use of excess construction funds for books at tonight's meeting of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library board.

Smith advised trustees last month that he wished to do a thoroUH review of the Library Services and Construction Act before the board voted to use the $150,000 surplus funds for book acquisitions.

Construction of the library building was authorized in 1966 when voters approved the selling of bonds for building and necessary equipment. The question facing the board is whether books are included in the "necessary equipment" category.

There is no legal precedent on the issue and trustees said before the May referendum that voter approval to raise the tax rate and issue bonds for books might also serve as informal endorsement of the switch in funds for additional book purchases.

TRUSTEES ESTIMATE that it will take at least four years and over $650,000 to bring the library to the "two-book per capita" standard recommended by the American Library Association.

Also on the agenda for tonight's meeting is a report from Smith on the $500,000 bond sale for books, approved by residents last month. As interest rates increase, the chances for sale of the bonds diminish. The bonds must be sold at 5 per cent, and the library has 13-14 months in which to complete the sale.

A bill, introduced by State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, is currently pending in Springfield which will raise the interest rate on library bonds to 6 per cent. If passed by both houses, it still will not benefit the library's current bond crop as the 5 per cent rate appeared on the May 17 ballot. To take advantage of a higher rate trustees must ask residents to visit the polls again.
